

Congressional Research Service

Informing the legislative debate since 1914

Social Security: Major Decisions in the House and Senate Since 1935

Updated June 22, 2023

Congressional Research Service

<https://crsreports.congress.gov>

RL30920

Social Security: Major Decisions in the House and Senate Since 1935

Social Security—formally known as Old-Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance—was enacted in 1935 and has been amended numerous times. Lists and summaries of individual major Social Security amendments may illuminate the tone and context of the debate of the program in the House and Senate. Major statutory decisions made by Congress on the Social Security program, vote information, summaries of major legislative actions, and descriptions of floor amendments and congressional debate may be informative to current discussions of the Social Security program.

During the 117th Congress, no legislation was enacted to amend the Social Security program or directly alter its financing provisions. Consequently, the most recent legislation discussed in this report was enacted during the 116th Congress.

RL30920

June 22, 2023

Tamar B. Breslauer
Senior Research Librarian

William R. Morton
Analyst in Income Security

Contents

Introduction	1
Chamber Votes.....	3
P.L. 271—74 th Congress, Enactment of the Social Security Act.....	3
House Action.....	4
Senate Action	6
Conference Action	7
P.L. 379—76 th Congress, Social Security Act Amendments of 1939.....	7
House Action.....	8
Senate Action	10
Conference Action	10
Payroll Tax Freeze, 1942-1947	10
P.L. 492—80 th Congress, 1948 Provision for Exclusion of Certain Newspaper and Magazine Vendors from Social Security Coverage (H.R. 5052) and P.L. 642—80 th Congress, 1948 Provision to Maintain Status Quo Concept of Employee.....	12
House Action.....	13
Senate Action	13
Veto	13
Veto Override	14
P.L. 734—81 st Congress, Social Security Act Amendments of 1950.....	14
House Action.....	15
Senate Action	16
Conference Action	17
P.L. 590—82 nd Congress, Social Security Act Amendments of 1952	17
House Action.....	17
Senate Action	18
Conference Action	18
P.L. 761—83 rd Congress, Social Security Amendments of 1954.....	18
House Action.....	19
Senate Action	19
Conference Action	20
P.L. 880—84 th Congress, Social Security Amendments of 1956.....	20
House Action.....	21
Senate Action	21
Conference Action	22
P.L. 85-840, Social Security Amendments of 1958.....	22
House Action.....	22
Senate Action	22
House Concurrence.....	23
P.L. 86-778, Social Security Amendments of 1960.....	23
House Action.....	24
Senate Action	24
Conference Action	25
P.L. 87-64, Social Security Amendments of 1961.....	25
House Action.....	25
Senate Action	26
Conference Action	26
Proposed Social Security Amendments of 1964	27

House Action.....	27
Senate Action	27
Conference Action	27
P.L. 89-97, Social Security Amendments of 1965.....	28
House Action.....	28
Senate Action	29
Conference Action	30
P.L. 89-368, Tax Adjustment Act of 1966	31
House Action.....	31
Senate Action	31
Conference Action	31
P.L. 90-248, Social Security Amendments of 1967.....	32
House Action.....	32
Senate Action	32
Conference Action	33
P.L. 91-172, Tax Reform Act of 1969	33
House Action.....	33
Senate Action	34
Conference Action	34
P.L. 92-5, Public Debt Limit Increase; Social Security Amendments.....	34
House Action.....	34
Senate Action	35
Conference Action	35
P.L. 92-336, Public Debt Limit; Disaster losses; Social Security Act Amendments.....	35
House Action.....	36
Senate Action	36
House Response to Senate Amendment.....	36
Conference Action	37
P.L. 92-603, Social Security Amendments of 1972.....	37
House Action.....	38
Senate Action	38
Conference Action	38
P.L. 93-233, Social Security Benefits Increase	39
House Action.....	39
Senate Action	39
Conference Action	40
P.L. 95-216, Social Security Amendments of 1977.....	40
House Action.....	41
Senate Action	43
Conference Action	44
P.L. 96-265, Social Security Disability Amendments of 1980.....	45
House Action.....	45
Senate Action	46
Conference Action	46
P.L. 96-403, Reallocation of OASI and DI Taxes	47
House Action.....	47
Senate Action	47
P.L. 96-473, Retirement Test Amendments	47
House Action.....	48
Senate Action	48

House Concurrence.....	49
Senate Concurrence	49
P.L. 97-35, Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981	49
Senate Action	50
House Action.....	50
Conference Action	51
P.L. 97-123, Social Security Amendments of 1981.....	51
House Action.....	52
Senate Action	52
Conference Action	53
P.L. 97-455, An Act Relating to Taxes on Virgin Island Source Income and Social Security Disability Benefits	53
Senate Action	54
House Action.....	54
Conference Action	55
P.L. 98-21, Social Security Amendments of 1983.....	55
House Action.....	55
Senate Action	56
Conference Action	57
P.L. 98-460, Social Security Disability Benefits Reform Act of 1984.....	57
House Action.....	58
Administrative Action.....	58
Senate Action	59
Conference Action	59
P.L. 99-177, Public Debt Limit—Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985	59
House Action.....	60
Senate Action	60
Conference Action	60
S.Con.Res. 32, Proposed COLA Constraints in FY1986 Budget Resolution	60
Senate Action	61
House Action.....	61
Conference Action	62
P.L. 99-509, Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986	62
Senate Action	62
House Action.....	62
Conference Action	63
P.L. 100-203, Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1987	63
House Action.....	63
Senate Action	63
Conference Action	64
P.L. 100-647, Technical and Miscellaneous Revenue Act of 1988	64
House Action.....	64
Senate Action	64
Conference Action	64
P.L. 101-239, Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1989	65
House Action.....	65
Senate Action	65
Conference Action	65
P.L. 101-508, Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990	66

House Action.....	66
Senate Action	66
Conference Action	67
P.L. 103-66, Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993	67
House Action.....	68
Senate Action	68
Conference Action	68
House Action as Modified	69
Senate Action as Modified.....	69
Conference Action as Modified	69
P.L. 103-296, Social Security Administrative Reform Act of 1994	70
House Action.....	70
Senate Action	70
Conference Action	71
P.L. 103-387, Social Security Domestic Reform Act of 1994.....	71
House Action.....	71
Senate Action	71
Conference Action	71
P.L. 104-121, Senior Citizens Right to Work Act of 1996	72
House Action.....	72
Senate Action	72
P.L. 106-170, Ticket to Work and Work Incentives Improvement Act of 1999	73
House Action.....	73
Senate Action	73
Conference Action	73
P.L. 106-182, Senior Citizens Right to Work Act.....	73
House Action.....	74
Senate Action	74
Conference Action	74
P.L. 108-203, Social Security Protection Act of 2004.....	74
House Action.....	76
Senate Action	76
House Response to Senate Action.....	76
P.L. 111-312, Tax Relief, Unemployment Insurance Reauthorization, and Job Creation Act of 2010	77
House Action.....	77
Senate Action	77
House Action as Amended.....	77
Senate Action as Amended.....	77
House Action Approved Amendment	78
P.L. 112-78, Temporary Payroll Tax Cut Continuation Act of 2011	78
House Action.....	78
Senate Action	78
P.L. 112-96, Middle Class Tax Relief and Job Creation Act of 2012.....	78
House Action.....	79
Senate Action	79
House Action as Agreed.....	79
Senate Action as Agreed	79
P.L. 113-270, No Social Security for Nazis Act.....	79
House Action.....	80

Senate Action	81
P.L. 114-74, Bipartisan Budget Act of 2015.....	81
Changes to Social Security’s Filing Rules	81
Social Security Payroll Tax Reallocation.....	83
House Action.....	83
Senate Action	83
P.L. 115-8, Providing for congressional disapproval under chapter 8 of title 5, United States Code, of the rule submitted by the Social Security Administration relating to Implementation of the NICS Improvement Amendments Act of 2007	84
House Action.....	84
Senate Action	85
P.L. 115-59, Social Security Number Fraud Prevention Act of 2017.....	85
House Action.....	85
Senate Action	85
P.L. 115-165, Strengthening Protections for Social Security Beneficiaries Act of 2018	85
House Action.....	86
Senate Action	87
P.L. 115-243, Tribal Social Security Fairness Act of 2018	87
House Action.....	87
Senate Action	87
P.L. 115-174, Economic Growth, Regulatory Relief, and Consumer Protection Act	87
Senate Action	88
House Action.....	88
P.L. 116-250, ALS Disability Insurance Access Act of 2019.....	89
Senate Action	89
House Action.....	90
P.L. 116-260, Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2021	90
House Action.....	91
Senate Action	91

Tables

Table 1. Social Security Laws, 1935-2020.....	1
-----------------------------------------------	---

Appendixes

Appendix. List of Acronyms	93
----------------------------------	----

Contacts

Author Information.....	93
-------------------------	----

Introduction

The Social Security Act of 1935 established a federal old-age pension financed with employee-employer payroll taxes. Since then, Congress has amended the Social Security program for multiple purposes, including to expand coverage, change the minimum age for retirement benefits, provide an automatic cost-of-living adjustment to benefits, and address concerns about solvency of the Social Security trust funds.

This report traces the major decisions affecting the Social Security program, from the earliest enacting legislation through the most recent congressional session. It provides a summary of the provisions and voting records for each bill, focusing on amendments to Old-Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance (OASDI), which is the formal name of Social Security. A list of abbreviations used in the report can be found in the Appendix.

For an overview of the Social Security program, see CRS Report R42035, Social Security Primer, by Barry F. Huston.

Table 1 lists major Social Security legislation from 1935 through 2020 (116th Congress). During the 117th Congress, no legislation was enacted to amend the Social Security program or to directly alter its financing provisions.

Table 1. Social Security Laws, 1935-2020

Year	Title	Public Law	Bill Number
1935	Social Security Act	P.L. 74-271 ^a	H.R. 7260
1939	Social Security Act Amendments of 1939	P.L. 76-379 ^a	H.R. 6635
1942	Revenue Act of 1942	P.L. 77-753 ^a	H.R. 7378
1943	Joint Resolution Regarding Tariff Act	P.L. 78-211 ^a	H.J.Res. 171
1943	Revenue Act of 1943	P.L. 78-235 ^a	H.R. 3687
1944	Federal Insurance Contributions Act of 1945	P.L. 78-495 ^a	H.R. 5564
1945	Revenue Act of 1945	P.L. 79-214 ^a	H.R. 4309
1946	Social Security Amendments of 1946	P.L. 79-719 ^a	H.R. 7037
1947	Social Security Amendments of 1947	P.L. 80-379 ^a	H.R. 3818
1948	Exclusion of Certain Newspaper and Magazine Vendors from Social Security Coverage	P.L. 80-492 ^a	H.R. 5052
1948	Maintain Status Quo Concept of Employee	P.L. 80-642 ^a	H.J.Res 296
1950	Social Security Act Amendments of 1950	P.L. 81-734 ^a	H.R. 6000
1952	Social Security Act Amendments of 1952	P.L. 82-590 ^a	H.R. 7800
1954	Social Security Amendments of 1954	P.L. 83-761 ^a	H.R. 9366
1956	Social Security Amendments of 1956	P.L. 84-880 ^a	H.R. 7225
1958	Social Security Amendments of 1958	P.L. 85-840	H.R. 13549
1960	Social Security Amendments of 1960	P.L. 86-778	H.R. 12580
1961	Social Security Amendments of 1961	P.L. 87-64	H.R. 6027
1964	Proposed Social Security Amendments of 1964	—	H.R. 11865
1965	Social Security Amendments of 1965	P.L. 89-97	H.R. 6675

Year	Title	Public Law	Bill Number
1966	Tax Adjustment Act of 1966	P.L. 89-368	H.R. 12752
1967	Social Security Amendments of 1967	P.L. 90-248	H.R. 12080
1969	Tax Reform Act of 1969	P.L. 91-172	H.R. 13270
1971	Public Debt Limit, Increase; Social Security Act, Amendments	P.L. 92-5	H.R. 4690
1972	Public Debt Limit; Disaster Losses; Social Security Act, Amendments	P.L. 92-336	H.R. 15390
1972	Social Security Amendments of 1972	P.L. 92-603	H.R. 1
1973	Social Security Benefits, Increase	P.L. 93-233	H.R. 11333
1977	Social Security Amendments of 1977	P.L. 95-216	H.R. 9346
1980	Social Security Disability Amendments of 1980	P.L. 96-265	H.R. 3236
1980	Reallocation of OASI and DI Taxes	P.L. 96-403	H.R. 7670
1980	Earnings Test Amendments	P.L. 96-473	H.R. 5295
1981	Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981	P.L. 97-35	H.R. 3982
1981	Social Security Amendments of 1981	P.L. 97-123	H.R. 4331
1983	An Act Relating to Taxes on Virgin Islands Source Income and Social Security Disability Benefits	P.L. 97-455	H.R. 7093
1983	Social Security Amendments of 1983	P.L. 98-21	H.R. 1900
1984	Social Security Disability Benefits Reform Act of 1984	P.L. 98-460	H.R. 3755
1985	Public Debt Limit—Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985	P.L. 99-177	H.J.Res. 372
1985	COLA Constraints in FY86 Budget Resolution	—	S.Con.Res. 32
1986	Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986	P.L. 99-509	H.R. 5300
1987	Budget Reconciliation Act of 1987	P.L. 100-203	H.R. 3545
1988	Technical and Miscellaneous Act of 1988	P.L. 100-647	H.R. 4333
1989	Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1989	P.L. 101-239	H.R. 3299
1990	Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990	P.L. 101-508	H.R. 5835
1993	Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993	P.L. 103-66	H.R. 2264
1994	Social Security Administrative Reform Act of 1994	P.L. 103-296	H.R. 4277
1994	Social Security Domestic Reform Act of 1994	P.L. 103-387	H.R. 4278
1996	Senior Citizens Right to Work Act of 1996	P.L. 104-121	H.R. 3136
1999	Ticket to Work and Work Incentives Improvement Act of 1999	P.L. 106-170	H.R. 1180
2000	Senior Citizens Freedom to Work Act	P.L. 106-182	H.R. 5
2004	Social Security Protection Act of 2004	P.L. 108-203	H.R. 743
2010	Tax Relief, Unemployment Insurance Reauthorization, and Job Creation Act of 2010	P.L. 111-312	H.R. 4853
2011	Temporary Payroll Tax Cut Continuation Act of 2011	P.L. 112-78	H.R. 3765
2012	Middle Class Tax Relief and Job Creation Act of 2012	P.L. 112-96	H.R. 3630
2014	No Social Security for Nazis Act	P.L. 113-270	H.R. 5739
2015	Bipartisan Budget Act of 2015	P.L. 114-74	H.R. 1314

Year	Title	Public Law	Bill Number
2016	Providing for congressional disapproval under chapter 8 of title 5, United States Code, of the rule submitted by the NICS Improvement Act of 2007	P.L. 115-8	H.J.Res 40
2017	Social Security Number Fraud Prevention Act of 2017	P.L. 115-59	H.R. 624
2018	Strengthening Protections for Social Security Beneficiaries Act of 2018	P.L. 115-165	H.R. 4547
2018	Tribal Social Security Fairness Act of 2018	P.L. 115-243	H.R. 6124
2018	Economic Growth, Regulatory Relief, and Consumer Protection Act	P.L. 115-174	S. 2155
2020	ALS Disability Insurance Access Act of 2019	P.L. 116-250	S. 578
2020	Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2021	P.L. 116-260	H.R. 133

Source: Table compiled by the Congressional Research Service (CRS).

- a. The printed law does not show the number of the Congress that passed it. The number is given here for reference purposes.

Chamber Votes

P.L. 271—74th Congress, Enactment of the Social Security Act

The Social Security Act became law on August 14, 1935, when President Franklin Roosevelt signed H.R. 7260. Title II of the act created a compulsory national old-age benefits program, covering nearly all workers in commerce and industry and providing monthly pensions for insured workers aged 65 or older. A benefit weighted toward lower-paid workers was to be based on cumulative wages and was to be payable beginning in 1942 to persons aged 65 or older who had paid Social Security taxes for at least five years. The benefit was to be withheld from otherwise qualified persons in any month in which they did any work. Under Title VIII of the act, a payroll tax of 1%, each, on employees and employers, payable on earnings up to $3,000 each year, was to be imposed on covered jobs as of January 1, 1937, and was scheduled to rise in steps to 3% each by 1949.

Besides old-age benefits, the act provided for a system of federal-state unemployment compensation funded with employer payroll taxes, and for grants to states to help fund assistance payments to certain categories of needy persons (i.e., the aged, the blind, and children under 16 who had been deprived of parental support), child welfare services, and maternal and child health services.

When the act was debated in Congress, prominent Republicans in the House and Senate made attempts to delete the provisions creating the old-age pension system. They said they preferred to rely solely on the assistance (i.e., charity/welfare) approach to help the aged. They argued that the payroll tax/insurance mechanism of the old-age benefits provisions might be unconstitutional and that it would impose a heavy tax burden on businesses that would retard economic development. Members of the minority stated, in the Ways and Means Committee’s report to the House, that the old-age benefits program (Title II) and the method by which the money was to be raised to pay for the program (Title VIII) established a “bureaucracy in the field of insurance in competition with private business.” They contended further that the program would “destroy old-age retirement systems set up by private industries, which in most instances provide more liberal benefits than are contemplated under Title II.”¹ Although some party members tried to remove the old-age benefits provisions, the majority of Republicans in both chambers nevertheless did vote for the final Social Security bill. During congressional debate, Democrats generally supported the proposed old-age benefits program, and the vast majority of Democrats voted for the final bill.

House Action

The Ways and Means Committee began holding executive sessions on the Social Security bill soon after the conclusion of its hearings on it in January and February of 1935.² The committee reported H.R. 7260 on April 5, 1935, with 17 Democrats voting in favor of the bill and all 7 Republicans voting “present.”³

Debate on the Social Security bill started in the House on April 11 and lasted until April 19, 1935. Approximately 50 amendments were offered, but none passed. According to Edwin Witte, a key player in the development of the Social Security Act, House leaders passed the word that they wanted all amendments defeated.⁴

Four particularly significant votes were Representative Monaghan’s amendment proposing a revised “Townsend plan” and Representative Connery’s amendment proposing the Lundeen plan, both of which (described below) called for a more generous social insurance system; Representative Treadway’s motion to recommit H.R. 7260 to delete the old-age benefits program and its related taxes; and the vote on final passage of the bill.

On April 18, 1935, Representative Monaghan (D-MT) offered an amendment, introduced in its original form by Representative Groarty (D-CA) and referred to as the Townsend plan, which required the federal government to pay a $200-a-month pension to everyone 60 years of age or older, to be financed by a 2% tax on “all financial” transactions (essentially a sales tax). (For more details on the Townsend plan, see discussion of the 1939 amendments below.) Representative Monaghan’s amendment, although less costly than the original Townsend plan, was rejected by a vote of 56 to 206.⁵

On April 18, 1935, Representative Connery (D-MA) offered an amendment that contained the provisions of a bill sponsored by Representative Lundeen (Farmer-Laborite-MN). The Lundeen bill, which was approved 7-6 by the House Labor Committee, called for the “establishment of a system of social insurance to compensate all workers and farmers, 18 years of age or older, in all ¹ U.S. Congress, House Committee on Ways and Means, The Social Security Bill, report to accompany H.R. 7260, 74th Cong., 1st sess., April 5, 1935, H.Rept. 615 (Washington, DC: GPO, 1935), p. 44.

² Edwin E. Witte, The Development of the Social Security Act (University of Wisconsin Press, 1963), p. 91. (Hereinafter cited as Witte, The Development of the Social Security Act.)

³ A reproduction of the Ways and Means Committee votes on 74 H.R. 7260 appears on p. 283 (PDF p. 293) of U.S. Congress, House Committee on Ways and Means, The Committee on Ways and Means: A Bicentennial History 1789-1989, 100th Cong., 1st Sess., January 1, 1989, H.Doc. 100-244, at <https://www.govinfo.gov/app/details/GPO-CDOC-100hdoc244>. The reproduction shows that the bill, H.R. 7260, passed committee by a vote of 17 (17-D, 0-R) to 0 (0-D, 0-R). The seven Republican members of the committee voted “present.” One Democratic member of the committee was absent and did not vote by proxy. For a list of committee membership in the 74th Congress by party, see p. 415 (PDF p. 425).

⁴ Witte, The Development of the Social Security Act, p. 98.

⁵ Congressional Record, April 18, 1935, House, p. 5958. The vote on the Townsend plan amendment was not taken by roll call, but by division. A division vote is taken as follows: Members in favor of a proposal stand and are counted by a presiding officer; then Members opposed stand and are counted. There is no record of how individual Members voted. The Members voting for the Townsend plan, however, were listed in newspapers. The majority of Members who voted for the Townsend plan were conservative Republicans who opposed the entire Social Security bill. Witte, The Development of the Social Security Act, p. 99.

industries, occupations, and professions, who are unemployed through no fault of their own....”⁶ Representative Lundeen’s plan offered higher benefits than the bill reported out of the Committee on Ways and Means, and it tied benefits to the cost of living. Under the Lundeen proposal, a more generous social insurance program was to be extended to all workers and farmers unable to work because of illness, old age, maternity, industrial injury, or any other disability. This system was to be financed by taxes falling most heavily on persons with higher incomes (by levying additional taxation on inheritances, gifts, and individual and corporation incomes of $5,000 or more per year). There was a division vote of 52 in favor and 204 opposed. Representative Connery asked for tellers. The Connery amendment was rejected by a 40-158 teller vote.⁷

On April 18, 1935, Representative Treadway (R-MA), the ranking minority Member of the Ways and Means Committee, offered an amendment to strike Title II, the old-age benefit provisions, from the bill. Representative Treadway was opposed to the old-age benefits provision and to the taxing provisions of Title VIII. He said that the financing arrangement was unconstitutional. He indicated that the tax would be particularly burdensome on industry, running up to 6% on payrolls. He said that “business and industry are already operating under very heavy burdens” and maintained that to add a payroll tax to their burden would probably cause more unemployment and more uncertainty.⁸ Representative Jenkins (R-OH), supporter of the Treadway amendment, stated that making each worker pay 3% of his money for old-age benefits, whether he wanted to or not, and requiring employers to do the same, was clearly unconstitutional. He said, “Why talk about wanting to relieve the Depression, why talk about charity, why talk about all these other things when you are placing a financial lash upon the backs of the people whose backs are breaking under a load of debts and taxes?” He described the old-age benefits system as “compulsion of the rankest kind.”⁹ The Treadway amendment was defeated by a 49-125 teller vote.¹⁰

On April 19, 1935, Representative Treadway made a motion to recommit H.R. 7260, including instructions to the Ways and Means Committee to strike out the old-age and unemployment insurance provisions and to increase the federal contribution for the welfare program of old-age assistance, Title I of the bill.¹¹ Representative Treadway stated that the old-age benefit and unemployment insurance provisions of the bill were not emergency measures and that they “would not become effective in time to help present economic conditions, but, on the contrary would be a definite drag on recovery.” He was opposed to levying a tax against both the employer and the employee. During his remarks on April 12, 1935, he stated that he would “vote most strenuously in opposition to the bill at each and every opportunity.”¹² During his April 19, 1935, remarks, Representative Treadway said he was disgusted “at the attitude of business in that it has not shown the proper interest in protecting itself by stating its case before Congress.”¹³ His motion to recommit was rejected by a vote of 149 (95-R, 45-D, 9-I) to 253 (1-R, 252-D).¹⁴

⁶ Congressional Record, April 18, 1935, House, in floor remarks by Rep. Lundeen, p. 5965.

⁷ Congressional Record, April 18, 1935, House, p. 5969. In the House, Members would file past tellers and be counted as for or against a measure, but they were not recorded by name. The teller vote has not been used in the House in many years and was never used in the Senate.

⁸ Congressional Record, April 18, 1935, House, in floor remarks by Rep. Treadway, p. 5990. Also see, Congressional Record, April 12, 1935, House, p. 5531.

⁹ Congressional Record, April 18, 1935, House, in floor remarks by Rep. Jenkins, p. 5993.

¹⁰ Congressional Record, April 18, 1935, House, p. 5994.

¹¹ Congressional Record, April 19, 1935, p. 6068.

¹² Congressional Record, April 12, 1935, House, in floor remarks by Rep. Treadway, p. 5531.

¹³ Congressional Record, April 19, 1935, House, in floor remarks by Rep. Treadway, p. 6053.

¹⁴ Congressional Record, April 19, 1935, House, Roll call no. 56, not voting 29, pp. 6068-6069.

On April 19, 1935, the House passed the Social Security bill by a vote of 372 (77-R, 288-D, 7-I) to 33 (18-R, 13-D, 2-I).¹⁵

Senate Action

There were also four major votes in the Senate: Senator Long's (D-LA) proposal to substitute taxes on wealth and property for the payroll tax; Senator Clark's amendment to exempt from coverage employees in firms with private pensions; Senator Hastings's motion to recommit; and the vote on final passage of the bill.

On June 17, 1935, Senator Long offered an amendment to liberalize the proposed old-age assistance program (Title I of the bill) and delete the payroll tax provisions (Title VIII and IX). In place of the payroll tax, Senator Long recommended that states levy a tax on wealth or property. Senator Long's amendment was rejected by voice vote.¹⁶

On June 19, 1935, Senator Clark (D-MO) offered an amendment to exempt from coverage under the old-age benefits system employees in firms with private old-age pension systems. This idea came from an official of a Philadelphia insurance brokerage firm that specialized in group annuity contracts. Proponents of the amendment stated that employees would benefit from more liberal private annuities that would be in true proportion to earnings and service; joint annuities to protect spouses; earlier retirement for disability; and other factors. Supporters of the amendment also maintained that the government would benefit because the reserves of private annuity plans would increase investment and create more income to tax. The Administration (being opposed to the amendment) argued that the amendment did not provide true retirement income guarantees because private pension programs could be cancelled, or the firm sponsoring them could go out of business. Critics maintained that the amendment discouraged the employment of older men. The Ways and Means Committee rejected the proposal and so did the Finance Committee (by a narrow margin), but when Senator Clark offered it as an amendment on the Senate floor, it was passed by a vote of 51 (16-R, 35-D) to 35 (3-R, 30-D, 2-I).¹⁷

On June 19, 1935, Senator Hastings (R-DE) made a motion to strike out the old-age benefits provisions from the bill. Senator Hastings stated that those provisions were an effort to write into law a forced annuity system for a certain group of people. He maintained that the reserve account to take care of people in the future was not a contract and the American public could not depend upon it. He stated that the accumulation of huge sums of money for persons who had not yet reached retirement age would be subjected to many demands and most likely could not be preserved intact. He also said "let us not deceive that youth by making him believe that here is an annuity whereby he is contributing 50% and his employer is contributing 50%, and that it goes to his credit, when as a matter of fact, part of it is taken from him in order that we may take care of the older people of today."¹⁸ Senator Hastings's amendment was rejected by a vote of 15 (12-R, 3-D) to 63 (7-R, 54-D, 2-I).¹⁹

On June 19, 1935, Senator George (D-GA) offered an amendment to encourage formation of industrial pensions as a substitute for Titles II and VIII. Under the amendment, employers were to operate and manage their own plans. The amendment called for a uniform schedule of benefits

¹⁵ Congressional Record, April 19, 1935, House, Roll call no. 57, not voting 25, pp. 6069-6070.

¹⁶ Congressional Record, June 17, 1935, Senate, pp. 9427-9437.

¹⁷ Congressional Record, June 19, 1935, Senate, not voting 9, p. 9631.

¹⁸ Congressional Record, June 17, 1935, Senate, in floor remarks by Sen. Hastings, p. 9422.

¹⁹ Congressional Record, June 19, 1935, Senate, not voting 17, p. 9648.

nationwide and provided for disability and survivor benefits along with old-age and unemployment benefits. The amendment was defeated by voice vote.²⁰

The Senate passed the bill on June 19, 1935, by a vote of 77 (15-R, 60-D, 2-I) to 6 (5-R, 1-D).²¹

Conference Action

The conferees settled all differences except on the Clark amendments related to employees under private pension plans. The conference committee reported the bill without the Clark amendments, but with an understanding that the chairmen of the Ways and Means and Finance Committees would appoint a special joint committee to study whether to exempt industrial employers with private pension plans from coverage under Social Security and to report to the next Congress.²²

On July 17, 1935, the House rejected Representative Treadway's motion to accept the Clark amendment by a vote of 78 to 268;²³ then agreed by a vote of 269 to 65 to a motion by Representative Doughton (D-NC) that the House insist that the Senate drop the Clark amendment.²⁴

On July 17, 1935, the Senate agreed, by voice vote, to Senator Harrison's motion to insist on keeping the Clark amendment and ask for a further conference.²⁵

On August 8, 1935, the conference report cleared the House by a voice vote.²⁶

On August 9, 1935, the Senate conferees agreed to delete the Clark amendment;²⁷ the Senate then agreed to the conference report by a voice vote.²⁸

P.L. 379—76th Congress, Social Security Act Amendments of 1939

H.R. 6635, the Social Security Act Amendments of 1939, was signed into law on August 10, 1939, by President Franklin Roosevelt. Congress expressly provided in the 1935 Act that the Social Security Board (a three-member panel appointed by the President with advice and consent of the Senate) study and make recommendations on the most effective methods of providing economic security through social insurance. An advisory council appointed by the Senate Special Committee on Social Security and the Social Security Board was created in May 1937 to work with the Social Security Board to study amending Titles II and VII of the Social Security Act. Some members of the advisory council represented employees, some represented employers, and others represented the general public. Both the Social Security Board and the advisory council made recommendations on how the old-age benefits program should be changed, and many of their recommendations were the same. President Roosevelt sent the Social Security Board's

²⁰ Congressional Record, June 19, 1935, Senate, p. 9650.

²¹ Congressional Record, June 19, 1935, Senate, not voting 12, p. 9646.

²² The issue, however, does not appear to have emerged in subsequent Social Security legislation. It has been said that deferring the Clark amendment was crucial to the passage of the bill (Derthick, Martha, Policymaking for Social Security. The Brookings Institution, 1979, p. 282). (Hereinafter cited as Derthick, Policymaking for Social Security.)

²³ Congressional Record, July 17, 1935, House, Roll call no. 132, not voting 83, pp. 11342-11343.

²⁴ Congressional Record, July 17, 1935, House, Roll call no. 133, not voting 95, p. 11343.

²⁵ Congressional Record, July 17, 1935, Senate, p. 11310.

²⁶ Congressional Record, August 8, 1935, House, p. 12760.

²⁷ Congressional Record, August 9, 1935, Senate, pp. 12793-12794.

²⁸ Congressional Record, August 9, 1935, Senate, p. 12794.

recommendations to Congress on January 16, 1939. The 1939 amendments incorporated most of the board's recommendations.

The 1939 amendments extended benefits to dependents and survivors of workers covered by Social Security. Dependents included an aged wife, a child under 16 (under 18 if attending school), a widowed mother caring for an eligible child, an aged widow, and a dependent aged parent if there were no eligible widow or child. Widows would receive 75% of the primary insurance amount (PIA)²⁹ of the worker, and all other dependents would receive 50% of the PIA.

The starting date for monthly benefits was accelerated to January 1, 1940, instead of January 1, 1942. Benefits were based on average monthly wages rather than on cumulative wages. In addition, Congress repealed the tax rate increase to 1.5%, scheduled to go into effect in 1940, replacing it with an increase to 2% in 1943-1945. The amendments also modified qualifying provisions, including the definition of insured status, for consistency with other changes in the act.³⁰ Further, people receiving OASI benefits were permitted to earn up to $14.99 monthly: no benefits were to be paid in any month in which the recipient earned $15 or more in covered employment. The system now was called Old-Age and Survivors Insurance (OASI). Congress also changed the old-age reserve account to a trust fund, managed by a board of trustees.

House Action

On June 2, 1939, following public hearings on the proposed amendments and six weeks of executive sessions, the Committee on Ways and Means reported to the House H.R. 6635, embodying its recommendations for amendments to the Social Security Act. The day before, the House had debated on and voted against the Townsend old-age pension bill. The Townsend plan, embodied in H.R. 6466 introduced by Representative McGroarty (D-CA) in January 1935, was offered as a substitute for H.R. 6635.³¹ The Townsend plan would have provided a monthly pension of $200 to every citizen aged 60 or older who had not been convicted of a felony. To receive the pension, a person could not earn wages and was required to spend the entire pension within 30 days. The plan would have been financed by a 2% tax on every commercial and financial transaction; the President would have been given discretionary power to raise the tax to 3% or to lower it to 1%. During a 1935 Ways and Means Committee hearing, Representative Townsend stated that his plan was only incidentally a pension plan. He said the principal objectives of the proposal were to solve the unemployment problem and to restore prosperity by giving people purchasing power. He cited Census Bureau data that 4 million people over the age of 60 held jobs in 1930. He reiterated that to be eligible for the proposed pension of $200 a month, those elderly people would have to give up their jobs, which he said meant that 4 million jobs would become available to middle-aged and younger people. In addition, he said that requiring 8 million elderly persons to buy $200 worth of goods and services each month would increase demand and result in more jobs.³²

²⁹ The primary insurance amount (PIA) was the basic benefit amount for a worker who began receiving benefits at the age of 65.

³⁰ Benefits can be paid to workers or their dependents or survivors only if the worker is "insured" for these benefits. Insured status is measured in terms of "quarters of coverage." A person who had one year of coverage for every two years after 1936 and before death or reaching the age of 65 was fully insured.

³¹ The Townsend movement, led by Francis E. Townsend, a California doctor, began in 1934, survived for some 20 years, and was at its peak in the 1935-1941 period. See Derthick, Policymaking for Social Security, p. 193.

³² U.S. Congress, House Committee on Ways and Means, Economic Security Act, hearings on H.R. 4120, 74th Cong., 1st sess., January 21-31 and February 1, 2, 4-8, and 12, 1935 (Washington, DC: GPO, 1935), p. 680.

Representative Sabath (D-IL) said he thought it was “decidedly out of place to bring the Townsend bill to the floor.” He said that the bill “had no chance of passing in the first place; neither was it feasible nor possible of operation.”³³ Others branded the bill as “crackpot,” and in general objected because they thought that the Social Security program was a better means of caring for the aged, asserting that any liberalization of pensions should be done within the framework of the Social Security Act.

Edwin Witte wrote,

The members of the House of Representatives at all times took the Townsend movement much more seriously than did the senators. The thousands of letters that the members received in support of this plan worried them greatly. With the exception of probably not more than a half dozen members, all felt that the Townsend plan was utterly impossible; at the same time they hesitated to vote against it.³⁴

The House rejected H.R. 6466, the Townsend plan bill, on June 1, 1939, by a vote of 97 (55-R, 40-D, 2-I) to 302 (107-R, 194-D, 1-I).³⁵

A New York Times editorial reported that “the psychological effect of the presentation of the Townsend bill was to make these liberalized benefits, referring to the provisions in H.R. 6635, seem small. Most of those who voted against the Townsend plan will be eager to vote for these liberalized benefits to show that their hearts are in the right place. The result is that the real cost of the new Social Security scale of benefits is not likely to receive very serious attention.”³⁶

The House took up H.R. 6635 on June 6, 1939. The bill had the general support of the Ways and Means Committee. The minority stated in the committee’s report to the House that “while the bill in no sense represents a complete or satisfactory solution of the problem of Social Security, it at least makes certain improvements in the present law (some of which we have ourselves heretofore suggested) which we believe justify us in supporting it despite its defects.”³⁷

On June 9, 1939, Representative Havenner (D-CA) offered an amendment, endorsed by the American Federation of Labor, to extend Social Security coverage to workers employed in college clubs or fraternities or sororities; employees in nonprofit religious, charitable, or educational institutions; student nurses; and some agricultural workers. The amendment was rejected by voice vote.³⁸

On June 9, 1939, Representative Kean (R-NJ) offered an amendment that required that the money derived from the Social Security payroll tax be invested in one-year marketable U.S. government bonds rather than in special nonmarketable Treasury obligations. Representative Kean remarked that the adoption of the amendment would “prevent the present practice of using old-age taxes for current expenses.” The amendment was rejected by voice vote.³⁹

On June 9, 1939, Representative Carlson (R-KS) offered an amendment to exclude noncitizens from coverage under Social Security. He was opposed to putting foreigners under the U.S. old-age insurance provisions. Opponents of the amendment argued that exemption of such people

³³ Congressional Record, June 6, 1939, House, p. 6681.

³⁴ Witte, The Development of the Social Security Act, pp. 95-96.

³⁵ Congressional Record, June 1, 1939, House, Roll call no. 85, not voting 29, pp. 6524-6525.

³⁶ “The Townsend Plan Vote,” New York Times, June 2, 1939, Editorial page.

³⁷ U.S. Congress, House Committee on Ways and Means, Social Security Act Amendments of 1939, report to accompany H.R. 6635, 76th Cong., 1st sess., June 2, 1939, H.Rept. 728 (Washington, DC: GPO, 1939), p. 113.

³⁸ Congressional Record, June 9, 1939, House, p. 6935.

³⁹ Congressional Record, June 9, 1939, House, p. 6936.

would give employers of aliens a competitive advantage over vessels owned and manned by Americans. Representative Carlson's amendment was rejected 24 to 59 by a division vote.⁴⁰

On June 10, 1939, Representative Carlson moved to recommit H.R. 6635 to the Committee on Ways and Means. The motion was rejected by voice vote.⁴¹

On June 10, 1939, the House passed H.R. 6635 by a vote of 364 (142-R, 222-D) to 2 (2-R).⁴²

Senate Action

On July 13, 1939, Senator Downey (D-CA), in the course of his statement on how "unworkable, unjust, and unfair" the Social Security Act was, moved that the bill be recommitted to the Finance Committee for more study of the whole pension and savings field. Senator Downey stated that under H.R. 6635 covered workers in 1942 would receive only one-half as much in old-age benefits as those receiving government subsidies (old-age assistance benefits/cash relief). Under H.R. 6635, the average monthly Social Security benefit was projected at between $19 and $20 for 80% of workers in 1942, whereas the maximum old-age assistance benefit was $40. The motion was rejected by a vote of 18 (12-R, 5-D, 1-I) to 47 (4-R, 41-D, 2-I).⁴³

On July 13, 1939, Senator Reynolds (D-NC) offered an amendment to prohibit non-U.S. citizens from being eligible for Social Security coverage or benefits. Senator Harrison (D-MS) offered additional language to Senator Reynolds's amendment that allowed benefit payments to aliens if they lived within 50 miles of the United States. The amendment as modified was agreed to by voice vote.⁴⁴

The Senate passed H.R. 6635 on July 13, 1939, by a vote of 57 (8-R, 45-D, 4-I) to 8 (6-R, 2-D).⁴⁵

Conference Action

The conference report was approved by the House on August 4, 1939, by voice vote,⁴⁶ and by the Senate on August 5, 1939, by a vote of 59 (14-R, 42-D, 3-I) to 4 (4-D).⁴⁷

Payroll Tax Freeze, 1942-1947

Between 1942 and 1947, the Social Security payroll tax rate increase was postponed seven times. It was not until 1950 that the 1% Social Security tax rate was allowed to rise to 1.5%.

The Revenue Act of 1942, P.L. 753 (H.R. 7378, 77th Congress) was signed by President Franklin Roosevelt on October 21, 1942. It provided that for calendar year 1943, the payroll tax rate for old-age and survivors benefits would be frozen at the existing rate of 1% for employees and employers, each, instead of being increased to 2% on each as otherwise would have been required.

⁴⁰ Congressional Record, June 9, 1939, House, pp. 6937-6939.

⁴¹ Congressional Record, June 10, 1939, House, p. 6970.

⁴² Congressional Record, June 10, 1939, House, Roll call no. 91, not voting 63, pp. 6970-6971.

⁴³ Congressional Record, July 13, 1939, Senate, not voting 31, p. 9023.

⁴⁴ Congressional Record, July 13, 1939, Senate, p. 9030.

⁴⁵ Congressional Record, July 13, 1939, Senate, not voting 31, p. 9031.

⁴⁶ Congressional Record, August 4, 1939, House, p. 11092.

⁴⁷ Congressional Record, August 5, 1939, Senate, not voting 33, p. 11146.

P.L. 211 (H.J.Res. 171, 78th Congress), a joint resolution regarding the Tariff Act, signed by President Roosevelt on December 22, 1943, froze the payroll tax at the 1% rate until March 1, 1944. The purpose of the resolution was to give Congress time to consider the scheduled payroll tax increase before it went into effect.

The Revenue Act of 1943, P.L. 235 (H.R. 3687, 78th Congress), was vetoed by President Roosevelt on February 22, 1944; the veto was overridden by the House on February 24, 1944, and by the Senate on February 25, 1944. The bill deferred the scheduled payroll tax increase (from 1 to 2%) until 1945.

P.L. 235 also contained an amendment by Senator Murray (D-MT) that authorized the use of general revenues if payroll taxes were insufficient to meet Social Security benefit obligations. Senator Murray stated that the amendment merely stated in law what had been implied in the Senate committee report. Senator Vandenberg (R-MI) replied that the amendment “has no immediate application, it has no immediate menace, it contemplates and anticipates no immediate appropriation; but as the statement of a principle, I agree with the amendment completely.”⁴⁸ The amendment passed by voice vote.⁴⁹ The “Murray-Vandenberg” general revenue provision was repealed in 1950, when the tax rate was increased.

The Federal Insurance Contributions Act (FICA) of 1945, P.L. 495 (H.R. 5564, 78th Congress), signed by President Roosevelt on December 16, 1944, froze the payroll tax rate at 1% until 1946 and scheduled the payroll tax rate to rise to 2.5% for the years 1946 through 1948, and to 3% thereafter.

The Revenue Act of 1945, P.L. 214 (H.R. 4309, 79th Congress), signed by President Truman on November 8, 1945, deferred the tax rate increase until 1947.

The Social Security Amendments of 1946, P.L. 719 (H.R. 7037, 79th Congress), signed by President Truman on August 10, 1946, deferred the tax rate increase until 1948.

The Social Security Amendments of 1947, P.L. 379 (H.R. 3818, 80th Congress), signed by President Truman on August 6, 1947, continued the freeze on the tax rate increase until 1950 and provided that it would rise to 1.5% for 1950-1951 and to 2% thereafter.

Members who favored these payroll tax freezes argued that the Social Security reserves were adequate and that benefit payments in the immediate future could be met with the current payroll tax rate. In a 1942 letter to the Senate Finance Committee, President Roosevelt said that “a failure to allow the scheduled increase in rates to take place under the present favorable circumstances would cause a real and justifiable fear that adequate funds will not be accumulated to meet the heavy obligations of the future and that the claims for benefits accruing under the present law may be jeopardized.” He also stated that “expanded Social Security, together with other fiscal measures, would set up a bulwark of economic security for the people now and after the war and at the same time would provide anti-inflationary sources for financing the war.”⁵⁰ Members who were opposed to the freeze argued that the scheduled payroll tax increase was important for the long-term soundness of the OASI Trust Fund and that postponing the tax increase would mean higher payroll tax rates in the future and perhaps government subsidies to meet obligations. Some proponents of the freeze maintained that the Administration wanted the tax increase to retire the public debt accumulated by wartime expenditures.

⁴⁸ Congressional Record, January 19, 1944, Senate, in floor statement by Sen. Vandenberg, p. 374

⁴⁹ Congressional Record, January 19, 1944, Senate, p. 374.

⁵⁰ Congressional Record, October 9, 1942, Senate, pp. 7983-7984.

Although Senator Vandenberg (R-MI) was the main spokesman for postponing the payroll tax increases, the legislative effort to defer tax increases was bipartisan. “Without regard to party or ideology, elected representatives of the people were not willing to argue for increases in an earmarked tax if a current need for them could not be demonstrated,” one scholar observed.⁵¹

P.L. 492—80th Congress, 1948 Provision for Exclusion of Certain Newspaper and Magazine Vendors from Social Security Coverage (H.R. 5052) and P.L. 642—80th Congress, 1948 Provision to Maintain Status Quo Concept of Employee

Two pieces of 1948 legislation, H.R. 5052 and H.J.Res. 296, settled the argument of who was considered an employee for purposes of Social Security coverage. The term employee was not defined in the Social Security Act or in the Internal Revenue Code. However, in 1936, the Social Security Board and the Department of the Treasury issued regulations that to a certain extent explained the meaning of the terms employee and employer. In defining employer, both sets of regulations emphasized the concept of “control”—the right to give instructions—but other significant factors, such as the right to discharge, the furnishing of tools, and a place to work, were also mentioned in the regulations. During the next few years, the Social Security Board and the Department of the Treasury issued numerous rulings to clarify the boundaries of the employee-employer relationship and a number of court cases established generally applicable precedents. The common-law meaning of employee, however, was very unclear in cases of outside salesmen.⁵²

On December 31, 1946, the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of California, in the case of Hearst Publications, Inc. v. The United States, ruled that newspaper vendors should be considered employees rather than independent contractors. H.R. 5052, introduced in 1948, proposed to treat newspaper and magazine vendors as independent contractors rather than employees and thereby to exclude them from Social Security coverage. In addition, in 1948, Congress addressed the broader issue of who was to be considered an employee by passing H.J.Res. 296, a resolution to maintain the status quo of treating newspaper vendors as independent contractors, by stating that Congress, not the courts or the Social Security Administration (SSA), should determine national policy regarding Social Security coverage. It was reported that H.J.Res. 296 was introduced primarily to prevent the release of new federal regulations defining the meaning of employee along the lines interpreted by the Supreme Court in three cases decided in June 1947.⁵³ H.J.Res. 296 excluded from Social Security coverage (and unemployment insurance) any person who was not considered an employee under the common-law rules. In effect, H.J.Res. 296 said that independent contractors (e.g., door-to-door salesmen, insurance salesmen, and pieceworkers) were not to be considered employees. H.R. 5052 and H.J.Res. 296 were vetoed by President Truman. Congress overrode both vetoes.

In his veto of H.R. 5052, President Truman asserted that the nation’s security and welfare demanded that Social Security be expanded to cover the groups excluded from the program: “Any step in the opposite direction can only serve to undermine the program and destroy the confidence of our people in the permanence of its protection against the hazards of old age, premature death, and unemployment.”⁵⁴ The action taken on H.R. 5052 illustrated the controversial issues involved in determining who should be covered under Social Security.

⁵¹ Derthick, Policymaking for Social Security, p. 237.

⁵² Wilbur Cohen and James L. Calhoon, “Social Security Legislation. January-June 1948: Legislative History and Background,” Social Security Bulletin, vol. 11, no. 7, July 1948, pp. 3-11, at <https://www.ssa.gov/policy/docs/ssb/v11n7/v11n7p3.pdf>.

⁵³ Ibid.

House Action

On March 4, 1948, Representative Gearhart (R-CA) asked unanimous consent for immediate consideration of H.R. 5052. He stated that “until the rendition of the federal court decisions I have referred to were rendered the status of the newspaper and magazine vendors was considered by everyone, and as this Congress clearly intended, to be that of independent contractors since they bought their periodicals at a low price and sold them at a higher price, deriving their livelihood from the profit in the operation.” Under the court decisions⁵⁵ “these vendors were arbitrarily declared to be employees and therefore subject to the payroll taxes though the money they receive is not wages, as generally understood, but profits derived from an independent business operation of their own.” Under the court decisions, newspaper and magazine vendors were in essence employees of all of the newspaper and magazine companies with which they had an arrangement. H.R. 5052 excluded newspaper and magazine vendors from coverage under the Social Security Act. Representative Gearhart stated in his remarks that “when newspaper vendors are covered into the Social Security system—and I believe they will be by act of Congress before this session ends—they will be brought in as the independent contractors which they are, as the self-employed....” The House passed H.R. 5052 on March 4, 1948, by unanimous consent.⁵⁶

On February 27, 1948, H.J.Res. 296 was passed by a vote of 275 to 52.⁵⁷

Senate Action

On March 23, 1948, the Senate passed by unanimous consent H.R. 5052 in form identical to that passed by the House.⁵⁸

On June 4, 1948, H.J.Res. 296 was passed, after public assistance amendments increasing federal assistance to states were added, by a vote of 74 to 6.⁵⁹

Although there was no conference on H.J.Res. 296, the House concurred with the Senate amendments on June 4, 1948, by voice vote.⁶⁰

Veto

On April 6, 1948, in the veto message on H.R. 5052, President Truman stated that some vendors work under arrangements, “which make them bona fide employees of the publishers, and, consequently, are entitled to the benefits of the Social Security Act.” President Truman further stated that “It is said that news vendors affected by this bill could more appropriately be covered by the Social Security laws as independent contractors when and if coverage is extended to the self-employed. Whether that is true or not, surely they should continue to receive the benefits to which they are now entitled until the broader coverage is provided. It would be most inequitable

⁵⁴ Congressional Record, April 6, 1948, House, p. 4134.

⁵⁵ United States v. Silk (67 S. Ct. 1463), Harrison v. Grayvan Lines, Inc. (67 S. Ct. 1463), and Bartels v. Birmingham (67 S. Ct. 1547).

⁵⁶ Congressional Record, March 4, 1948, House, p. 2143.

⁵⁷ Congressional Record, February 27, 1948, House, Roll call no. 18, not voting 103, pp. 1908-1909.

⁵⁸ Congressional Record, March 23, 1948, Senate, p. 3267

⁵⁹ Congressional Record, June 4, 1948, Senate, not voting 16, p. 7134

⁶⁰ Congressional Record, June 4, 1948, House, p. 7215.

to extinguish their present rights pending a determination as to whether it is more appropriate for them to be covered on some other basis.”⁶¹

On June 14, 1948, President Truman vetoed H.J.Res. 296, saying that “If our Social Security program is to endure, it must be protected against these piecemeal attacks. Coverage must be permanently expanded and no employer or special group of employers should be permitted to reverse that trend by efforts to avoid the burden which millions of other employers have carried without serious inconvenience or complaint.”⁶²

Veto Override

The House overrode President Truman’s veto of H.R. 5052 and passed the bill on April 14, 1948, by a vote of 308 (207-R, 101-D) to 28 (2-R, 24-D, 2-I).⁶³ On April 20, 1948, the Senate overrode the President’s veto and passed H.R. 5052 by a vote of 77 (48-R, 29-D) to 7 (7-D).⁶⁴

On June 14, 1948, President Truman’s veto of H.J.Res. 296 was overridden in the House by a vote of 298 to 75⁶⁵ and in the Senate by a vote of 65 (37-R, 28-D) to 12 (2-R, 10-D).⁶⁶

P.L. 734—81st Congress, Social Security Act Amendments of 1950

H.R. 6000, the Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, was signed by President Truman on August 28, 1950. H.R. 6000 broadened the Social Security Act to cover roughly 10 million additional persons, including regularly employed farm and domestic workers; self-employed people other than doctors, lawyers, engineers, and certain other professional groups; certain federal employees not covered by government pension plans; and workers in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. On a voluntary group basis, coverage was offered to employees of state and local governments not under public employee retirement systems and to employees of nonprofit organizations. Dependent husbands, widowers, and, under certain circumstances children of insured women were also made eligible for benefits (before, such benefits were not generally available to children of female workers).

In addition, Congress raised benefits by about 77%; raised the wage base from $3,000 to $3,600; raised employer and employee taxes gradually from 1.5% to an ultimate rate of 3.25% each in 1970 and years thereafter; set the OASI tax rate for the self-employed at 75% of the combined employer-employee rate; eased requirements for eligibility for benefits by making 1950 the starting date for most people in determining the quarters of coverage needed; permitted recipients to have higher earnings ($50 a month) without losing any OASI benefits (i.e., those aged 75 or older could now earn any amount without losing OASI benefits); and gave free wage credits of $160 for each month in which military service was performed between September 16, 1940, and July 24, 1947.⁶⁷

⁶¹ Congressional Record, April 6, 1948, House, p. 4134.

⁶² Congressional Record, June 14, 1948, House, p. 8188.

⁶³ Congressional Record, April 14, 1948, House, Roll call no. 44, not voting 93, p. 4432.

⁶⁴ Congressional Record, April 20, 1948, Senate, not voting 12, p. 4594.

⁶⁵ Congressional Record, June 14, 1948, House, Roll call no. 105, not voting 57, p. 8191.

⁶⁶ Congressional Record, June 14, 1948, Senate, not voting 19, p. 8093.

⁶⁷ Several subsequent pieces of legislation during the early 1950s extended these wage credits to periods of service up to December 31, 1956. The 1967 amendments gave military wage credits of $300 per calendar quarter of service after 1967 (amended in 1972 to be effective in 1957). The 1977 amendments gave wage credits of $100 per $300 of basic pay, up to a maximum of $1,200 credit per year, beginning in 1978.

House Action

On August 22, 1949, the Committee on Ways and Means reported H.R. 6000. H.R. 6000 did not include President Truman's recommendations for health insurance or his request to lower the OASI eligibility age to 60 for women, but it did include disability protection for both Social Security and public assistance recipients. It also extended coverage to farm and domestic workers.

All 10 Republicans on the committee (including 7 who voted to send H.R. 6000 to the floor) filed a minority report stating that OASI coverage and benefits should be limited so as to provide only a "basic floor" of economic protection. The minority report opposed the disability insurance provision, saying that aid to the disabled should be limited to charity aid provided under the proposed public assistance program for the permanently and totally disabled.⁶⁸

The Committee on Rules at first refused to send H.R. 6000 to the floor, but, after much debate, a closed rule barring floor amendments was granted. A number of Members opposed the rule because they said it foreclosed their right to improve the bill through floor amendments.

On October 4, 1949, Representative Sabath (D-IL) offered a resolution for four days of debate, with only the Committee on Ways and Means having the right to offer amendments, and with only a motion to recommit being in order. Those favoring the resolution stated that the Ways and Means Committee had devoted six months to considering the bill, had heard testimony from 250 witnesses and thus knew best how to improve the program. Those opposing the closed rule said the bill was very controversial and that the whole House should settle difficult questions of policy. They said the closed rule negated the importance of other House Members and usurped their rights.

The House agreed to the resolution for a closed rule by a vote of 189 (12-R, 176-D, 1-I) to 135 (123-R, 12-D) on October 4, 1949.⁶⁹

On October 5, 1949, Representative Mason (R-IL) moved to recommit H.R. 6000, and offered H.R. 6297 (a bill that carried out the minority view on H.R. 6000) as its substitute. H.R. 6297, introduced by Representative Kean (R-NJ) on October 3, 1949, held the wage base to $3,000; recommended greater coverage for domestic workers so that those who were less regularly employed would be included; exempted teachers, firemen, and policemen with their own pension systems from coverage; confined disability payments to the public assistance program; and recommended that Congress establish an independent Social Security system in Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and other possessions rather than include them in the existing OASI program.

The motion to recommit was defeated by a vote of 113 (112-R, 1-D) to 232 (29-R, 202-D, 1-I).⁷⁰

Immediately following the rejection of the motion, H.R. 6000 was passed in the House by a vote of 333 (R-130, D-202, 1-I) to 14 (R-12, D-2).⁷¹

⁶⁸ U.S. Congress, House Committee on Ways and Means, Social Security Act Amendments of 1949, report to accompany H.R. 6000, 81st Cong., 1st sess., August 22, 1949, H.Rept. 1300 (Washington, DC: GPO, 1949), pp. 157-165.

⁶⁹ Congressional Record, October 4, 1949, House, Roll call no. 215, not voting 106, p. 13819.

⁷⁰ Congressional Record, October 5, 1949, House, Roll call no. 217, not voting 84, pp. 13972-13973.

⁷¹ Congressional Record, October 5, 1949, House, Roll call no. 218, not voting-84, pp. 13973-13974.

Senate Action

Since Congress adjourned shortly after the House action, the Senate did not consider H.R. 6000 until 1950. The Senate Finance Committee held extensive hearings and adopted many amendments to H.R. 6000. The committee stated that the chief purpose of the bill was to strengthen the OASI system so that OASI would be the primary method of offering “basic security to retired persons and survivors,”⁷² with public assistance (particularly old-age assistance) playing strictly a supplementary and secondary role. The Finance Committee version of the bill did not include the disability insurance provision passed by the House nor the provision providing federal grants to states for needy persons who were permanently and totally disabled, nor President Truman’s health insurance proposal. The bill was reported to the Senate on May 17, 1950, and debate began on June 12, 1950.

On June 14, 1950, following a Senate Republican Policy Committee meeting, Senator Millikin (R-CO) and Senator Taft (R-OH) indicated that Republicans would support H.R. 6000 but favored a study to determine whether the OASI and old-age assistance programs eventually should be united in a universal pay-as-you-go system. Under this proposal, all elderly persons in the United States would become eligible for subsistence-level pensions at the age of 65, with pension amounts the same for all (rather than varied to reflect earnings during the work career), and financed from current revenues rather than a trust fund.⁷³

An amendment offered by Senator Myers (D-PA) to add a disability insurance program to OASI was rejected by a voice vote.⁷⁴

On June 20, 1950, another amendment offered by Senator Myers to boost the OASI wage base from $3,000 to $4,200, closer to what President Truman had requested (instead of $3,600 specified in the George amendment—see below), was rejected 36 (9-R, 27-D) to 45 (27-R, 18-D).⁷⁵

On June 20, 1950, Senator Long (D-LA) introduced an amendment to provide federal grants to States for needy disabled persons. The amendment was rejected by a vote of 41 (4-R, 37-D) to 42 (33-R, 9-D).⁷⁶

On June 20, 1950, Senator George’s (D-GA) amendment to increase the basic wage base from $3,000 to $3,600 was agreed to by voice vote.⁷⁷

On June 20, 1950, by a voice vote, the Senate adopted S.Res. 300, authorizing a study of a universal pay-as-you-go old-age pension system.⁷⁸

The Senate passed H.R. 6000 on June 20 by a vote of 81 (35-R, 47-D) to 2 (2-R).⁷⁹

⁷² U.S. Congress, Senate Committee on Finance, Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, report to accompany H.R. 6000, 81st Cong., 2nd sess., May 17, 1950, H.Rept. 1669 (Washington, DC: GPO, 1950), p. 2.

⁷³ Congress and the Nation: 1945-1964, Washington, Congressional Quarterly Inc., 1965, p. 1243.

⁷⁴ Congressional Record, June 20, 1950, Senate, p. 8904.

⁷⁵ Congressional Record, June 20, 1950, Senate, not voting 15, p. 8883.

⁷⁶ Congressional Record, June 20, 1950, Senate, not voting 13, p. 8889.

⁷⁷ Congressional Record, June 20, 1950, Senate, p. 8883.

⁷⁸ Congressional Record, June 20, 1950, Senate, p. 8878.

⁷⁹ Congressional Record, June 20, 1950, Senate, not voting 13, p. 8910.

Conference Action

Conferees dropped the disability insurance proposal, but retained the public assistance program for the permanently and totally disabled (i.e., the so-called charity approach). The conference report was submitted to the House on August 1, 1950.

On August 16, 1950, Representative Byrnes (R-WI) moved to recommit the conference report on H.R. 6000. He stated that his main reason for doing so was to prevent any attempt to remove from the bill a Senate floor amendment by Representative Knowland (R-CA) to reduce federal control over state-administered unemployment insurance. Representative Doughton (D-NC) moved the previous question on the motion to recommit.⁸⁰ The motion on the previous question was passed by a vote of 188 (120-R, 68-D) to 186 (20-R, 165-D, 1-I). The motion to recommit the conference report was rejected.

The conference report passed the House on August 16, 1950, 374 (140-R, 234-D) to 1 (1-R);⁸¹ and the Senate on August 17, 1950, by voice vote.⁸²

P.L. 590—82nd Congress, Social Security Act Amendments of 1952

H.R. 7800, the Social Security Amendments of 1952, was signed into law on July 18, 1952, by President Truman. The amendments increased OASI benefits for both present and future recipients (by an average of 15% for those on the rolls), permitted recipients to earn $75 a month (instead of $50) without losing OASI benefits, extended wage credits of $160 for each month in which active military or naval service was performed during the period from July 24, 1947, through December 1953, and provided for a disability “freeze,” which in principle preserved the Social Security benefits of qualified workers who became permanently and totally disabled before retirement by averaging the person’s wages only over his or her working years. (See following conference action section for more details.)

House Action

In the House, debate centered largely on a so-called disability freeze proposed by the Committee on Ways and Means. Under the provision, if a person became permanently and totally disabled, the period of disability was to be excluded in computing the number of quarters of coverage he or she needed to be eligible for benefits, and in computing the average earnings on which the benefits would be based. The provision, in effect, preserved benefit rights while a person was disabled. Medical examinations by doctors and public institutions would be designated and paid for by the Federal Security Agency (FSA). The American Medical Association (AMA) claimed that this arrangement would lead to socialized medicine. Representative Reed (R-NY), the minority leader of the Ways and Means Committee, was the primary spokesman for Members who endorsed the AMA position.

On May 19, 1952, when H.R. 7800 was brought to the floor under suspension of the rules procedure—requiring a two-thirds vote for passage and barring amendments—the majority of Republicans voted against it because of the disability provision, and it was rejected by a vote of 151 (52-R, 98-D, 1-I) to 141 (99-R, 42-D), failing to win a two-thirds vote.⁸³

⁸⁰ A motion for the previous question, when carried, has the effect of stopping all debate and amendments, forcing a vote on the pending matter. This parliamentary maneuver is used only in the House.

⁸¹ Congressional Record, August 16, 1950, House, Roll call no. 242, not voting 55, p. 12673.

⁸² Congressional Record, August 17, 1950, House, p. 12718.

⁸³ Congressional Record, May 19, 1952, House, Roll call no. 79, not voting 139, pp. 5483-5484.

On June 16, 1952, Democratic leaders brought H.R. 7800 to the floor under suspension of the rules. An amended version of the revised bill empowered the FSA to make disability determinations but omitted the language specifying how the FSA administrator should do so. Representative Reed said "... let no person on this floor be deceived. You have the same old H.R. 7800 here before you. While the socialized medicine advocates pretend to remove the specific instructions to the Administrator, they now give him more powers under general provisions of the law than he had before. You have socialized medicine here stronger in this bill than was H.R. 7800, heretofore defeated."⁸⁴ Representative Reed later contended that because of the approaching election, many Members chose to go on record in favor of the other OASI provisions and so voted for the amended version of H.R. 7800. The bill was approved 361 (165-R, 195-D, 1-I) to 22 (20-R, 2-D) on June 17, 1952.⁸⁵

Senate Action

When the bill came to the Senate Finance Committee, it dropped the disability freeze provision. The Finance Committee said there was inadequate time to study the issue properly.

The committee amendment, offered by Senator George (D-GA), to drop the disability freeze provision, was passed by voice vote on June 26, 1952.⁸⁶

H.R. 7800 (without the disability freeze provision) was passed in the Senate by a voice vote on June 26, 1952.⁸⁷

Conference Action

The conferees retained the disability freeze provision, in principle. The compromise terminated the freeze provision on June 30, 1953; at the same time, it did not allow an application to be accepted before July 1, 1953. Thus, the disability freeze provision was made inoperative unless Congress, in subsequent legislation, were to take action to remove the bar. The stated intent in making the provision inoperative was to permit "the working out of tentative agreements with the States for possible administration of these provisions."⁸⁸ In addition, the conferees gave responsibility for determining whether an applicant was disabled to appropriate state agencies (such as public assistance, vocational rehabilitation, or workmen's compensation), instead of the FSA. The Federal Security administrator would be able to overturn a ruling by the state agencies that a person was disabled, but would not be able to reverse a ruling by the state agencies that a person was not disabled.

The conference report was agreed to July 5, 1952, by voice votes in both chambers.⁸⁹

P.L. 761—83rd Congress, Social Security Amendments of 1954

H.R. 9366, the Social Security Amendments of 1954, was signed by President Eisenhower on September 1, 1954. In his 1953 State of the Union Message, the President recommended that "OASI should promptly be expanded to cover millions of citizens who have been left out of the ⁸⁴ Congressional Record, June 16, 1952, House, p. 7293.

⁸⁵ Congressional Record, June 17, 1952, House, Roll call no. 106, not voting 46, p. 7387.

⁸⁶ Congressional Record, June 26, 1952, Senate, p. 8141.

⁸⁷ Congressional Record, June 26, 1952, Senate, p. 8155.

⁸⁸ U.S. Congress, Conference Committee, 1952. Social Security Act Amendments of 1952, conference report to accompany H.R. 7800, 82nd Cong., 2nd sess., July 5, 1952, H.Rept. 2491 (Washington, DC: GPO, 1952), p. 9.

⁸⁹ Congressional Record, July 5, 1952, House, p. 9670. Also see, Congressional Record, July 5, 1952, Senate, p. 9523.

Social Security system.” The Social Security Amendments of 1954 extended mandatory coverage to, among others, some self-employed farmers, engineers, architects, accountants, and funeral directors, all federal employees not covered by government pension plans, and farm and domestic service workers not covered by the 1950 amendments, and it extended voluntary coverage to ministers and certain state and local government employees already covered by staff retirement systems. The bill also raised the wage base for the OASI tax to $4,200; raised the tax rate to 3.5%, each, for employers and employees beginning in 1970, and to 4.0%, each, beginning in 1975, with the tax rate for the self-employed continuing at 1.5 times the employee rate (or 75% of the combined employee-employer rate). OASI benefits for recipients were raised by roughly 15%, with the maximum individual benefit rising from $85 to $98.50 a month, and a revised benefit formula was provided for future retirees that increased benefits by roughly 27%, with the maximum benefit rising from $85 a month to $108.50. The bill also put the disability freeze into effect (see discussion of House action on the 1952 amendments below), with disability determinations to be made by the appropriate State agencies, permitted a recipient to earn up to $1,200 a year without deductions, eliminated the earnings test for people aged 72 or older, and dropped the five years of lowest earnings from average monthly wage determinations for benefit computation purposes.

House Action

On June 1, 1954, Representative Smith (D-VA) and other farm area Democrats objected to bringing H.R. 9366 to the floor under a closed rule because coverage of farmers was included in the bill. Representative Smith stated, “I object to the feature of this bill that prohibits you from offering any amendment. I think that requires a little discussion and a little understanding. We all agree that on an ordinary tax bill it is not feasible or practical to write it on the floor of the House, and therefore we have adopted the theory that we have closed rules on tax bills ... all we asked for in the Rules Committee was that the individual members of this House be given an opportunity to offer amendments to designate what classifications of persons should be included.”⁹⁰ On June 1, 1954, by a vote of 270 (171-R, 98-D, 1-I) to 76 (5-R, 71-D),⁹¹ debate of the closed rule was cut off, and the closed rule was then adopted by voice vote.

The House bill also included provisions extending mandatory coverage to all self-employed professionals but doctors (dentists and other medical professionals would have been covered).⁹²

The House passed H.R. 9366 on June 1, 1954, by a vote of 356 (181-R, 174-D, 1-I) to 8 (2-R, 6-D).⁹³

Senate Action

H.R. 9366 as reported by the Finance Committee included the coverage of farm and domestic service workers, ministers, state and local government employees covered by a retirement system, and a small number of professionals. It also increased the earnings test threshold to $1,200 a year; reduced the age at which the earnings test no longer applied to 72; and increased the lump-sum

⁹⁰ Congressional Record, June 1, 1954, House, in floor remarks by Rep. Smith, p. 7423.

⁹¹ Congressional Record, June 1, 1954, House, Roll call no. 77, not voting 87, p. 7425.

⁹² The American Dental Association and the American Medical Association (AMA) strongly opposed Social Security coverage for their groups. The AMA said it was incompatible with the free enterprise system. Congressional Record, August 13, 1954, Senate, in floor remarks by Sen. Millikin (R-CO), p. 14422.

⁹³ Congressional Record, June 1, 1954, House, Roll call no. 78, not voting 68, p. 7468.

death benefit from $255 to $325.50. During the Senate debate on H.R. 9366, nine amendments were adopted, six were rejected, and six were presented and then withdrawn.⁹⁴

Among the amendments adopted on the floor by the Senate was a provision by Senator Long (D-LA) to require the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare to study the feasibility and costs of providing increased minimum benefits of $55, $60, and $75 a month under the Social Security program. On August 13, 1954, Senator Long's amendment was agreed to by voice vote.⁹⁵

Among the amendments defeated were the Johnston (D-SC) amendment to reduce the Social Security eligibility age to 60; the Stennis (D-MS) amendments that would have left the coverage of farm workers unchanged; and the Humphrey (D-MN) amendment to increase the widow's benefit to 100% of the primary insurance amount. On August 13, 1954, Senator Johnston's amendment was rejected by voice vote.⁹⁶ On August 13, 1954, the Stennis amendments were rejected en bloc by voice vote.⁹⁷ On August 13, 1954, Senator Humphrey's amendment was rejected on a division vote.⁹⁸

Among the amendments that were presented and then withdrawn was an amendment by Senator Lehman (D-NY) to extend Social Security coverage, increase benefits, add permanent and total disability and temporary disability Social Security benefits, and to make other changes.⁹⁹

On August 13, 1954, the Senate passed H.R. 9366, by voice vote.¹⁰⁰

Conference Action

The conferees, among other things, accepted a provision mandatorily covering self-employed farmers, accountants, architects, engineers, and funeral directors, but excluding lawyers, doctors, dentists, or other medical professionals, and extended coverage to federal employees not covered by staff retirement systems.

Both chambers agreed to the conference report without amendments by voice vote on August 20, 1954, the last day of the session.¹⁰¹

P.L. 880—84th Congress, Social Security Amendments of 1956

H.R. 7225, the Social Security Amendments of 1956, was signed by President Eisenhower on August 1, 1956. The amendments provided benefits, after a six-month waiting period, for permanently and totally disabled workers aged 50 to 64 who were fully insured and had at least 5 years of coverage in the 10-year period before becoming disabled; to a dependent child 18 years or older of a deceased or retired insured worker if the child became disabled before age 18; to female workers and wives at the age of 62, instead of 65, with actuarially reduced benefits; reduced from 65 to 62 the age at which benefits were payable to widows or parents, with no

⁹⁴ Wilbur J. Cohen, Robert M. Ball, and Robert J. Myers, "Social Security Act Amendments of 1954: A Summary and Legislative History," Social Security Bulletin, vol. 17, no. 9, September 1954, pp. 3-18, at <https://www.ssa.gov/policy/docs/ssb/v17n9/v17n9p3.pdf>.

⁹⁵ Congressional Record, August 13, 1954, Senate, p. 14442.

⁹⁶ Congressional Record, August 13, 1954, Senate, p. 14433.

⁹⁷ Congressional Record, August 13, 1954, Senate, p. 14435.

⁹⁸ Congressional Record, August 13, 1954, Senate, p. 14444.

⁹⁹ Congressional Record, August 13, 1954, Senate, p. 14419.

¹⁰⁰ Congressional Record, August 13, 1954, Senate, p. 14446.

¹⁰¹ Congressional Record, August 20, 1954, House, p. 15544. Also, Congressional Record, August 20, 1954, Senate, p. 15414.

reduction; extended coverage to lawyers, dentists, veterinarians, optometrists, and all other self-employed professionals except doctors;¹⁰² increased the tax rate by 0.25% on employer and employee each (0.375% for self-employed people) to finance disability benefits (thereby raising the aggregate tax rate ultimately to 4.25% each for employees and employers); and created a separate Disability Insurance (DI) Trust Fund. The Social Security program now consisted of OASDI.

House Action

Major House Ways and Means Committee provisions provided benefits to disabled persons aged 50 or older and reduced the age at which women could first receive OASI benefits to 62. Although some Members maintained that not enough time was spent in working out the details of these two controversial provisions, H.R. 7225 was brought to the floor under suspension of the rules, which barred floor amendments and required a two-thirds vote for passage. H.R. 7225 was passed by the House on July 18, 1955, by a vote of 372 (169-R, 203-D) to 31 (23-R, 8-D).¹⁰³

Senate Action

At Senate Finance Committee hearings on the House-passed bill, the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, Marion Folsom stated that the Administration was opposed to reducing the retirement age to 62 for women and providing disability benefits. According to Congress and the Nation, Senator Folsom said that OASI had stayed actuarially sound without excessive taxes because it had been restricted to one purpose with “predictable costs”: providing income for the aged.¹⁰⁴ Spokesmen for the AFL-CIO and several other groups maintained that union experience with welfare plans and federal studies dating back to 1937 showed that disability insurance was both administratively and financially sound.

On June 5, 1956, the Senate Finance Committee reported H.R. 7225 after eliminating the Disability Insurance program and the tax increase to pay for it and limiting retirement benefits at age 62 to widows only.

On July 17, 1956, Senator George (D-GA) offered an amendment reinstating the DI program and the tax increase to finance it. The amendment provided for a separate DI Trust Fund (instead of operating the new program out of the OASI Trust Fund). The amendment was passed by a vote of 47 (6-R, 41-D) to 45 (38-R, 7-D).¹⁰⁵

Also, on July 17, 1956, the Senate agreed to Senator Kerr’s (D-OK) amendment to permit women to receive benefits at age 62 at actuarially reduced rates. The amendment passed by a vote of 86 (40-R, 46-D) to 7 (5-R, 2-D).¹⁰⁶

On July 17, 1956, the Senate passed H.R. 7225 by a vote of 90 (45-R, 45-D) to 0.¹⁰⁷

¹⁰² P.L. 881-84th Congress, the Servicemen’s and Veterans’ Survivor Benefit Act (H.R. 7089), extended coverage of the Social Security system to members of the uniformed services on active duty on a permanent contributory basis beginning in 1957. It was signed into law on August 1, 1956.

¹⁰³ Congressional Record, July 18, 1955, House, Roll call no. 119, not voting 29, pp. 10798-10799.

¹⁰⁴ Sen. Folsom stated that until the ultimate costs were known, whether it was possible to make disability determinations good enough to avoid “fraudulent” claims for benefits, and whether disability pensions might discourage individual rehabilitative efforts, adding disability insurance to OASI would risk “overburdening and thus wrecking” the Social Security system. Congress and the Nation: 1945-1964, p. 1251.

¹⁰⁵ Congressional Record, July 17, 1956, Senate, not voting 4, p. 13056.

¹⁰⁶ Congressional Record, July 17, 1956, Senate, not voting 3, p. 13073.

¹⁰⁷ Congressional Record, July 17, 1956, Senate, not voting 6, p. 13103.

Conference Action

The House on July 26, 1956,¹⁰⁸ and the Senate on July 27, 1956,¹⁰⁹ cleared the conference report on H.R. 7225 without amendments by voice votes.

P.L. 85-840, Social Security Amendments of 1958

H.R. 13549, the Social Security Amendments of 1958, was signed by President Eisenhower on August 28, 1958. The amendments raised recipients' benefits an average of 7%, with benefits ranging from $33 to $127 per month for future recipients; increased maximum family benefits from $200 to $254; raised the wage base from $4,200 to $4,800 a year; increased the tax rate by 0.25% on employers and employees each and 0.375% for the self-employed; provided benefits to dependents of workers receiving disability benefits; and permitted the aged dependent parents of an insured deceased worker to receive survivors' benefits even if the worker's widow or dependent widower or child were alive and also eligible for benefits.

House Action

Most of the controversy over H.R. 13549 pertained to public assistance programs. There was relatively little controversy over the proposed OASDI provisions. During debate on H.R. 13549, Representative Reed (R-NY) stated that the bill would strengthen the actuarial soundness of the Social Security program.¹¹⁰

On July 31, 1958, the House passed H.R. 13549 by a vote of 374 to 2.¹¹¹

Senate Action

On August 15, 1958, Senator Yarborough (D-TX) offered an amendment to increase benefits by 10%, rather than 7% as proposed in H.R. 13549. Senator Yarborough stated that in many states old-age public assistance payments were higher than the "Social Security payments the people have earned by putting their money into the Social Security fund."¹¹²

Proponents of the amendment mentioned that a 10% increase would alleviate erosion of benefits due to inflation. Opponents of the amendment argued that many persons getting Social Security also received income from other sources. Some opponents of the amendment maintained that it would jeopardize the enactment of the bill. Senator Yarborough's amendment was rejected by a vote of 32 (6-R, 26-D) to 53 (33-R, 20-D).¹¹³

On August 16, 1958, Senator Kennedy (D-MA) offered an amendment to increase Social Security benefits by 8% (rather than 7%). The Kennedy-Case amendment was rejected by voice vote.¹¹⁴

¹⁰⁸ Congressional Record, July 26, 1956, House, p. 14828.

¹⁰⁹ Congressional Record, July 27, 1956, Senate, p. 15107.

¹¹⁰ Congressional Record, July 31, 1958, House, p. 15740.

¹¹¹ Congressional Record, July 31, 1958, House, Roll call no. 149, not voting 54, pp. 15775-15776.

¹¹² Congressional Record, August 15, 1958, Senate, p. 17798.

¹¹³ Congressional Record, August 16, 1958, Senate, not voting 11, pp. 17971-17972.

¹¹⁴ Congressional Record, August 16, 1958, Senate, p. 17985.

On August 16, 1958, Senator Morse (D-OR) offered an amendment to increase Social Security benefits by 25%, provide health insurance, and make other changes. Senator Morse's amendment was rejected by voice vote.¹¹⁵

On August 16, 1958, Senator Humphrey (D-MN) offered an amendment to provide health insurance. (Senator Morse's amendment was based in part on this Humphrey amendment.) Senator Humphrey withdrew his amendment.¹¹⁶

On August 16, 1958, Senator Kennedy offered an amendment for himself and Senator Smathers (D-NJ) to eliminate the dollar ceiling of $255 on the lump-sum death benefit and restore the 3-to-1 ratio between the death benefit and the regular monthly benefit. The amendment was rejected by voice vote.¹¹⁷

On August 16, 1958, Senator Revercomb (R-WV) offered an amendment to provide full Social Security retirement benefits at age 62, for both men and women. Senator Revercomb's amendment was rejected by voice vote.¹¹⁸

The Senate passed H.R. 13549 on August 16, 1958, by a vote of 79 (37-R, 42-D) to 0.¹¹⁹

House Concurrence

On August 19, 1958, the House by a voice vote agreed to the Senate amendments.¹²⁰

P.L. 86-778, Social Security Amendments of 1960

H.R. 12580, the Social Security Amendments of 1960, was signed by President Eisenhower on September 13, 1960. Health care for the aged was the primary issue in 1960. At the crux of the debate was the question of whether the federal government should assume major responsibility for the health care of the nation's elderly people, and, if so, whether medical assistance should be provided through the Social Security system or through the public assistance programs (i.e., charity approach).

The 1960 amendments provided more federal funds for old-age assistance (OAA) programs so that states could choose to improve or establish medical care services to OAA recipients. In addition, the legislation known as "Kerr-Mills" established a new voluntary program (under jurisdiction of the OAA program) of medical assistance for the aged, under which states received federal funds to help pay for medical care for persons aged 65 or older who were not recipients of OAA but whose income and resources were insufficient to meet their medical expenses.

The 1960 amendments also contained a number of OASDI provisions. The amendments made disability benefits available to workers under the age of 50; established a new earnings test whereby each dollar of yearly earnings between $1,200 and $1,500 would cause only a 50-cent reduction in benefits with a dollar-for-dollar reduction in benefits for earnings above $1,500; liberalized requirements for fully insured status so that to be eligible for benefits a person needed only one quarter of covered work for every three calendar quarters (rather than one for every two

¹¹⁵ Congressional Record, August 16, 1958, Senate, p. 18005.

¹¹⁶ Congressional Record, August 16, 1958, Senate, p. 18008.

¹¹⁷ Congressional Record, August 16, 1958, Senate, p. 17986.

¹¹⁸ Congressional Record, August 16, 1958, Senate, p. 17982.

¹¹⁹ Congressional Record, August 16, 1958, Senate, not voting 17, p. 18014.

¹²⁰ Congressional Record, August 19, 1958, House, p. 18540.

quarters, as under the old law), elapsing after 1950 and before retirement, disability, or death; and raised the survivor benefit of each child to 75% of the parent's PIA.

House Action

H.R. 12580 as reported by the Ways and Means Committee contained two medical care provisions for elderly people. The first provision provided the states with additional funding to improve or to establish medical care programs for old-age assistance recipients. The second provision established a new federal-state program (under a new title of the Social Security Act) designed to assist aged persons who were not eligible for public assistance but who were unable to pay their medical bills.

The Ways and Means Committee rejected H.R. 4700, introduced by Representative Forand (D-RI), which would have provided insurance against the cost of hospital, nursing home, and surgical services for OASDI recipients, by a vote of 17 to 8.¹²¹

Proponents of H.R. 12580 said that it provided medical assistance for every aged person in any state that implemented a medical assistance program. Representative Thompson (D-NJ), a supporter of the Forand bill stated that under H.R. 12580 people would be “denied the opportunity of contributing to their old-age health insurance coverage while employed and would be forced to rely upon charity after their working days were over.”¹²² He contended further that “even this charity ... is contingent upon the action of the separate states.”¹²³

The House passed H.R. 12580 on June 23, 1960, by a vote of 381 (137-R, 244-D) to 23 (7-R, 16-D).¹²⁴

Senate Action

The Senate deleted the bill's new title, and instead adopted an amendment by Senator Kerr (D-OK) and Senator Frear (D-DE) that amended Title I of the Social Security Act to provide medical services for medically needy aged persons.

On August 20, 1960, Senator Javits (R-NY) offered an amendment to provide federal matching grants to states to enable them to give health care to needy persons aged 65 or older. (This proposal was more generous than the provisions—also based on the public assistance, i.e., charity approach—already in the report by the Finance Committee.) On August 23, 1960, Senator Javits's amendment was rejected by a vote of 28 (28-R) to 67 (5-R, 62-D).¹²⁵

Also on August 20, 1960, Senator Anderson (D-NM) offered an amendment to use Social Security as well as the public assistance program for the aged to provide health care to the elderly. On August 23, 1960, Senator Anderson's amendment was rejected by a vote of 44 (1-R, 43-D) to 51 (32-R, 19-D).¹²⁶

¹²¹ See Social Security Administration (SSA), “Chronology: 1960s,” March 31, 1960, at <http://www.ssa.gov/history/1960.html>.

¹²² Congressional Record, June 22, 1960, House, in floor remarks by Rep. Thompson, p. 13846.

¹²³ Congressional Record, June 22, 1960, House, in floor remarks by Rep. Thompson, p. 13845.

¹²⁴ Congressional Record, June 23, 1960, House, Roll call no. 143, not voting 24, pp. 14054-14055.

¹²⁵ Congressional Record, August 23, 1960, Senate, Roll call no. 305, not voting 5, p. 17176.

¹²⁶ Congressional Record, August 23, 1960, Senate, Roll call no. 307, not voting 5, p. 17220.

On August 23, 1960, the Senate passed by voice vote Senator Byrd's (D-WV) amendment to permit men to retire at the age of 62 with actuarially reduced benefits. (The amendment was later dropped in conference.)¹²⁷

The Senate passed H.R. 12580 on August 23, 1960, by a vote of 91 (31-R, 60-D) to 2 (1-R, 1-D).¹²⁸

Conference Action

The conferees agreed to the medical care provisions in the Senate-passed bill (i.e., no new title for a program for aged persons not eligible for OAA benefits). The medical provisions became known as the Kerr-Mills program, named for Senator Robert Kerr (D-OK) and House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur Mills (D-AR).

The House agreed to the conference report on August 26, 1960, by a vote of 369 (132-R, 237-D) to 17 (8-R, 9-D).¹²⁹

The Senate agreed to the conference report on August 29, 1960, by a vote of 74 (31-R, 43-D) to 11 (1-R, 10-D).¹³⁰

P.L. 87-64, Social Security Amendments of 1961

H.R. 6027, the Social Security Amendments of 1961, was signed into law on June 30, 1961, by President Kennedy. In general, the amendments made many of the changes in the Social Security program recommended by President Kennedy in his February 2, 1961, message to Congress, in which he outlined a program to restore momentum to the national economy.¹³¹ The amendments raised the minimum benefit to $40 per month; permitted men to claim retired worker's benefits at the age of 62, instead of 65, with actuarially reduced benefits; liberalized the insured status requirement so that, subject to the 6-quarter minimum and the 40-quarter maximum, an individual was fully insured if he had one quarter of coverage for every calendar year that elapsed between January 1, 1951, or age 21, whichever was later, and the year before he died, became disabled, or reached retirement age; increased benefits to a surviving aged widow, widower, or dependent parent of an insured deceased worker from 75 to 82.5% of the benefit the worker would have been entitled to if alive; changed the earnings test so that an aged recipient had no benefits withheld if earnings were $1,200 a year or less, $1 withheld for each $2 earned between $1,200 and $1,700, and a $1 reduction in benefits for each additional dollar of earnings above $1,700; and raised the employer and employee tax rates by 0.125% and the self-employed tax rate by 0.1875%.¹³²

House Action

In the House, the principal point of dissension was the provision in H.R. 6027 that lowered the eligibility age for men from 65 to 62. Several Republicans opposed the provision on the basis that ¹²⁷ Congressional Record, August 23, 1960, Senate, p. 17234.

¹²⁸ Congressional Record, August 23, 1960, Senate, Roll call no. 309, not voting 7, p. 17235.

¹²⁹ Congressional Record, August 26, 1960, House, Roll call no. 197, not voting 44, p. 17893.

¹³⁰ Congressional Record, August 29, 1960, Senate, Roll call no. 314, not voting 15, p. 18096.

¹³¹ Wilbur J. Cohen and William L. Mitchell, "Social Security Amendments of 1961: Summary and Legislative History," Social Security Bulletin, vol. 24, no. 9, September 1961, p. 8, at <https://www.ssa.gov/policy/docs/ssb/v24n9/v24n9p3.pdf>.

¹³² Congress and the Nation: 1945-1964, p. 1255.

it would likely start a trend toward “compulsory retirement” at age 62. Speaking for himself and most of the minority committee members, Representative Curtis (R-MO) stated, “The reason [we are] against the age 62 [provision] is this: our older people are having a hard enough time now to stay in the labor market. This provides further incentive to drive them out.”¹³³

On April 20, 1961, Representative Curtis made a motion to recommit H.R. 6027¹³⁴ and substitute a measure that cut out the provisions for lowering the first eligibility age for men, increased benefits for widows, and raised the minimum benefit from $33 to $40. The motion was rejected by voice vote.¹³⁵ Note that the provisions raising the minimum benefit and increasing benefits for widows were already in H.R. 6027 as reported out of committee.

The House passed H.R. 6027 on April 20, 1961, by a vote of 400 (149-R, 251-D) to 14 (14-R).¹³⁶

Senate Action

In the Senate, debate focused on Senator Cotton’s (R-NH) amendment made on June 26, 1961, to increase the earnings test limit to $1,800 a year.¹³⁷ Senator Kerr (D-OK) said that Senator Cotton’s amendment failed to provide increased OASDI taxes to pay for the additional $427 million to $615 million that would be paid out each year under the proposed amendment.¹³⁸ Senator Kerr stated that “an amendment which would result in the impairment of the fiscal integrity of the fund should not be pressed.”¹³⁹

Senator Hartke (D-IN) offered a substitute amendment that provided a slightly less generous new earnings test limit ($1,700). The substitute amendment was passed June 26, 1961, by a vote of 59 (3-R, 56-D) to 30 (30-R).¹⁴⁰ Provisions to finance this change were agreed to by unanimous consent.¹⁴¹

On June 26, 1961, Senator Hartke’s amendment to broaden the definition of disability was rejected by voice vote.¹⁴²

The Senate passed H.R. 6027 90 (33-R, 57-D) to 0 on June 26, 1961.¹⁴³

Conference Action

Both chambers cleared the conference report by voice votes June 29, 1961.¹⁴⁴

¹³³ Congressional Record, April 20, 1961, House, in floor remarks by Rep. Curtis, p. 6471.

¹³⁴ Congressional Record, April 20, 1961, House, p. 6492.

¹³⁵ Congressional Record, April 20, 1961, House, p. 6495.

¹³⁶ Congressional Record, April 20, 1961, House, Roll call no. 40, not voting 17, p. 6495.

¹³⁷ Congressional Record, June 26, 1961, Senate, p. 11309.

¹³⁸ Congressional Record, June 26, 1961, Senate, p. 11314.

¹³⁹ Congressional Record, June 26, 1961, Senate, in floor remarks by Sen. Kerr, p. 11310.

¹⁴⁰ Congressional Record, June 26, 1961, Senate, Roll call no. 83, not voting 11, p. 11318.

¹⁴¹ Congressional Record, June 26, 1961, Senate, p. 11325.

¹⁴² Congressional Record, June 26, 1961, Senate, p. 11327.

¹⁴³ Congressional Record, June 26, 1961, Senate, Roll call no. 85, not voting 10, p. 11328.

¹⁴⁴ Congressional Record, June 29, 1961, House, p. 11791, and, Congressional Record, June 29, 1961, Senate, p. 11693.

Proposed Social Security Amendments of 1964

H.R. 11865, the proposed Social Security Amendments of 1964, was passed by both the House and the Senate but the conference committee could not reach agreement, adjourning on October 3, 1964, without making any recommendations.

The proposed Social Security Amendments of 1964 as passed by the House contained a 5% across-the-board Social Security benefit increase; extended the child's benefit to age 22 if he or she were in school; allowed widows to retire at age 60, with actuarially reduced benefits; provided limited benefits to persons aged 72 or older who had some Social Security coverage but not enough to meet the minimum requirements of existing law; and extended Social Security coverage to groups of persons who previously had been excluded. The House-passed bill contained no provision relating to hospital insurance for the aged.

The proposed Social Security Amendments of 1964 as passed by the Senate contained a hospital insurance program, the so-called King-Anderson bill; increased benefits: raised the earnings base; liberalized the earnings test; changed the eligibility requirements for the blind; and permitted religious groups to reject Social Security coverage if they had religious objections to social insurance.

House Action

H.R. 11865, the proposed Social Security Amendments of 1964, was reported out of the Ways and Means Committee on July 7, 1964. The bill was debated under a rule that permitted only committee amendments. No amendments were offered.

On July 29, 1964, the House passed H.R. 11865 by a vote of 388 to 8.¹⁴⁵

Senate Action

The Finance Committee approved H.R. 11865 on August 21, 1964. The committee rejected several amendments that would have created a hospital insurance program for the aged through the Social Security program.

On August 31, 1964, Senator Gore (D-TN) offered an amendment to Senator Long's (D-LA) amendment¹⁴⁶ to increase the proposed across-the-board benefit increase to 7% (instead of the proposed 5% increase) and to liberalize the earnings test.¹⁴⁷ Senator Gore's amendment included the 1963 King (D-CA)-Anderson (D-NM) bill (H.R. 3920/S. 880), which would have provided hospital insurance benefits for the aged under the Social Security program.

On September 2, 1964, the Gore amendment passed by a vote of 49 to 44.¹⁴⁸

On September 3, 1964, the Senate passed H.R. 11865 by a vote of 60 to 28.¹⁴⁹

Conference Action

The conference committee on H.R. 11865 could not reach agreement. The conferees from the Senate voted 4 to 3 to insist on including the hospital insurance provisions; the conferees from the ¹⁴⁵ Congressional Record, July 29, 1964, House, Roll call no. 193, not voting 35, pp. 17298-17299.

¹⁴⁶ Congressional Record, August 31, 1964, Senate, p. 21103.

¹⁴⁷ Congressional Record, August 31, 1964, Senate, p. 21086.

¹⁴⁸ Congressional Record, September 2, 1964, Senate, Roll call no. 558, not voting 7, p. 21318.

¹⁴⁹ Congressional Record, September 3, 1964, Senate, Roll call no. 561, not voting 12, p. 21553.

House, by a 3 to 2 vote, refused to accept such provisions.¹⁵⁰ The conference committee adjourned on October 2, 1964.

P.L. 89-97, Social Security Amendments of 1965

H.R. 6675, the Social Security Amendments of 1965, was signed into law on July 30, 1965, by President Lyndon Johnson. Although a federally operated health insurance program covering the entire nation was considered by the Franklin Roosevelt Administration in 1935, it was not explicitly endorsed until January 1945, when President Roosevelt's budget message called for an "extended Social Security including medical care." Such a plan was submitted to Congress by President Truman in November 1945, but neither chamber acted on the proposal, in large part due to strong opposition by the AMA. The controversy surrounding the establishment of a federal health insurance program for the aged was finally ended by the 1965 amendments (H.R. 6675),¹⁵¹ which established a basic two-part health insurance program called Medicare (Title XVIII of the Social Security Act). The costs of hospitalization and related care would be met in part by a compulsory program of Hospital Insurance (HI, Part A), financed by a separate payroll tax. The program would serve recipients of the Social Security and railroad retirement programs, aged 65 or older. A voluntary Supplementary Medical Insurance (SMI) plan (Part B) would help pay doctor bills and related services, for all persons aged 65 or older, financed through monthly premiums paid by the recipient and a matching federal payment from general revenues.

The amendments also provided a 7% across-the-board increase in OASDI benefits, extended compulsory self-employment coverage to doctors, made child's benefits available through age 21 if the child were a full-time student (under prior law, they were available only through age 17), permitted widows to receive actuarially reduced benefits at age 60 rather than age 62, provided benefits to divorced wives and widows under certain conditions, increased the earnings test amount to $1,500 with $1 withheld for every $2 earned up to $2,700, and provided that an insured worker would be eligible for disability benefits if his or her disability was expected to end in death or to last for 12 consecutive months, instead of indefinitely. The 1965 amendments also increased the payroll tax rate and the taxable wage base. In addition, P.L. 89-97 reduced the number of quarters of work necessary for persons aged 72 or older to have insured status (from 6 quarters to 3 quarters for a worker and from 6 quarters to 3 quarters for a wife who reached age 72 in or before 1966, to 4 quarters for a wife who turned 72 in 1967, and to 5 quarters for a wife who attained age 72 in 1968).

Further, a new federal-state medical assistance program established under Title XIX of the Social Security Act replaced the Kerr-Mills law (medical assistance for the aged that was enacted in 1960). The program was to be administered by the states, with federal matching funds. The new Medicaid program was available to all people receiving assistance under the public assistance titles (Title I, Title IV, Title X, and Title XIV) and to people who were able to provide for their own maintenance but whose income and resources were insufficient to meet their medical costs.

House Action

A federal hospital insurance program, or "Medicare," had been passed only once by the Senate, in 1964, and then by a narrow margin. It had never been approved by the Ways and Means Committee and thus had not been put to a House vote. The 1964 congressional elections, ¹⁵⁰ SSA, "Social Security Legislation," Commissioner's Bulletin, no. 17, October 3, 1964.

¹⁵¹ President Johnson flew to Independence, Missouri, to sign H.R. 6675 in the presence of Harry S. Truman, the first President to propose a national health insurance program.

however, brought 42 new Northern Democrats into the House, almost all of them Medicare supporters.¹⁵²

The Ways and Means Committee began holding executive sessions on H.R. 1, a bill to establish a social insurance program for hospital and related care for the aged, on January 27, 1965. The committee reported H.R. 6675 on March 29, 1965,¹⁵³ with all 17 Democrats favoring the bill and all 8 Republicans opposing it.¹⁵⁴

House floor debate centered on the Medicare proposal. Supporters said it was long overdue. Critics opposed its compulsory nature, argued that it would be financed by a “regressive” payroll tax, and said it would endanger the Social Security cash benefit program. Republican spokesmen instead wanted a voluntary health plan (as opposed to a mandatory social insurance approach) with a Medicaid-like program underpinning it to provide medical assistance for the needy aged.

On April 8, 1965, the House rejected Representative Byrnes’s (R-WI) motion to recommit H.R. 6675 to the Ways and Means Committee with instructions to substitute the text of H.R. 7057, a bill that Representative Byrnes had introduced a week earlier. H.R. 7057 was not offered as an amendment because the rule did not permit such action. H.R. 7057 provided for all hospitalization, nursing home, medical and surgical care to be financed through a voluntary system with payment split between the patient and general revenues, rather than from a tax on the payrolls of employers. The motion to recommit was rejected by a vote of 191 (128-R, 63-D) to 236 (10-R, 226-D).¹⁵⁵

On April 8, 1965, the House passed H.R. 6675 by a vote of 313 (65-R, 248-D) to 115 (73-R, 42-D).¹⁵⁶

Senate Action

On June 30, 1965, the Finance Committee reported its version of H.R. 6675. The committee approved the bill by a vote of 12 (2-R, 10-D) to 5 (4-R, 1-D).

On July 7 and 8, 1965, three moves to expand H.R. 6675 were rejected. Senator Ribicoff’s (D-CT) amendment to remove all time limits on length of hospital stays under Medicare was rejected by a vote of 39 (13-R, 26-D) to 43 (12-R, 31-D).¹⁵⁷ Senator Miller’s (R-IA) amendment to provide for an automatic 3% increase in Social Security pensions whenever a 3% increase occurred in the “retail” price index was rejected by a vote of 21 (15-R, 6-D) to 64 (9-R, 55-D).¹⁵⁸ Senator Prouty’s (R-VT) amendment to provide benefit increases ranging from 75% in the low-income brackets to 7% in the upper-income brackets was rejected by a vote of 12 (10-R, 2-D) to 79 (18-R, 61-D).¹⁵⁹ In addition, Senator Curtis’s (R-NE) amendment to provide that the Medicare ¹⁵² Congressional Quarterly Almanac: 1965, Washington, Congressional Quarterly, Inc., p. 236.

¹⁵³ U.S. Congress, House Committee on Ways and Means, Social Security Amendments of 1965, report to accompany H.R. 6675, 89th Cong., 1st sess., March 29, 1965, H.Rept. 89-213 (Washington, DC: GPO, 1965).

¹⁵⁴ Congressional Quarterly Almanac: 1965, Washington, Congressional Quarterly, Inc., p. 236. See also Peter A. Corning, The Evolution of Medicare, prepared under contract with the Social Security Administration, Chapter 4: The Fourth Round-1957 to 1965, <https://www.ssa.gov/history/corning.html>.

¹⁵⁵ Congressional Record, April 8, 1965, House, Roll call no. 70, not voting 5, pp. 7443-7444.

¹⁵⁶ Congressional Record, April 8, 1965, House, Roll call no. 71, not voting 5, p. 7444.

¹⁵⁷ Congressional Record, July 7, 1965, Senate, Roll call no. 165, not voting 18, p. 15835.

¹⁵⁸ Congressional Record, July 8, 1965, Senate, Roll call no. 166, not voting 15, p. 15869.

¹⁵⁹ Congressional Record, July 8, 1965, Senate, Roll call no. 167, not voting 9, p. 15909.

patient pay a deductible based on ability to pay was rejected by a vote of 41 (25-R, 16-D) to 51 (4-R, 47-D).¹⁶⁰

On July 7, 1965, Senator Byrd's (D-WV) amendment to lower the age at which workers could receive Social Security benefits to 60 (rather than age 62, the existing minimum) was agreed to by voice vote.¹⁶¹

On July 8, 1965, Senator Kennedy's (D-NY) amendment to prohibit federal payments to any hospital not meeting the standards required by the state or local government was passed by voice vote.¹⁶²

On July 9, 1965, Senator Hartke's (D-IN) amendment to liberalize the definition of blindness under the Social Security program, provide benefits to blind workers with at least 6 quarters of Social Security coverage, and permit blind workers to receive benefits regardless of other earnings was passed by a vote of 78 (28-R, 50-D) to 11 (11-D).¹⁶³

On July 9, 1965, Senator Hartke's amendment to eliminate the time limit on hospital care under the proposed program was agreed to by voice vote.¹⁶⁴

On July 9, 1965, Senator Smathers's (D-FL) amendment to raise payroll taxes to finance the benefits provided in floor amendments passed by a voice vote.¹⁶⁵

On July 9, 1965, Senator Curtis (R-NE) offered an amendment to strike Medicare, Parts A and B, from the bill. The amendment was rejected by a vote of 26 (18-R, 8-D) to 64 (11-R, 53-D).¹⁶⁶ Senator Curtis also reintroduced, in a slightly different form, his amendment to provide a deductible based on the Medicare patient's ability to pay. This amendment, too, was rejected by a vote of 40 to 52.¹⁶⁷ In addition, Senator Curtis moved to recommit H.R. 6675 with instructions to strike out the portions related to Medicare and substitute a plan patterned after the health insurance program used by retired federal employees, but financed from current premiums. The motion to recommit H.R. 6675 was rejected by a vote of 26 (18-R, 8-D) to 63 (10-R, 53-D).¹⁶⁸

H.R. 6675 was passed by the Senate on July 9, 1965, by a vote of 68 (13-R, 55-D) to 21 (14-R, 7-D).¹⁶⁹

Conference Action

On July 27, 1965, the House adopted the conference report by a vote of 307 (70-R, 237-D) to 116 (68-R, 48-D).¹⁷⁰

¹⁶⁰ Congressional Record, July 8, 1965, Senate, Roll call no. 168, not voting 8, p. 15927.

¹⁶¹ Congressional Record, July 7, 1965, Senate, p. 15794.

¹⁶² Congressional Record, July 8, 1965, Senate, p. 15904.

¹⁶³ Congressional Record, July 9, 1965, Senate, p. 16115.

¹⁶⁴ Congressional Record, July 9, 1965, Senate, p. 16130.

¹⁶⁵ Congressional Record, July 9, 1965, Senate, p. 16138.

¹⁶⁶ Congressional Record, July 9, 1965, Senate, Roll call no. 170, not voting 10, p. 16100.

¹⁶⁷ Congressional Record, July 9, 1965, Senate, Roll call no. 174, not voting 8, p. 16119.

¹⁶⁸ Congressional Record, July 9, 1965, Senate, Roll call no. 175, not voting 11, p. 16126.

¹⁶⁹ Congressional Record, July 9, 1965, Senate, Roll call no. 176, not voting 11, p. 16157.

¹⁷⁰ Congressional Record, July 27, 1965, House, Roll call no. 203, not voting 11, pp. 18393-18394.

On July 28, 1965, the Senate adopted the conference report by a vote of 70 (13-R, 57-D) to 24 (17-R, 7-D).¹⁷¹

P.L. 89-368, Tax Adjustment Act of 1966

H.R. 12752, signed by President Johnson on March 15, 1966, raised income taxes to help pay for the Vietnam War. It extended OASI benefits of $35 per month to persons over the age of 71 who were not covered, but with the benefit reduced by the amount of payments received under government pension plans, veteran's or civil service pensions, teacher's retirement pension plans, or welfare programs.

House Action

The House passed H.R. 12752, the Tax Adjustment Act of 1966, by a vote of 246 (46-R, 200-D) to 146 (88-R, 58-D).¹⁷² The bill did not contain any Social Security provisions.

Senate Action

During the floor debate on H.R. 12752, Senator Prouty (R-VT) offered an amendment to extend a minimum Social Security payment of $44 a month to all persons aged 70 or older who were not then eligible for benefits (an estimated 1.8 million persons at a cost of $760 million in FY1967).¹⁷³

On March 8, 1966, Senator Long (D-LA) moved to table the Prouty amendment but his motion was rejected by a vote of 37 (1-R, 36-D) to 51 (30-R, 21-D).¹⁷⁴

On March 8, 1966, the Senate passed the Prouty amendment by a vote of 45 (21-R, 24-D) to 40 (9-R, 31-D)¹⁷⁵ and adopted by a vote of 44 (25-R, 19-D) to 43 (6-R, 37-D) a motion by Senator Prouty to table Senator Mansfield's (D-MT) motion to reconsider the vote on passage of the amendment.¹⁷⁶

On March 9, 1966, the Senate passed the Tax Adjustment Act of 1966 by a vote of 79 (24-R, 55-D) to 9 (4-R, 5-D).¹⁷⁷

Conference Action

On March 10, 1966, the conferees included the Prouty amendment in the final version of H.R. 12752, but changed the monthly benefit to $35.

On March 15, 1966, the House adopted the conference report on H.R. 12752 by a vote of 288 (68-R, 220-D) to 102 (59-R, 43-D).¹⁷⁸

¹⁷¹ Congressional Record, July 28, 1965, Senate, Roll call no. 201, not voting 6, p. 18514.

¹⁷² Congressional Record, February 23, 1966, House, Roll call no. 20, not voting 41, pp. 3719-3720.

¹⁷³ Congressional Record, March 8, 1966, Senate, in floor remarks by Sen. Prouty, pp. 5289-5292.

¹⁷⁴ Congressional Record, March 8, 1966, Senate, Roll call no. 46, not voting 12, p. 5298.

¹⁷⁵ Congressional Record, March 8, 1966, Senate, Roll call no. 47, not voting 15, p. 5298.

¹⁷⁶ Congressional Record, March 8, 1966, Senate, Roll call no. 48, not voting 13, p. 5301.

¹⁷⁷ Congressional Record, March 9, 1966, Senate, Roll call no. 52, not voting 12, p. 5485.

¹⁷⁸ Congressional Record, March 15, 1966, House, Roll call no. 36, not voting 41, p. 5801.

On March 15, 1966, the Senate adopted the conference report on H.R. 12752 by a vote of 72 (23-R, 49-D) to 5 (4-R, 1-D).¹⁷⁹

P.L. 90-248, Social Security Amendments of 1967

H.R. 12080, the Social Security Amendments of 1967, was signed by President Johnson on January 2, 1968. The amendments provided a 13% across-the-board increase in benefits; raised the taxable wage base from $6,600 to $7,800; increased the payroll tax rate from 4.4% on employers and employees each to 4.8% in 1969; raised the minimum benefit from $44 to $55 per month; raised the earnings test limit to $1,680 a year instead of $1,500 (recipient lost $1 in benefits for every $2 earned between $1,680 and $2,880, and lost $1 for each additional dollar earned above $2,880); added benefits for disabled widows and widowers at age 50, with a stricter definition of disability; liberalized the definition of blindness for disability payments; and clarified the definition of disability.

President Johnson had called for a 15% across-the-board increase in OASDI benefits and numerous other changes in the Social Security Act. The proposals were embodied in H.R. 5710, introduced in the House on February 20, 1967, by the Committee on Ways and Means chairman, Wilbur Mills (D-AR).

House Action

The Ways and Means Committee held hearings on the Administration's bill (H.R. 5710) in March and April 1967. On August 7, 1967, it reported a new bill, H.R. 12080, that included most of the Administration's Social Security proposals, notably a provision that raised the earnings test limit from $1,500 to $1,680.¹⁸⁰

On August 17, 1967, Representative Utt (R-CA) moved to recommit H.R. 12080. The motion was rejected by voice vote.¹⁸¹

On August 17, 1967, the House passed H.R. 12080 by a roll call vote of 416 (182-R, 234-D) to 3 (1-R, 2-D).¹⁸² The bill was debated under a closed rule prohibiting floor amendments.

Senate Action

On November 14, 1967, the Senate Finance Committee reported a heavily amended bill that contained several OASDI provisions as recommended by the Administration rather than as modified by the House. The Senate bill provided a 15% across-the-board Social Security increase, in contrast to the 12.5% increase in the House bill.

On November 17, 1967, Senator Prouty (R-VT) offered an amendment to finance the higher benefits out of general revenues rather than Social Security taxes. The amendment was rejected by a vote of 6 (3-R, 3-D) to 62 (23-R, 39-D).¹⁸³ ¹⁷⁹ Congressional Record, March 15, 1966, Senate, Roll call no. 57, not voting 23, p. 5960.

¹⁸⁰ Wilbur J. Cohen and Robert M. Ball, "Social Security Amendments of 1967: Summary and Legislative History," Social Security Bulletin, vol. 31, no. 2, February 1968, p. 3, at <https://www.ssa.gov/policy/docs/ssb/v31n2/v31n2p3.pdf>.

¹⁸¹ Congressional Record, August 17, 1967, House, p. 23132.

¹⁸² Congressional Record, August 17, 1967, House, Roll call no. 222, not voting 3, p. 23132.

¹⁸³ Congressional Record, November 17, 1967, Senate, Roll call no. 327, not voting 32, p. 33078.

On November 17, 1967, Senator Metcalf (D-MT) offered an amendment to delete from H.R. 12080 a more stringent definition of disability. The Metcalf amendment was passed by a vote of 34 (6-R, 28-D) to 20 (16-R, 4-D).¹⁸⁴

On November 21, 1967, Senator Williams (R-DE) offered an amendment to implement the Finance Committee's recommended payroll tax increase in January 1968 (before the general election) rather than in January 1969. The amendment was defeated by a vote of 27 (22-R, 5-D) to 49 (4-R, 45-D).¹⁸⁵

On November 21, 1967, the Senate, by a vote of 22 (17-R, 5-D) to 58 (9-R, 49-D), rejected a Republican proposal offered by Senator Curtis (R-NE) and Senator Williams (R-DE) substituting the 12.5% OASDI benefit increase and financing plan contained in the House bill for the 15% benefit increase and financing plan recommended by the Finance Committee.¹⁸⁶

On November 21, 1967, Senator Bayh (D-IN) offered an amendment to raise the earnings test limit from $1,680 to $2,400. The amendment passed by a vote of 50 (14-R, 36-D) to 23 (10-R, 13-D).¹⁸⁷

The Senate passed H.R. 12080 on November 22, 1967, by a 78 (23 R, 55-D) to 6 (4-R, 2-D) roll call vote.¹⁸⁸

Conference Action

The conference report on H.R. 12080 was filed on December 11, 1967. All of the major Senate floor amendments were dropped from the bill. The conferees split the difference between many of the other provisions.

The House adopted the conference report on December 13, 1967, by a vote of 390 (167-R, 223-D) to 3 (1-R, 2-D).¹⁸⁹

The Senate adopted the conference report on December 15, 1967, by a vote of 62 (26-R, 36-D) to 14 (3-R, 11-D).¹⁹⁰

P.L. 91-172, Tax Reform Act of 1969

H.R. 13270, the Tax Reform Act of 1969, was signed by President Nixon on December 30, 1969. The new law included a 15% increase in Social Security benefits beginning in January 1, 1970.

House Action

On August 7, 1969, the House passed H.R. 13270 by a vote of 395 (176-R, 219-D) to 30 (10-R, 20-D).¹⁹¹ The bill did not contain any Social Security provisions.

¹⁸⁴ Congressional Record, November 17, 1967, Senate, Roll call no. 329, not voting 46, p. 33119.

¹⁸⁵ Congressional Record, November 21, 1967, Senate, Roll call no. 335, not voting 24, p. 33496.

¹⁸⁶ Congressional Record, November 21, 1967, Senate, Roll call no. 337, not voting 20, p. 33510.

¹⁸⁷ Congressional Record, November 21, 1967, Senate, Roll call no. 349, not voting 27, p. 33587.

¹⁸⁸ Congressional Record, November 22, 1967, Senate, Roll call no. 350, not voting 16, p. 33637.

¹⁸⁹ Congressional Record, December 13, 1967, House, Roll call no. 439, not voting 38, p. 36393.

¹⁹⁰ Congressional Record, December 15, 1967, Senate, Roll call no. 392, not voting 24, p. 36924.

¹⁹¹ Congressional Record, August 7, 1969, House, Roll call no. 149, not voting 7, pp. 22808-22809.

Senate Action

On December 5, 1969, Senator Long (D-LA) offered an amendment to raise basic Social Security benefits by 15% beginning in January 1970.

Senator Long's amendment was passed by a vote of 73 (23-R, 50-D) to 14 (14-R).¹⁹²

A Byrd (D-WV)-Mansfield (D-MT) amendment to increase the minimum benefit to $100 for single persons and to $150 for couples and to increase the taxable wage base from $7,800 to $12,000 beginning in 1973 was passed December 5, 1969, by a vote of 48 (8-R, 40-D) to 41 (28-R, 13-D).¹⁹³

On December 5, 1969, Senator Williams (R-DE) offered a substitute amendment to provide a 10%, rather than a 15% benefit increase. The substitute amendment was rejected by a vote of 34 (33-R, 1-D) to 56 (5-R, 51-D).¹⁹⁴

On December 11, 1969, the Senate passed H.R. 13270 by a vote of 69 (18-R, 51-D) to 22 (20-R, 2-D).¹⁹⁵

Conference Action

The conferees agreed to increase Social Security benefits by 15%, effective January 1, 1970. The House had not included the increase in H.R. 13270 but had approved an identical provision in another bill, H.R. 15095. The conferees dropped the other provisions that were added on the Senate floor.

On December 22, 1969, the House adopted the conference report on the Tax Reform Act, H.R. 13270, by a vote of 381 (169-R, 212-D) to 2 (2-R).¹⁹⁶

On December 22, 1969, the Senate adopted H.R. 13270 by a vote of 71 (25-R, 46-D) to 6 (6-R).¹⁹⁷

P.L. 92-5, Public Debt Limit Increase; Social Security Amendments

President Nixon signed H.R. 4690 on March 17, 1971. It provided a 10% across-the-board increase in OASDI benefits, retroactive to January 1, 1971; raised the minimum benefit from $64 to $70.40 per month; increased the taxable wage base from $7,800 to $9,000 effective January 1, 1972; increased the OASDI tax rates on employers and employees to 5.15% each beginning in 1976 (from 5% scheduled to take effect in 1973 under prior law); and provided a 5% increase in special benefits payable to individuals aged 72 or older who were not insured for regular benefits, retroactive to January 1, 1971.

House Action

In 1970, a comprehensive Social Security bill (H.R. 17550) was passed by the House by a vote of 344 (166-R, 178-D) to 32 (32-D).¹⁹⁸ H.R. 17550 increased benefits by 5%, provided for automatic ¹⁹² Congressional Record, December 5, 1969, Senate, Roll call no. 179, not voting 13, p. 37247.

¹⁹³ Congressional Record, December 5, 1969, Senate, Roll call no. 177, not voting 10, p. 37240.

¹⁹⁴ Congressional Record, December 5, 1969, Senate, Roll call no. 175, not voting 9, p. 37230.

¹⁹⁵ Congressional Record, December 11, 1969, Senate, Roll call no. 223, not voting 6, p. 38396.

¹⁹⁶ Congressional Record, December 22, 1969, House, Roll call no. 351, not voting 50, pp. 40899-40900.

¹⁹⁷ Congressional Record, December 22, 1969, Senate, Roll call no. 273, not voting 23, p. 40718.

¹⁹⁸ Congressional Record, May 21, 1970, House, Roll call no. 136, not voting 53, pp. 16587-16588.

benefit increases with rises in the cost of living, and made other changes in the OASDI and Medicare programs.

Senate Action

In the Senate, H.R. 17550 became a conglomerate bill containing import quotas and welfare provisions as well. On December 29, 1970, the Senate separated Social Security changes from the rest of the bill. H.R. 17550, with provisions raising benefits by 10%, providing a $100 minimum monthly benefit, raising the taxable wage base from $7,800 to $9,000, and making changes in the Medicare and Medicaid programs, was passed by the Senate on December 29, 1970, by a vote of 81 (35-R, 46-D) to 0.¹⁹⁹ However, the House never agreed to a conference.²⁰⁰

Senator Long (D-LA), chairman of the Finance Committee and floor manager of H.R. 4690, said that he had asked the House to take immediate action to raise Social Security benefits and as the House had not responded, he was offering a benefit increase as an amendment to H.R. 4690, a bill to increase the debt ceiling.²⁰¹

On March 12, 1971, Senator Long's amendment to provide a 10% increase in Social Security payments, a $100 minimum monthly benefit, increases in earnings limitations, and other changes passed by a vote of 82 (38-R, 44-D) to 0.²⁰²

The Senate, on March 12, 1971, passed H.R. 4690, after approving several Social Security changes, including the benefit increase proposed by Senator Long, by a vote of 80 (37-R, 43-D) to 0.²⁰³

Conference Action

Conferees accepted the Senate's 10% benefit increase but reduced the $100 minimum benefit to $70.40 and made several other modifications.

On March 16, 1971, the House adopted the conference report by a vote of 360 (150-R, 210-D) to 3 (3-R).²⁰⁴

On March 16, 1971, the Senate adopted the report by a vote of 76 (37-R, 39-D) to 0.²⁰⁵

P.L. 92-336, Public Debt Limit; Disaster losses; Social Security Act Amendments

President Nixon signed H.R. 15390, a bill to extend the limit on the public debt, on July 1, 1972. At the beginning of the year, the President included a number of Social Security proposals, along with a controversial welfare reform plan, in H.R. 1. Congress at midyear used a more promising vehicle to pass a separate 20% increase in Social Security benefits. The increase was added in the Senate to a House-passed bill that raised the debt limit (H.R. 15390). The bill also provided for future automatic increases in Social Security benefits when the consumer price index (CPI) rose

¹⁹⁹ Congressional Record, December 29, 1970, Senate, Roll call no. 455, not voting 19, p. 43868.

²⁰⁰ Congressional Quarterly Almanac; 1971, pp. 421-425.

²⁰¹ Congressional Record, March 12, 1971, Senate, p. 6374.

²⁰² Congressional Record, March 12, 1971, Senate, Roll call no. 20, not voting 18, p. 6381.

²⁰³ Congressional Record, March 12, 1971, Senate, Roll call no. 23, not voting 20, p. 6390.

²⁰⁴ Congressional Record, March 16, 1971, House, Roll call no. 20, not voting 68, pp. 6741-6742.

²⁰⁵ Congressional Record, March 16, 1971, Senate, Roll call no. 24, not voting 24, p. 6688.

by 3% or more. To finance the increase, the taxable wage base was raised from $9,000 to $10,800 in 1973 and to $12,000 in 1974, with automatic adjustment thereafter. The Congressional Quarterly Almanac reported that,

Backers of the Social Security benefits package decided to attach it to the debt increase bill for two reasons: (1) President Nixon, who opposed a 20% increase as inflationary, would be unlikely to veto a bill that contained a debt limit increase, and (2) H.R. 1, the bill under which a benefit increase was then being considered, faced an uncertain future because of controversy over its welfare provisions.²⁰⁶

House Action

On June 22, 1971, the House had passed H.R. 1 (see P.L. 92-603, below) which included provision for a general benefit increase of 5%.

On February 23, 1972, Representative Mills (D-AR), chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, introduced H.R. 13320, which provided for an immediate benefit increase of 20%.²⁰⁷

On June 27, 1972, the House passed H.R. 15390, providing only for an increase in the debt ceiling, by a vote of 211 to 168.²⁰⁸

Senate Action

On June 29, 1972, Senator Aiken (R-VT) offered an amendment to the Church amendment to increase Social Security benefits by 30%. Following Senator Long's (D-LA) motion, Senator Aiken's amendment was tabled by a vote of 71 (31-R, 40-D) to 18 (8-R, 10-D).²⁰⁹

On June 30, 1972, an amendment by Senator Bennett (R-UT) to increase Social Security benefits by 10% instead of 20% was rejected by the Senate by a vote of 20 (17-R, 3-D) to 66 (21-R, 45-D).²¹⁰

On June 30, 1972, Senator Church's (D-ID) amendment calling for a 20% benefit increase and the automatic adjustment of benefits and the taxable wage base in the future was adopted by the Senate by a vote of 82 (34-R, 48-D) to 4 (4-R).²¹¹ The amendment made benefit increases automatic whenever the CPI rose by 3% or more in any calendar year.

On June 30, 1972, the Senate passed H.R. 15390 by a vote of 78 (36-R, 42-D) to 3 (1-R, 2-D). H.R. 15390 was then sent back to the House.²¹²

House Response to Senate Amendment

The House sent the debt ceiling bill to the conference committee on June 30, 1972, without accepting the Senate-passed benefit increase. Immediate congressional action was necessary because the debt limit was to revert automatically to $400 billion (from the existing $450 billion) at midnight on June 30, 1972.

²⁰⁶ Congressional Quarterly Almanac: 1972, p. 399.

²⁰⁷ Congressional Record, February 23, 1972, House, p. 5269-5270.

²⁰⁸ Congressional Record, June 27, 1972, House, Roll call no. 237, not voting 53, pp. 22558-22559.

²⁰⁹ Congressional Record, June 29, 1972, Senate, Roll call no. 266, not voting 11, p. 23294.

²¹⁰ Congressional Record, June 30, 1972, Senate, Roll call no. 267, not voting 13, pp. 23511-23512.

²¹¹ Congressional Record, June 30, 1972, Senate, Roll call no. 268, not voting 13, p. 23512.

²¹² Congressional Record, June 30, 1972, Senate, Roll call no. 272, not voting 19, p. 23545.

Conference Action

On June 30, 1972, the conferees informally accepted the Senate-passed version of H.R. 15390. Under House rules, however, House conferees could not agree to nongermane amendments added by the Senate. Thus, the conference report was reported back to the House in disagreement.²¹³

On June 30, 1972, Representative Byrnes (R-WI) called the proposed 20% increase “irresponsible” and moved that the House concur with the Senate amendment but with the benefit increase limited to 10%. The motion was rejected by a vote of 83 (63-R, 20-D) to 253 (73-R, 180-D).²¹⁴

On June 30, 1972, Representative Mills’s (D-AR) motion that the House concur with the Senate-passed amendment granting a 20% Social Security benefit increase and annual automatic cost-of-living adjustments (COLAs) was accepted by a vote of 302 (108-R, 194-D) to 35 (28-R, 7-D).²¹⁵

P.L. 92-603, Social Security Amendments of 1972

H.R. 1, the Social Security Amendments of 1972, was signed into law on October 30, 1972, by President Nixon. From 1969 to 1972, Congress raised OASDI benefits three times. Benefits were raised by 15% in 1969, 10% in 1971, and 20% in 1972 (discussed above, the latter with the adoption of P.L. 92-336). P.L. 92-336 also provided for future automatic benefit increases, or COLAs, starting in January 1975, whenever the consumer price index rose more than 3% in a year. These benefit increases were amendments to bills dealing with other subjects. President Nixon had requested a number of other Social Security liberalizations in 1969, but those proposals were entangled with his controversial welfare reform plan. It was not until 1972, when H.R. 1 became P.L. 92-603, that the requested Social Security recommendations became law.²¹⁶

The 1972 amendments (H.R. 1) increased benefits for widows and widowers; raised the earnings limit from $1,680 to $2,100 with automatic adjustment to average wages thereafter (benefits were reduced by $1 for every $2 in earnings in excess of $2,100); reduced the waiting period for disability benefits from six to five months; extended Medicare protection to disabled recipients who had received benefits for at least two years; and provided a special minimum benefit of up to $170 a month for those who had worked many years, but at low earnings. In addition, OASDI and HI tax rate-increases scheduled for the periods 1973-1977, 1978-1980, 1981-1985, 1986-1992, 1993-1997, 1998-2010, and 2011 and years thereafter, were further raised.²¹⁷

H.R. 1 also contained the President’s controversial Family Assistance Plan. The bill remained in the Senate for more than a year because of controversy over welfare reform. The Senate finally approved H.R. 1 with a provision for tests of rival welfare plans, but in conference all family welfare provisions were dropped. In addition, the final version of H.R. 1 contained provisions federalizing and consolidating adult public assistance programs for needy aged, blind, or disabled persons in a new Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program.

²¹³ Congressional Quarterly Almanac: 1972, pp. 402-403.

²¹⁴ Congressional Record, June 30, 1972, House, Roll call no. 259, not voting 95, p. 23738.

²¹⁵ Congressional Record, June 30, 1972, House, Roll call no. 260, not voting 95, pp. 23738-23739.

²¹⁶ Congress and the Nation: 1969-1972, vol. III, p. 619.

²¹⁷ Under P.L. 92-336, the tax rates had been reduced over then existing scheduled increases through 2010; rates under P.L. 92-603 advanced the tax rate schedule and raised the out-year rates.

House Action

Most of the debate on H.R. 1 dealt with the family welfare provisions, with little debate on the OASDI and Medicare provisions.

H.R. 1 was passed by the House on June 22, 1971, by a vote of 288 (112-R, 176-D) to 132 (64-R, 68-D).²¹⁸

Senate Action

On September 27, 1972, Senator Mansfield (D-MT) offered an amendment to increase the earnings test limit from $1,680 to $3,000. The amendment was agreed to by a vote of 76 (32-R, 44-D) to 5 (4-R, 1-D).²¹⁹

On September 28, 1972, Senator Percy's (R-IL) amendment to require the Secretary of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare to review the Social Security earnings test, and report to Congress on the feasibility of eliminating it, was accepted by voice vote.²²⁰

On September 29, 1972, Senator Long (D-LA) offered an amendment to provide a federal SSI program for needy aged, blind, or disabled persons (in place of the existing state adult assistance programs). The amendment was passed by a vote of 75 (32-R, 43-D) to 0.²²¹

On September 29, 1972, the Finance Committee's amendment to guarantee every person who worked in employment covered under the Social Security program for at least 30 years a minimum monthly benefit of $200 ($300 for a couple) passed by a vote of 73 (30-R, 43-D) to 0.²²²

On September 30, 1972, Senator Byrd's (D-WV) amendment to lower to 60 the age at which reduced Social Security benefits could be received and to 55 the age at which a woman could receive reduced widow's benefits was agreed to by a vote of 29 (10-R, 19-D) to 25 (12-R, 13-D).²²³

On September 27, 1972, Senator Goldwater (R-AZ) offered an amendment to repeal the earnings limitation for all Social Security recipients aged 65 or older. The amendment was rejected by voice vote.²²⁴

H.R. 1 passed the Senate on October 5, 1972, by a vote of 68 (33-R, 35-D) to 5 (1-R, 4-D).²²⁵

Conference Action

On October 17, 1972, the House adopted the conference report on H.R. 1 by a vote of 305 (129-R, 176-D) to 1 (1-D).²²⁶

²¹⁸ Congressional Record, June 22, 1971, House, Roll call no. 157, not voting 13, p. 21463.

²¹⁹ Congressional Record, September 27, 1972, Senate, Roll call no. 478, not voting 19, p. 32488.

²²⁰ Congressional Record, September 28, 1972, Senate, p. 32720.

²²¹ Congressional Record, September 29, 1972, Senate, Roll call no. 484, not voting 25, p. 32905.

²²² Congressional Record, September 29, 1972, Senate, Roll call no. 485, not voting 27, p. 32907.

²²³ Congressional Record, September 30, 1972, Senate, Roll call no. 488, not voting 46, p. 33000.

²²⁴ Congressional Record, September 27, 1972, Senate, p. 32485.

²²⁵ Congressional Record, October 5, 1972, Senate, Roll call no. 536, not voting 27, p. 33995.

²²⁶ Congressional Record, October 17, 1972, Senate, Roll call no. 455, not voting 122, p. 36936.

On October 17, 1972, the Senate adopted the conference report on H.R. 1 by a vote of 61 (24-R, 37-D) to 0.²²⁷

P.L. 93-233, Social Security Benefits Increase

A two-step 11% benefit increase became law when President Nixon signed H.R. 11333 on December 31, 1973. This increase was in lieu of a 5.9% increase scheduled by P.L. 93-66, which had been enacted in July 1973.²²⁸ In passing H.R. 11333, congressional sentiment was that the earlier increase was inadequate to offset recent rapid increases in inflation.

P.L. 93-233 increased benefits by 7% in March 1974 and by another 4% in June 1974. To finance the increases, the Social Security taxable wage base was raised from $12,600 to $13,200 in January 1974. In addition, the automatic COLA mechanism was revised. Under P.L. 93-233, the COLA was to be based on the rise in the CPI from the first quarter of one year to the first quarter of the next year, rather than second quarter to second quarter, with benefit increases starting in June 1975 rather than in January. As a result, the increases would appear in checks received in July, creating only a three-month lag from the close of the measuring period (i.e., the first quarter) rather than the seven-month lag under the prior mechanism.

House Action

With a rule allowing only one floor amendment (pertaining to SSI), the House passed H.R. 11333 on November 15, 1973.²²⁹

The November 14-15 debate on H.R. 11333 was devoted to the need for a quick cost-of-living Social Security benefit increase and to questions about the fiscal soundness of the Social Security trust funds.²³⁰ H.R. 11333 as reported by the Ways and Means Committee recommended a two-step 11% Social Security benefit increase in 1974, accelerated SSI benefit increases, and payroll tax increases.

On November 15, 1973, the House passed H.R. 11333 by a vote of 391 (168-R, 223-D) to 20 (15-R, 5-D).²³¹

Senate Action

The Senate Finance Committee approved a number of provisions affecting Social Security, including an initial 7% benefit increase effective upon enactment and a further 4% increase in June 1974. Rather than acting on H.R. 11333, the Senate attached its Social Security amendments to H.R. 3153, a Social Security bill passed by the House on April 2, 1973. (H.R. 3153 made a number of technical and conforming amendments to the Social Security Act that had been omitted in drafting the conference agreement on H.R. 1, which became P.L. 92-603.) The Senate debated H.R. 3153 for three days and adopted 38 amendments.

On November 29, 1973, Senator Byrd (D-WV) introduced an amendment that reduced to 55 the age at which a woman could claim a Social Security widow's benefit. Under existing law, a widow could elect to retire at 60 with reduced benefits. Senator Byrd said that his amendment

²²⁷ Congressional Record, October 17, 1972, Senate, Roll call no. 567, not voting 39, p. 36825.

²²⁸ P.L. 93-66 also increased the earnings test threshold amount from $2,100 to $2,400 for 1974.

²²⁹ Congressional Record, November 15, 1973, House, Roll call no. 592, not voting 22, p. 37159.

²³⁰ Congressional Quarterly Almanac: 1973, p. 573.

²³¹ Congressional Record, November 15, 1973, House, Roll call no. 592, not voting 22, p. 37159.

would help widows between the ages of 55 and 60, who would be unlikely and perhaps unable to establish a new career or to reactivate an old one. Terming the Byrd amendment “inequitable,” Senator Curtis (R-NE) objected that it would be unjust to reduce the eligibility age for widows “who have not worked under covered employment” while keeping the existing requirement at age 62 for “women who have had to work all their lives and will have to work until they are of retirement age.” Senator Byrd’s amendment was adopted by a vote of 74 (28-R, 46-D) to 13 (9-R, 4-D).²³²

Senator Byrd introduced a second amendment that increased the earnings test limit from $2,400 to $3,000 and lowered from 72 to 70, the age at which the earnings limit would no longer apply. The amendment was accepted November 29, 1973, by a vote of 83 (33-R, 50-D) to 1 (1-R).²³³

On November 29, 1973, Senator Hartke’s (D-IN) amendment making blind persons eligible for disability benefits after working 18 months in covered employment was adopted by voice vote. (Ordinarily a disabled person had to have covered employment in 20 quarters out of the last 40 quarters to be eligible.)

On November 30, 1973, the Senate passed H.R. 3153 by a vote of 66 (24-R, 42-D) to 8 (6-R, 2-D).²³⁴

Conference Action

After the Senate passed H.R. 3153, it asked the House for a conference, but the House appointed conferees only two days before the end of the session. The conferees did not act on H.R. 3153. Instead, they agreed to work on revisions to H.R. 11333, the House-passed Social Security bill, on which the Senate had never acted.²³⁵

As part of a compromise reached on December 20, the House conferees agreed to hold a further conference on H.R. 3153 in 1974 to consider additional Senate amendments, but the conference never took place.

The conference report on H.R. 11333 included a two-step 11% increase in benefits, effective March 1974 and June 1974, raised the wage base to $13,200 in 1974, and increased the initial federal SSI benefit level.

The Senate passed H.R. 11333 with the amendments agreed to in conference on December 21, 1973, by a vote of 64 to 0.²³⁶

The House, on December 21, 1973, concurred in passing the bill by a vote of 301 (123-R, 178-D) to 13 (10-R, 3-D).²³⁷

P.L. 95-216, Social Security Amendments of 1977

H.R. 9346, the Social Security Amendments of 1977, was signed by President Carter on December 20, 1977. H.R. 9346 was passed to meet major Social Security financing problems that emerged in the mid-1970s. The Congressional Quarterly Almanac says that the main cause of the ²³² Congressional Record, November 29, 1973, Senate, Roll call no. 527, not voting 13, p. 38645.

²³³ Congressional Record, November 29, 1973, Senate, Roll call no. 528, not voting 15, pp. 38645-38646.

²³⁴ Congressional Record, November 30, 1973, Senate, Roll call no. 540, not voting 24, p. 38975.

²³⁵ Congressional Quarterly Almanac: 1973, p. 577-580.

²³⁶ Congressional Record, December 21, 1973, Senate, Roll call no. 613, not voting 34, p. 43115. Note: The Congressional Quarterly vote breakdown indicates 66 in favor (21-R, 45-D) and 0 opposed.

²³⁷ Congressional Record, December 21, 1973, House, Roll call no. 719, not voting 118, p. 43230.

immediate financial problems was the “combination of rapid inflation and a recession, which together raised Social Security benefit costs and reduced tax receipts.”²³⁸ In addition to fixing short-run problems, the amendments sought to eliminate the medium-range deficit (over the next 25 years) and to reduce the projected long-range deficit (next 75 years) from more than 8% of taxable payroll to less than 1.5%. The basic approach was to (1) handle the short-term financing problem either through increased payroll taxes or infusions from the general fund; and (2) reduce and possibly eliminate the projected long-run deficit by modifying the benefit formula to stabilize replacement rates.

Neither house of Congress gave much attention to an Administration proposal to authorize use of general revenues for Social Security during periods of high unemployment (i.e., the so-called counter cyclical use of general revenues). Instead, the new law met the short-run problem mostly by increasing Social Security tax rates and the taxable earnings base and also by somewhat reducing expenditures. The final bill contained “decoupling” procedures, which also had been supported by the Ford Administration, for correcting a basic flaw in the benefit computation formula, and thereby largely reduced the long-run problem. P.L. 95-216 also liberalized the earnings test by providing a five-step ad hoc increase in the earnings limits for recipients aged 65 or older (the limit for persons under age 65 continued to be adjusted only for increases in average wages after 1978); eliminated the earnings test for recipients aged 70 or older (reduced from age 72), beginning in 1982; reduced spousal benefits for government annuitants whose government jobs were not covered by Social Security; and liberalized the treatment of divorced and widowed recipients.

House Action

Legislation that incorporated the Administration’s recommendations (H.R. 8218) was introduced on July 12, 1977, by Representative Burke (D-MA), chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee’s Social Security Subcommittee. After reworking the Administration’s package, the subcommittee made recommendations to the full committee that were introduced by Chairman Ullman (D-OR) on September 27, 1977, as H.R. 9346. On October 6, 1977, the full committee approved a financing plan combining payroll tax increases with basic changes in benefits and coverage. H.R. 9346, was reported to the House on October 12, 1977. The House floor debate on H.R. 9346 began on October 26, 1977.²³⁹

On October 26, 1977, the House considered an amendment from the Committee on Post Office and Civil Service.²⁴⁰ The amendment would have deleted the provision in the Ways and Means Committee bill covering federal, state, local, and nonprofit employees under Social Security.

Representative Fisher (D-VA) offered a substitute for the Post Office and Civil Service Committee amendment. The Fisher substitute provided that federal employees would continue to ²³⁸ Congressional Quarterly Almanac: 1977, p. 161.

²³⁹ John Snee and Mary Ross, “Social Security Amendments of 1977: Legislative History and Summary of Provisions,” Social Security Bulletin, vol. 41, no. 3, March 1978, pp. 6-9, at <https://www.ssa.gov/policy/docs/ssb/v41n3/v41n3p3.pdf>. (Hereinafter cited as “Social Security Amendments of 1977: Legislative History.”)

²⁴⁰ When H.R. 9346 was introduced, it was referred solely to the Ways and Means Committee. The chairman of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee, Rep. Nix (D-PA), concerned over the Social Security coverage of federal employees under the bill, persuaded the Speaker to give his committee sequential referral of the bill. The Committee on Post Office and Civil Service unanimously voted to amend the bill to strike Social Security coverage of federal employees. However, under the rule for floor debates the bill as reported by the Ways and Means Committee was to be the vehicle for floor consideration. The Post Office and Civil Service Committee amendment was considered as a floor amendment to the Ways and Means Committee bill.

be exempt from the Social Security system and that state and local governments and nonprofit organizations would continue to have the option of electing to cover their employees. While the amendment deleted mandatory coverage of these employees, the bill retained a provision requiring a study of mandatory coverage to be conducted jointly by the Civil Service Commission, the Departments of the Treasury and Health, Education, and Welfare, and the Office of Management and Budget. Many Members endorsed the concept of universal mandatory Social Security coverage, but supporters of the Fisher amendment asserted that a study of the universal coverage issue should be conducted first. Opponents, in contrast, argued that the committee bill, by postponing the extension of coverage until 1982, allowed sufficient time to work out details.²⁴¹ To make up for the revenue loss due to deletion of the mandatory coverage provisions, the amendment also provided for greater increases in the Social Security tax rate and wage base than those included in the committee bill. The Administration, as well as representatives of many groups that would have been affected by the coverage extension, lobbied for the Fisher amendment.²⁴² Representative Fisher's substitute amendment was agreed to by a vote of 386 (129-R, 257-D) to 38 (14-R, 24-D).²⁴³ The House then adopted the Post Office and Civil Service Committee amendment, as amended by the Fisher amendment, by a vote of 380 (124-R, 256-D) to 39 (14-R, 25-D).²⁴⁴

On October 26, 1977, Representative Pickle (D-TX) offered an amendment to strike another committee provision authorizing standby loans to the OASDI system from general revenues whenever trust fund reserves dipped below 25% of a year's outgo. Representative Pickle argued that any use of general treasury funds for Social Security undermined the contributory nature of the program. He remarked that he did not want to see the Social Security program turned into a "welfare or need program." The Pickle amendment was rejected by a vote of 196 (122-R, 74-D) to 221 (15-R, 206-D).²⁴⁵

On October 26, 1977, Representative Corman (D-CA) offered an amendment to eliminate the minimum Social Security benefit for new recipients. He said that the minimum benefit gave those who had paid very little in Social Security taxes a benefit "far in excess of his or her average monthly wage." He stated that his amendment restored "a measure of the social insurance principle of relating benefits to contributions." The amendment was rejected by a vote of 131 (68-R, 63-D) to 271 (64-R, 207-D).²⁴⁶

On October 27, 1977, Representative Ketchum (R-CA) offered an amendment to gradually raise the earnings limitation on recipients over age 65 and to phase it out completely in 1982. The amendment included a tax rate increase to meet the cost of the additional benefit payments. The amendment was adopted by a vote of 268 (139-R, 129-D) to 149 (1-R, 148-D).²⁴⁷

On October 27, 1977, Representative Conable (R-NY) moved to recommit H.R. 9346 to the Ways and Means Committee with instructions to report out the bill with an amendment that mandated coverage of federal workers, diverted half of the HI portion of the payroll tax to OASDI in 1980, and replaced the lost HI revenues with general revenues. Representative Conable argued that an amendment containing the above would enable both the wage base and the tax rate to remain as ²⁴¹ Congressional Quarterly Almanac: 1977, p. 165.

²⁴² Ibid.

²⁴³ Congressional Record, October 26, 1977, House, Roll call no. 697, not voting 10, p. 35315.

²⁴⁴ Congressional Record, October 26, 1977, House, Roll call no. 698, not voting 15, pp. 35315-35316.

²⁴⁵ Congressional Record, October 26, 1977, House, Roll call no. 700, not voting 17, p. 35323.

²⁴⁶ Congressional Record, October 26, 1977, House, Roll call no. 701, not voting 32, p. 35326.

²⁴⁷ Congressional Record, October 27, 1977, House, Roll call no. 704, not voting 17, p. 35394.

scheduled under existing law. The recommittal motion was rejected by a vote of 57 (44-R, 13-D) to 363 (97-R, 266-D).²⁴⁸

H.R. 9346 passed the House on October 27, 1977, by a vote of 275 (40-R, 235-D) to 146 (100-R, 46-D).²⁴⁹

Senate Action

Preliminary hearings and markup sessions on financing and decoupling were held by the Senate Committee on Finance in the summer and fall of 1977, even though the House had not yet passed its Social Security bill.²⁵⁰ Before H.R. 9346 was passed by the House, the Finance Committee had tentatively agreed that its amendments would be attached to H.R. 5322, an unrelated tariff bill that had originated in the House. H.R. 5322 was to be a convenient vehicle for putting the Senate Finance Committee proposals before the Senate promptly.²⁵¹

When H.R. 9346 as passed by the House came up for debate on the Senate floor on November 2, 1977, Senator Long (D-LA) introduced an amendment to substitute the Finance Committee Social Security proposals in H.R. 5322 for the House bill. The Finance Committee proposals included decoupling measures similar to those in the House bill. They also included provisions that would require employers to pay Social Security taxes on a higher wage base than employees and would reduce spousal benefits by the amount of a government pension that was based on work not covered by Social Security. Senator Long's amendment was agreed to with no recorded vote.²⁵² Thus, the text of H.R. 5322 became H.R. 9346 as amended by the Senate.

On November 3, 1977, Senator Curtis (R-NE) offered an amendment that would have kept the taxable wage base the same for employers and employees (at the level specified for employees in the committee proposal) but would have raised the tax rate above the committee-recommended levels. Senator Curtis said his amendment would take care of the deficit in the Social Security fund. He stated that raising the wage base would put half of the financing burden exclusively on the people with higher incomes.

Senator Nelson (D-WI) acknowledged that the Curtis amendment would supply the necessary funding to keep the retirement system solvent, but stressed that the average worker would pay a higher tax under the Curtis plan than under the committee proposal. Senator Nelson's motion to table the Curtis amendment lost by a vote of 44 (3-R, 41-D) to 45 (31-R, 14-D),²⁵³ but the Senate then rejected the Curtis amendment, 40 (27-R, 13-D) to 50 (7-R, 43-D).²⁵⁴

On November 4, 1977, Senator Goldwater (R-AZ) offered an amendment to lower the age at which the earnings test would no longer apply from 72 to 65. Senator Goldwater said that his amendment would end the discrimination that allowed full benefits to relatively wealthy retirees who had unearned income in excess of $3,000, but reduced benefits for retirees who relied entirely on additional earned income to supplement their Social Security benefits. Opponents of the amendment said that it would provide a windfall to professionals who continued to work at lucrative jobs past retirement age.

²⁴⁸ Congressional Record, October 27, 1977, House, Roll call no. 705, not voting 14, p. 35406.

²⁴⁹ Congressional Record, October 27, 1977, House, Roll call no. 706, not voting 13, pp. 35406-35407.

²⁵⁰ Social Security Amendments of 1977: Legislative History, p. 9.

²⁵¹ Ibid., pp. 10-11.

²⁵² Congressional Record, November 2, 1977, Senate, p. 36449.

²⁵³ Congressional Record, November 3, 1977, Senate, Roll call no. 611, not voting 11, p. 36763.

²⁵⁴ Congressional Record, November 3, 1977, Senate, Roll call no. 612, not voting 10, p. 36764.

Senator Church (D-ID) offered a substitute amendment to lower from 72 to 70 the age at which the earnings test would no longer apply. Senator Goldwater's motion to table the Church amendment was rejected 33 (25-R, 8-D) to 53 (7-R, 46-D).²⁵⁵ The Senate adopted the Church substitute amendment 59 (12-R, 47-D) to 28 (20-R, 8-D)²⁵⁶ and then adopted the Goldwater amendment as amended by the Church substitute by a vote of 79 (30-R, 49-D) to 4 (4-D).²⁵⁷

An amendment offered by Senator Church on November 4, 1977, to provide for semiannual COLAs when the rate of inflation for a six-month period was 4% or greater was adopted by a vote of 50 (11-R, 39-D) to 21 (15-R, 6-D).²⁵⁸

On November 4, 1977, Senator Bayh (D-IN) offered an amendment to remove the earnings limit for blind persons collecting disability benefits and to set the number of quarters blind persons must work to qualify for disability benefit at six. The Bayh amendment was adopted by voice vote.²⁵⁹

The Senate passed H.R. 9346, as amended, by a vote of 42 (9-R, 33-D) to 25 (15-R, 10-D) on November 4, 1977.²⁶⁰

Conference Action

The conference agreement provided for higher payroll tax rates than those proposed by either the House or Senate. The House-approved authority for loans to the trust funds from general revenues was dropped, as was the Senate-passed proposal to raise the wage base for employers higher than that for employees. Rather than phase out the earnings test, as in the House-passed bill, the conferees agreed to raise, over five years, the earnings tests limit for the elderly (aged 65 or older).

Despite numerous differences between the House and Senate versions of the bill, the Congressional Quarterly Almanac stated that the conferees resolved their differences "without trouble."²⁶¹ The main controversy involved provisions dealing with welfare programs and college tuition tax credits.

On December 15, 1977, the House agreed to the conference report by a vote of 189 (15-R, 174-D) to 163 (109-R, 54-D).²⁶² There was unease in the House because of the large tax increases. Representative Conable (R-NY) claimed that more reasonable non-tax alternatives were available.

On December 15, 1977, Representative Ullman (D-OR) stated that the conference report "responsibly faces up to the issues of Social Security, both short range and long range." He assured Members that he would "move as expeditiously as possible ... toward adopting a new revenue mechanism whereby we can back off from these major increases...."²⁶³

²⁵⁵ Congressional Record, November 4, 1977, Senate, Roll call no. 620, not voting 14, pp. 37130-37131.

²⁵⁶ Congressional Record, November 4, 1977, Senate, Roll call no. 621, not voting 13, p. 37132.

²⁵⁷ Congressional Record, November 4, 1977, Senate, Roll call no. 622, not voting 17, p. 37132.

²⁵⁸ Congressional Record, November 4, 1977, Senate, Roll call no. 627, not voting 29, p. 37162.

²⁵⁹ Congressional Record, November 4, 1977, Senate, p. 37141.

²⁶⁰ Congressional Record, November 4, 1977, Senate, Roll call no. 631, not voting 31, p. 37199-37200.

²⁶¹ Congressional Quarterly Almanac: 1977, p. 171.

²⁶² Congressional Record, December 15, 1977, House, Roll call no. 782, not voting 81, p. 39035.

²⁶³ Congressional Record, December 15, 1977, House, in floor remarks by Rep. Ullman, pp. 39007-39008.

On December 15, 1977, the Senate passed the conference report with little controversy by a vote of 56 (17-R, 39-D) to 21 (14-R, 7-D).²⁶⁴

P.L. 96-265, Social Security Disability Amendments of 1980

H.R. 3236, the Social Security Disability Amendments of 1980, was signed by President Carter on June 9, 1980. H.R. 3236 changed the Social Security Disability Insurance program in four major ways: (1) it placed a new limit on family benefits to prevent Social Security benefits from exceeding the worker's previous average earnings; (2) it provided incentives for recipients to return to work; (3) it required a higher percentage of federal reviews of new disability awards and more frequent periodic state-level reexamination of existing recipients; and (4) it modified the administrative relationship between the federal government and states. The amendments also made similar changes in disability payments under the SSI program and established federal standards for "medigap" insurance policies sold by private insurance companies to supplement federal Medicare health insurance.

House Action

The House Ways and Means Committee's Subcommittee on Social Security held public hearings in February and March 1979. Following these hearings, the subcommittee held markup sessions on H.R. 2854, the Administration's proposals, and incorporated its recommendations into H.R. 3236, which was introduced on March 27, 1979. After considering the subcommittee's recommendations, the full Committee on Ways and Means reported the bill to the House on April 23, 1979. Action on the bill was delayed as several major groups raised questions about the legislation, and controversy arose as to the rules under which the bill would be considered on the House floor. Many of the interested parties wanted an opportunity to consider several of the provisions separately when H.R. 3236 was considered on the floor, rather than to vote for or against the bill as a whole. The Rules Committee held hearings on June 6 and 7, 1979, and reported out on June 7, 1979, H.Res. 310, which provided for a modified rule and one hour of debate on H.R. 3236. The rule provided that the only amendments that would be in order would be those recommended by the Ways and Means Committee (which were not amendable) and an amendment offered by Representative Simon (D-IL) that would delay the implementation of a provision affecting vocational rehabilitation funding by one year. Despite the passage of the rule, "the opposition coalition was able to block floor consideration of the measure for 3 months."²⁶⁵ Floor debate on H.R. 3236 did not begin until September 6, 1979.²⁶⁶

On September 6, 1979, the House agreed to the Ways and Means Committee and Representative Simon's amendments²⁶⁷ and passed H.R. 3236 by a vote of 235 (108-R, 127-D) to 162 (36-R, 126-D).²⁶⁸

²⁶⁴ Congressional Record, December 15, 1977, Senate, Roll call no. 636, not voting 22, pp. 39152-39153.

²⁶⁵ Congressional Quarterly Almanac, 1979, p. 505.

²⁶⁶ "Social Security Disability Amendments of 1980: Legislative History and Summary of Provisions," Social Security Bulletin, vol. 44, no. 4, April 1981, pp. 14-23, at <https://www.ssa.gov/policy/docs/ssb/v44n4/v44n4p14.pdf>. (Hereinafter cited as "Social Security Disability Amendments of 1980: Legislative History.")

²⁶⁷ Congressional Record, September 6, 1979, House, p. 23398 and p. 23401.

²⁶⁸ Congressional Record, September 6, 1977, House, Roll call no. 447, not voting 37, pp. 23401-23402.

Senate Action

In October 1979, the Senate Finance Committee held hearings on proposed disability legislation. The committee completed its markup on November 7, 1979, and reported H.R. 3236 to the Senate on November 8, 1979. On December 5, 1979, the Senate began floor debate. Final debate, which occurred in late January 1980, centered primarily on the provision to establish a lower limit on family benefits.²⁶⁹

On January 30, 1980, Senator Metzenbaum's (D-OH) amendment to increase the limit on disability benefits from 85% to 100% of the worker's previous average earnings was defeated by a vote of 47 (7-R, 40-D) to 47 (31-R, 16-D).²⁷⁰

On January 30, 1980, Senator Bayh (D-IN) offered an amendment to exempt terminally ill applicants from the waiting period. The amendment was limited to people who, in the opinion of two doctors, would probably die within a year. Senator Bayh said it was cruel to deny assistance to desperately ill people on the basis of an arbitrary waiting period that lasted longer than most of them were likely to live.

Senator Long (D-LA) said elimination of the waiting period for one group would eventually lead to its elimination for all disabled persons, at a cost of $3 billion a year. Senator Long also argued that the amendment was not germane because there was nothing in the bill relating to the waiting period for benefits. The amendment was ruled out of order but the Senate voted 37 (19-R, 18D) to 55 (17-R, 38-D) against the ruling of the chair²⁷¹ and then adopted the Bayh amendment by a vote of 70 (25-R, 45-D) to 23 (12-R, 11-D).²⁷²

On January 31, 1980, the Senate passed H.R. 3236, with amendments, by a vote of 87 (35-R, 52-D) to 1 (1-D).²⁷³

Conference Action

On May 13, 1980, the conference committee reported the bill.²⁷⁴ On the key issue of limiting future family benefits, the conferees combined the Senate limit of 85% of the worker's previous average work earnings and the House provision limiting benefits to no more than 150% of the worker's basic individual benefit.²⁷⁵ The conferees also made a modification to the medigap provision (added by the Senate) and dropped the Senate amendment regarding the waiting period for the terminally ill, calling for a study of the issue instead.

On May 22, 1980, the House passed H.R. 3236, as agreed to by the conferees, by a vote of 389 (147-R, 242-D) to 2 (2-D).²⁷⁶

On May 29, 1980, the Senate passed the conference report on H.R. 3236 by a voice vote.²⁷⁷

²⁶⁹ Social Security Disability Amendments of 1980: Legislative History, pp. 23-24.

²⁷⁰ Congressional Record, January 30, 1980, Senate, Roll call no. 23, not voting 6, p. 1231.

²⁷¹ Congressional Record, January 30, 1980, Senate, Roll call no. 18, not voting 8, p. 1203.

²⁷² Congressional Record, January 30, 1980, Senate, Roll call no. 19, not voting 7, p. 1207.

²⁷³ Congressional Record, January 31, 1980, Senate, Roll call no. 27, not voting 12, p. 1411.

²⁷⁴ Social Security Disability Amendments of 1980: Legislative History, p. 24.

²⁷⁵ Congressional Quarterly Almanac: 1980, p. 437.

²⁷⁶ Congressional Record, May 22, 1980, House, Roll call no. 253, not voting 42, pp. 12175-12176.

²⁷⁷ Congressional Record, May 29, 1980, Senate, p. 12628.

P.L. 96-403, Reallocation of OASI and DI Taxes

On October 9, 1980, H.R. 7670, the Reallocation of Social Security Taxes Between OASI and DI Trust Funds, was signed into law by President Carter. Although the Social Security Amendments of 1977 did, in part, remedy the program's financing problems, high inflation increased Social Security benefits and higher than expected unemployment reduced income to the trust funds. The outlook for the OASI program, in particular, was deteriorating fairly rapidly. H.R. 7670 shifted revenues from the DI Trust Fund to the OASI Trust Fund during 1980 and 1981 so that adequate reserves could be maintained in both trust funds at least through the end of calendar year 1981.

House Action

On July 21, 1980, Representative Pickle (D-TX) moved to suspend the rules and pass H.R. 7670. In his remarks, Representative Pickle said that "the bill we bring today is a deliberate step both to insure the stability of the trust funds and to provide the Congress the time it will need to make any further changes necessary." He also stated that "Reallocation, the mechanism used in H.R. 7670, has been the traditional way of redistributing the OASDI tax rates when there have been changes in the law and in the experience of programs and in order to keep all the programs on a more or less even reserve ratio.... Reallocation means that the formula for allocating the incoming payroll tax receipts is changed in the law so that funds will flow into the various funds in a different mix than currently projected."²⁷⁸

On July 21, 1980, the House suspended the rules and passed H.R. 7670. There was no roll call vote.²⁷⁹

Senate Action

On September 25, 1980, H.R. 7670 was passed by unanimous consent.²⁸⁰

P.L. 96-473, Retirement Test Amendments²⁸¹

On October 19, 1980, H.R. 5295 was signed by President Carter. It made various changes in the earnings test provisions enacted in 1977 and limited the circumstances under which Social Security benefits could be paid to prisoners. Before enactment of P.L. 96-473, two earnings tests applied to Social Security benefits. One was an annual test, the other a monthly test. If a recipient earned more than the annual limit, benefits were reduced $1 for every $2 of excess earnings until all Social Security benefits were withheld. Under the monthly earnings test, however, if a person's earnings were less than one-twelfth of the annual amount, he or she could get full benefits for that month, regardless of annual earnings.²⁸² The 1977 provision eliminating the monthly earnings test was designed with retirees in mind. However, the language as enacted

²⁷⁸ Congressional Record, July 21, 1980, House, in floor remarks by Rep. Pickle, p. 18827.

²⁷⁹ Congressional Record, July 21, 1980, House, p. 18830.

²⁸⁰ Congressional Record, September 25, 1980, Senate, p. 27297.

²⁸¹ Other Social Security measures were taken up by the Congress in 1980. On December 5, 1980, President Carter signed H.R. 7765, the Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 1980 (P.L. 96-499), which limited the maximum number of months of retroactive entitlement to OASI benefits from 12 months to 6 months. Also, both the House and Senate passed resolutions expressing disapproval of the Social Security Advisory Council's recommendation that half of Social Security benefits be made subject to federal income tax. House Concurrent Resolution 351 was approved by the House on July 21, 1980, by a vote of 384 to 1, and Senate Resolution 432 was approved by the Senate on August 4, 1980, by voice vote.

²⁸² Congressional Quarterly Almanac, 1980, p. 295.

applied to all classes of recipients affected by the earnings limitation. Generally, these recipients are likely to get a job and have substantial earnings in the year their benefits end. If these earnings were over the annual earnings limitation, some of the benefits they already received in the year become overpayments and had to be repaid.²⁸³ P.L. 96-473 modified this by allowing individuals who received certain dependents' benefits (a child or student's benefit, mother's benefit, or father's benefit) to use the monthly earnings test in the year in which their entitlement to such benefits ended. P.L. 96-473 also allowed all recipients to qualify for at least one "grace year" in which the monthly earnings test applies and made other changes relating to the earnings test for the self-employed, particularly those whose incomes were often in "deferred" forms.

In addition, P.L. 96-473 prohibited payment of Social Security Disability Insurance benefits or of student benefits (based on any kind of Social Security status) to prisoners convicted of a felony, except where the individual is participating in a court-approved rehabilitation program (but allowed benefits to be paid to their dependents); disallowed impairments that arise from or are aggravated by the commission of a crime to be considered in determining whether a person is disabled; and disallowed impairments developed while an individual is in prison to be considered in determining disability while the person remains in prison.

House Action

On July 23, 1979, the House Ways and Means Committee's Subcommittee on Social Security held a hearing on the Social Security earnings test. In the spring of 1980, Congress also was concerned with the issue of paying Social Security benefits to prisoners. The Subcommittee on Social Security held hearings on the subject, and numerous bills prohibiting payments to prisoners were introduced.

On December 19, 1979, Senator Long (D-LA) in discussing the earnings test as amended by the 1977 amendments said, "The purpose of the change was to simplify the test and make more evenhanded the treatment of those who had similar amounts of annual earnings but differences in monthly work patterns. Several categories of recipients have been experiencing unforeseen problems with the new annual earnings test, however, and have been disadvantaged by it. H.R. 5295 is designed to correct those inequities."²⁸⁴

On December 19, 1979, H.R. 5295, as amended, was passed unanimously by the House, 383 to 0.²⁸⁵

Senate Action

On April 21, 1980, the Senate Finance Committee's Subcommittee on Social Security held a hearing on the Social Security earnings test. During the spring of 1980, the subcommittee also held hearings on the subject of denying Social Security benefits to prisoners. When S. 2885, the 1981 Budget Reconciliation bill, was reported out of the Senate Finance, it included a provision that prohibited payment of Social Security disability benefits to prisoners convicted of crimes. The Finance Committee also included this measure in H.R. 5295.

²⁸³ U.S. Congress, House Committee on Ways and Means, Earnings Test for Social Security Recipients, report to accompany H.R. 5295, 96th Cong., 1st sess., October 19, 1979, H.Rept. 96-537 (Washington, DC: GPO, 1979).

U.S. Congress, Senate Committee on Finance, Amendments to the Social Security Program, report to accompany H.R. 5295, 96th Cong., 2nd sess., September 24, 1980, H.Rept. 96-987 (Washington, DC: GPO, 1980).

²⁸⁴ Congressional Record, December 19, 1979, House, p. 36961.

²⁸⁵ Congressional Record, December 19, 1979, House, Roll call no. 751, not voting 50, p. 36969.

On September 30, 1980, the Senate passed H.R. 5295, with amendments, by unanimous consent.²⁸⁶

House Concurrence

On October 1, 1980, Representative Conable (R-NY) remarked “The only amendment that we are asking to be attached here that goes to the Senate is an amendment that changes the word ‘crime’ to the words ‘crime in the nature of a felony,’ so that it would apply only to more serious crimes and not possibly to traffic infractions and things of that sort.”²⁸⁷

On October 1, 1980, the House concurred in the Senate amendments with an amendment by unanimous consent.²⁸⁸

Senate Concurrence

On October 1, 1980, Senator Byrd’s motion that the Senate concur with the House amendment to the Senate amendment was agreed to by voice vote.²⁸⁹

P.L. 97-35, Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981

H.R. 3982, the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981, was signed into law (P.L. 97-35) by President Reagan on August 13, 1981. It included most of the Social Security changes proposed as part of the President’s 1982 budget, as well as some added by the House. The Social Security provisions were among many outlay reduction measures intended to constrain federal expenditures. The Administration argued that the benefits it targeted for elimination or reduction were not directed at the basic goals of the program, and it did not consider them to have been “earned.” The budget proposals eliminated the minimum Social Security benefit for both current and future recipients,²⁹⁰ phased out benefits for students in postsecondary schools (aged 18 or older, except for those under aged 19 still in high school), made lump-sum death benefits available only to a spouse who was living with the worker or a spouse or child eligible for immediate monthly survivor benefits, and reduced benefits for those whose Social Security disability payments and certain other public pensions exceed 80% of pre-disability earnings. The amendments also eliminated reimbursement of the cost of state vocational rehabilitation services from the trust funds except where it could be shown that the services had resulted in the disabled person leaving the rolls; postponed the lowering of the earnings test exempt age (from 72 to 70) until 1983; ended parents’ benefit when the youngest child reaches age 16; and provided that workers and their spouses would not receive benefits unless they meet the requirements for entitlement throughout the month. These last three provisions were initiatives added by the Ways and Means Committee.

²⁸⁶ Congressional Record, September 30, 1980, Senate, p. 28195.

²⁸⁷ Congressional Record, October 1, 1980, House, pp. 8676-28677.

²⁸⁸ Congressional Record, October 1, 1980, House, p. 28677.

²⁸⁹ Congressional Record, October 1, 1980, Senate, p. 28881.

²⁹⁰ The minimum benefit is the smallest benefit (before actuarial or earnings test reduction) payable to a worker or from which benefits to his survivors/dependents will be determined. In 1977, the minimum benefit was frozen at $122 per month for workers who became disabled or died after 1978, or reached age 62 after 1983. However, the 1981 legislation eliminated the minimum benefit for all people becoming eligible for benefits in January 1982 or later (except it exempted for 10 years certain members of religious orders who have taken a vow of poverty—these people have their benefits computed under the regular benefit computation rules). People already eligible for benefits before 1982 are able to continue receiving the minimum benefit.

Senate Action²⁹¹

Because the Social Security legislation was considered in the context of the budget and reconciliation processes, there was virtually simultaneous consideration of the proposals by the House and the Senate. After final adoption on May 21, 1981, of the First Concurrent Budget Resolution, both the House and the Senate were acting within similar reconciliation guidelines.²⁹²

On June 10, 1981, the Finance Committee reported its recommendations for spending reductions. These were included by the Senate Budget Committee in S. 1377, the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981, which was reported by the Budget Committee to the Senate on June 17, 1981. The Social Security proposals included in S. 1377 were basically those proposed by the Administration with some minor modifications.

On June 22-25, 1981, the Senate debated S. 1377. The most controversial aspect of the bill relating to the Social Security program was the elimination of the minimum benefit for people already on the benefit rolls. On June 23, 1981, Senator Riegle (D-MI) offered an amendment that would have eliminated the minimum benefit only for future recipients. The amendment was defeated by a vote of 45 (4-R, 41-D) to 53 (48-R, 5-D).²⁹³

On June 25, 1981, the Senate passed S. 1377, with the Finance Committee's Social Security proposals, by a vote of 80 (52-R, 28-D) to 15 (0-R, 15-D).²⁹⁴

House Action

The Ways and Means Committee recommendations, while touching on some of the same benefit categories as the Administration's proposals, were notably different. These proposals were incorporated by the Budget Committee into its version of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981, H.R. 3982, which was reported to the House on June 19, 1981.

The adoption of the rule for floor consideration of H.R. 3982 became, in itself, a highly controversial issue. The Democratic leadership argued for allowing six separate votes on the grounds that this would allow for greater accountability for individual Members and avoid criticisms of "rubber-stamping" the Administration's proposals.²⁹⁵ A bipartisan group of Members (generally supported by the Administration) argued instead for a rule that allowed only an up-or-down vote on a substitute for the Budget Committee bill sponsored by Representative Gramm (D-TX) and Representative Latta (R-OH).²⁹⁶ Those arguing for the substitute said it would facilitate future conference agreement by bringing H.R. 3982 more closely in line with the President's original proposals and with S. 1377 then pending in the Senate.²⁹⁷

On June 25, 1981, the original rule for floor consideration of the bill was defeated by a vote of 210 (1-R, 209-D) to 217 (188-R, 29-D).²⁹⁸

²⁹¹ The Senate action is given first because the Senate passed the bill before the House did.

²⁹² John A. Svahn, "Social Security Administration, Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981: Legislative History and Summary of OASDI and Medicare Provisions," Social Security Bulletin, vol. 44, no. 10, October 1981, p. 7, at <https://www.ssa.gov/policy/docs/ssb/v44n10/v44n10p3.pdf>. (Hereinafter cited as "Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981: Legislative History.")

²⁹³ Congressional Record, June 23, 1981, Senate, Roll call no. 160, not voting 2, p. 13304.

²⁹⁴ Congressional Record, June 25, 1981, Senate, Roll call no. 182, not voting 5, p. 13933.

²⁹⁵ Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981: Legislative History, p. 11.

²⁹⁶ Ibid.

²⁹⁷ Ibid.

²⁹⁸ Congressional Record, June 25, 1981, House, Roll call no. 104, not voting 4, pp. 14078-14079.

A package of amendments by Representative Latta, the so-called Gramm-Latta II alternative, called for (1) deleting the Ways and Means' proposal to move the COLA from July to October and (2) changing the effective date of the Senate-passed minimum benefit proposal, affecting both current and future recipients, and (3) modifying the Senate-passed student benefit phase-out proposal (which contained a faster phase-out than the Ways and Means Committee version). The Gramm-Latta II alternative package passed the House on June 26, 1981, by a vote of 217 (188-R, 29-D) to 211 (2-R, 209-D).²⁹⁹

On June 26, 1981, the House passed the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981 by a vote of 232 (185-R, 47-D) to 193 (5-R, 188-D).³⁰⁰

Conference Action

The passage of the alternative budget package resulted in House-passed Social Security measures that were very similar to the Administration's original proposals and to those in the Senate-passed reconciliation bill. On July 13, 1981, the Senate voted to substitute the reconciliation proposals from S. 1377 for those passed by the House in H.R. 3982 and to go to conference to resolve the differences.³⁰¹

On July 30, 1981, Representative Bolling (D-MO), chairman of the House Rules Committee, threatened to prevent the conference agreement from being brought to the House floor for final approval until something could be negotiated to modify the minimum benefit provision. An agreement was worked out permitting a bill that would modify the minimum benefit provision to be brought to the House floor before the vote on the reconciliation conference report. This bill was H.R. 4331, the Social Security Amendments of 1981. (See following section for further details.)

On July 31, 1981, both the House and the Senate approved the conference report on the 1981 Budget Reconciliation bill, the House by a voice vote and the Senate by a vote of 80 (49-R, 31-D) to 14 (1-R, 13-D).³⁰²

P.L. 97-123, Social Security Amendments of 1981

H.R. 4331, the Social Security Amendments of 1981, was signed by President Reagan on December 29, 1981. The amendments restored the minimum benefit for current recipients but eliminated it for people becoming eligible for benefits after December 31, 1981 (see discussion of P.L. 97-35 above). In July 1981, as part of P.L. 97-35, Congress had enacted the elimination of the minimum benefit effective in April 1982. However, the public outcry was so great that both houses and the Administration thought it prudent to reconsider the measure.³⁰³ H.R. 4331 also allowed the financially troubled OASI Trust Fund to borrow from the healthier DI and HI Trust Funds until December 31, 1982. The law specified that the borrowing could not exceed amounts needed to pay full benefits for six months and provided for repayment of any amounts borrowed. OASI borrowed $17.5 billion from the two trust funds late in December 1982, an amount limited to that necessary to keep benefits flowing until June 1983.

²⁹⁹ Congressional Record, June 26, 1981, House, Roll call no. 111, not voting 4, pp. 14681-14682.

³⁰⁰ Congressional Record, June 26, 1981, House, Roll call no. 113, not voting 6, pp. 14794-14795.

³⁰¹ Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981: Legislative History, p. 13.

³⁰² Congressional Record, July 31, 1981, Senate, Roll call no. 247, not voting 6, p. 19144.

³⁰³ Congressional Quarterly Almanac, 1981, p. 117.

In addition, the bill (1) allowed members of religious orders who had taken a vow of poverty and were covered by Social Security before enactment of the bill to continue to become eligible for the minimum benefit during the next 10 years; (2) extended the payroll tax to the first six months of sick pay; (3) made it a felony to alter or counterfeit a Social Security card; and (4) allowed the Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) access to recorded Social Security numbers (SSNs) to prevent ineligible prisoners from receiving disability benefits.

House Action

On July 21, 1981, the House, by a vote of 405 (176-R, 229-D) to 13 (10-R, 3-D),³⁰⁴ adopted a nonbinding resolution (H.Res. 181) urging that steps be taken “to ensure that Social Security benefits are not reduced for those currently receiving them.” After the conference report on the reconciliation bill was filed, the House Rules Committee Chairman Richard Bolling (D-MO) held up the reconciliation bill in his committee in an effort to restore the minimum benefit. An agreement was subsequently reached whereby the budget bill would be reported out of the Rules Committee intact, and a separate bill to restore the minimum benefit for all current and future recipients (H.R. 4331) would be taken up by the House before the vote on the budget bill.³⁰⁵ The House passed H.R. 4331 on July 31, 1981. It repealed the section of P.L. 97-35 that eliminated the minimum benefit, thereby reinstating the minimum benefit for current and future recipients.

On July 31, 1981, the House passed H.R. 4331 by a vote of 404 (172-R, 232-D) to 20 (17-R, 3-D).³⁰⁶

Senate Action

When H.R. 4331 was sent to the Senate, Senators Riegle (D-MI), Moynihan (D-NY), and Kennedy (D-MA) moved to have the Senate immediately consider it. The Senate’s presiding officer ruled the motion out of order, and the ruling was upheld by a vote of 57 to 30,³⁰⁷ thereby permitting consideration of the bill by the Finance Committee and delaying a Senate vote until October.

The bill reported by the Finance Committee in September 1981 included provisions that restored the minimum benefit for current recipients, except for those with government pensions, whose so-called windfall Social Security benefits would be reduced dollar for dollar by the extent their government pension exceeded $300 a month. The bill provided that members of religious orders who became eligible for Social Security in 1972 could remain eligible for the minimum benefit for the next 10 years. To offset the cost of restoring the minimum benefit, the Senate agreed to apply the payroll tax to the first six months of all sick pay received and to lower the maximum family retirement and survivor benefit to 150% of the worker’s primary insurance amount (PIA). The bill also allowed interfund borrowing.

On October 14, 1981, the Senate by a voice vote agreed to (1) Senator Danforth’s (R-MO) amendment to override provisions of the federal Privacy Act to allow access to prison records so ³⁰⁴ Congressional Record, July 21, 1981, House, Roll call no. 145, not voting 15, pp. 16659-16660.

³⁰⁵ Congressional Quarterly Almanac, 1981, p. 119-120.

³⁰⁶ Congressional Record, July 31, 1981, House, Roll call no. 189, not voting 10, pp. 18899-18900.

³⁰⁷ Congressional Record, July 31, 1981, Senate, Roll call no. 248, not voting 12, p. 19148.

that disability payments to ineligible inmates could be stopped;³⁰⁸ and (2) Senator Baucus's (D-MT) amendment to make it a felony to alter or counterfeit a Social Security card.³⁰⁹

On October 15, 1981, Senator Dole's (R-KS) amendment to apply the Social Security payroll tax to the first six months of all employer-financed sick pay, except that paid as insurance, was accepted by voice vote.³¹⁰

On October 15, 1981, Senator Moynihan's (D-NY) amendment requiring counterfeit-proof Social Security cards was agreed to by voice vote.³¹¹

On October 15, 1981, Senator Eagleton (D-MO) offered an amendment to repeal a provision of the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 (P.L. 97-34) that had reduced windfall profit taxes on newly discovered oil, and then use these tax savings to build an emergency reserve for the Social Security trust funds. The amendment was tabled 65 (42-R, 23-D) to 30 (7-R, 23-D).³¹²

On October 15, 1981, by a unanimous vote of 95 (48-R, 47-D) to 0, the Senate passed H.R. 4331, as amended.³¹³

Conference Action

The Congressional Quarterly Almanac states that the major dispute of the conference was whether to pay for the cost of restoring the minimum benefit by tax increases or by benefit cuts. The conferees finally agreed to accept only the sick pay tax "on the condition that inter-fund borrowing be allowed for just one year."³¹⁴ The conference agreement restored the minimum benefit to recipients eligible for benefits before 1982, and it rejected the Senate provisions (1) to reduce the minimum for those also receiving government pensions above $300 per month and (2) to limit further family benefits in OASI cases.

The Senate agreed to the conference report on December 15, 1981, by a vote of 96 (50-R, 46-D) to 0.³¹⁵

The House agreed to the conference report on December 16, 1981, by a vote of 412 (181-R, 231-D) to 10 (7-R, 3-D).³¹⁶

P.L. 97-455, An Act Relating to Taxes on Virgin Island Source Income and Social Security Disability Benefits

President Reagan signed H.R. 7093 on January 12, 1983. In March 1981, the Administration began implementing the continuing disability investigation process mandated (beginning in 1982) under the 1980 amendments (P.L. 96-265), with the result that thousands of recipients lost their benefits, although many were restored upon appeal to an administrative law judge. P.L. 97-455 was a "stopgap" measure to remedy some of the perceived procedural inequities in the disability

³⁰⁸ Congressional Record, October 14, 1981, Senate, p. 23967.

³⁰⁹ Congressional Record, October 14, 1981, Senate, p. 23971.

³¹⁰ Congressional Record, October 15, 1981, Senate, p. 24107.

³¹¹ Congressional Record, October 15, 1981, Senate, p. 24108.

³¹² Congressional Record, October 15, 1981, Senate, Roll call no. 312, not voting 5, pp. 24096-24097.

³¹³ Congressional Record, October 15, 1981, Senate, Roll call no. 315, not voting 5, p. 24120.

³¹⁴ Congressional Quarterly Almanac, 1981, p. 121.

³¹⁵ Congressional Record, December 15, 1981, Senate, Roll call no. 486, not voting 4, p. 31309.

³¹⁶ Congressional Record, December 16, 1981, House, Roll call no. 365, not voting 11, p. 31699.

review process. It provided, temporarily, an opportunity for individuals dropped from the rolls before October 1, 1983, to elect to receive DI and Medicare benefits while they appealed the decision; June 1984 was to be the last month for which such payments could be made.³¹⁷ The DI benefits would have to be repaid if the appeal were lost. The measure also required the DHHS to provide, as of January 1, 1984, face-to-face hearings during reconsideration of any decision to terminate disability benefits. Previously, recipients did not have such a meeting until they appeared before an administrative law judge. The bill also required the Secretary to report to Congress semiannually on the rate of continuing disability reviews and terminations and gave the Secretary authority to decrease the number of disability cases sent to state agencies for review.

Senate Action³¹⁸

On September 28, 1982, the Finance Committee marked up S. 2942, which contained a number of continuing disability review provisions. The chairman, Senator Dole (R-KS), asked that S. 2942 be attached to a House-passed bill (H.R. 7093) dealing with Virgin Islands taxation. Thus, H.R. 7093, with provisions of S. 2942, was reported to the Senate on October 1, 1982.

On December 3, 1982, Senator Heinz (R-PA) said, "... this emergency legislation does not completely solve the problem of the unfair terminations of hundreds of thousands of disabled individuals ... nonetheless. It means that in the immediate future, at least, individuals who have been wrongly terminated will not be financially ruined because they have been deprived of their benefits during a lengthy appeals process."³¹⁹

On December 3, 1982, the Senate passed H.R. 7093 by a vote of 70 (43-R, 27-D) to 4 (1-R, 3-D).³²⁰

House Action

On September 20, 1982, the House passed H.R. 7093 by voice vote. This version of the bill contained no Social Security provisions.³²¹

On December 14, 1982, the House amended the Senate-passed version of H.R. 7093 and passed it by unanimous consent.³²² H.R. 7093 was then sent back to the Senate for consideration of the added amendments. These amendments required the Secretary to (1) provide face-to-face hearings during reconsideration of any decision to terminate disability benefits; (2) advise recipients of what evidence they should bring to and what procedures they should follow at the reconsideration hearing; and (3) provide that, for a five-year period beginning December 1, 1982, only one-third of a spouse's government pension would be taken into account when applying the government pension offset provision enacted in 1977.

³¹⁷ P.L. 98-118 extended until December 7, 1983, the period for which the provisions continuing payment of Social Security disability benefits during appeal were applicable.

³¹⁸ In a departure from format, the Senate action is given first because the Senate passed the bill (with regard to Social Security provisions) before the House did.

³¹⁹ Congressional Record, daily edition, December 3, 1982, Senate, p. S13857.

³²⁰ Congressional Record, daily edition, December 3, 1982, Senate, Roll call no. 394, not voting 26, p. S13869.

³²¹ Congressional Record, daily edition, September 20, 1982, House, p. H7219.

³²² Congressional Record, daily edition, December 14, 1982, House, p. H9665.

Conference Action

The bill as agreed to by the conferees was identical to the House-passed bill, except for the modification in the government pension offset provision.

The House passed the conference report on H.R. 7093 on December 21, 1982, by a vote of 259 (115-R, 144-D) to 0.³²³

The Senate passed the report by a voice vote on December 21, 1982.³²⁴

P.L. 98-21, Social Security Amendments of 1983

H.R. 1900, the Social Security Amendments of 1983, was signed by President Reagan on April 20, 1983. The latest projections showed that the OASDI program was projected to run out of funds by mid-1983 and to need about $150 billion to $200 billion to provide reasonable assurance that it would remain solvent for the rest of the decade.³²⁵ Once this short-run problem was addressed, the program was projected to be adequately financed for about 35 years. However, beginning about 2025, the effects of the retirement of the baby-boom were projected to plunge the system into deficit again. The National Commission on Social Security Reform, a bipartisan panel appointed by President Reagan and congressional leaders, was formed to seek a solution to the system's financing problems. On January 15, 1983, a majority of the commission members reached agreement on a package of changes.

Conforming to most of the recommendations in the commission's package, the 1983 amendments put new federal employees and all nonprofit organization employees under the OASDI program as of January 1, 1984; prohibited state and local and nonprofit agencies from terminating Social Security coverage; moved the annual cost-of-living adjustments in benefits from July to January of each year (which caused a delay of six months in 1983); made up to one-half of the benefits received by higher income recipients subject to federal income taxation; gradually raised the full benefit retirement age from 65 to 67 early in the 21st century; increased benefits for certain groups of widow(er)s; liberalized the earnings test; increased the delayed retirement credit; reduced benefits for workers also getting pensions based on noncovered employment; called for the earlier implementation of scheduled payroll tax increases; and substantially raised payroll tax rates on the self-employed. P.L. 98-21 also stipulated that beginning with the FY1993 budget, income and expenditures for OASDI and HI would no longer be included in federal budget totals. The 1983 amendments also stipulated that only two-thirds of a spouse's government pension would be taken into account when applying the government pension offset provision, eliminated remaining gender-based distinctions, and made numerous additional technical changes in the law.

House Action

On March 4, 1983, the Ways and Means Committee reported out H.R. 1900. The bill included most of the recommendations of the National Commission, numerous additional relatively minor Social Security provisions, and other measures mostly related to long-run financing issues, along with provisions affecting the Medicare and Unemployment Insurance programs.

On March 9, 1983, the House debated H.R. 1900. Proponents of the bill maintained that, although there were many provisions that individuals or certain groups might find troublesome, there was an overriding need to deal quickly and effectively with the Social Security financing issues. Opponents questioned whether this was the best way to solve the system's projected financial difficulties. Many favored raising the retirement age instead of increasing payroll taxes.

³²³ Congressional Record, daily edition, December 21, 1982, House, Roll call no. 487, not voting 174, pp. H10679-H10680.

³²⁴ Congressional Record, daily edition, December 21, 1982, Senate, p. S15966.

³²⁵ Based on estimates by the National Commission on Social Security Reform.

On March 9, 1983, Representative Pickle's (D-TX) amendment calling for increases in the age at which "full" retirement benefits (i.e., unreduced for early retirement) are payable to 66 by 2009 and to 67 by 2027 was approved by a vote of 228 (152-R, 76-D) to 202 (14-R, 188-D).³²⁶ Early retirement at age 62 would be maintained but at 70% of full benefits (instead of 80%) after the "full retirement age" reached 67.

Representative Pepper (D-FL) then offered a substitute amendment to raise the OASDI tax rate from 6.20% to 6.73% beginning in 2010. The amendment was rejected by a vote of 132 (1-R, 131-D) to 296 (165-R, 131-D).³²⁷ Had the amendment passed, it would have superseded Representative Pickle's amendment.

The House passed H.R. 1900, as it had been amended, by a vote of 282 (97-R, 185-D) to 148 (69-R, 79-D)³²⁸ on March 9, 1983.

Senate Action

The Senate Finance Committee reported out S. 1 on March 11, 1983. As with the House bill, the committee adopted long-term financing measures along the lines of the recommendations of the National Commission and provisions affecting the Medicare and Unemployment Insurance programs.

The full Senate began consideration of H.R. 1900 on March 16, 1983. Seventy-two amendments were offered to the bill on the floor; the Senate adopted 49 of them. The following were among the major amendments debated.

On March 23, 1983, Senator Long (D-LA) offered an amendment to make coverage of newly hired federal employees contingent upon enactment of a supplemental civil service plan for them. It was passed by a voice vote.³²⁹

An amendment to the Long amendment by Senator Stevens (R-AL) and Senator Mathias (R-MD) to exclude federal workers from coverage altogether was rejected by a vote of 12 (8-R, 4-D) to 86 (46-R, 40-D) on March 23, 1983.³³⁰

Senator Stevens's amendment to the Long amendment to require the creation of a supplemental civil service retirement program by October 1985, while granting new employees wage credits toward such a plan in the meantime, was rejected 45 (41-R, 4-D) to 50 (12-R, 38-D) on March 23, 1983.³³¹

The Senate passed H.R. 1900 on March 23, 1983, by a vote of 88 (47-R, 41-D) to 9 (6-R, 3-D).³³²

³²⁶ Congressional Record, daily edition, March 9, 1983, House, Roll call no. 22, not voting 3, pp. H1064-H1065.

³²⁷ Congressional Record, daily edition, March 9, 1983, House, Roll call no. 24, not voting 5, p. H1079.

³²⁸ Congressional Record, daily edition, March 9, 1983, House, Roll call no. 26, not voting 3, pp. H1080-H1081.

³²⁹ Congressional Record, daily edition, March 23, 1983, Senate, p. S3711.

³³⁰ Congressional Record, daily edition, March 23, 1983, Senate, Roll call no. 47, not voting 2, p. S3714.

³³¹ Congressional Record, daily edition, March 23, 1983, Senate, Roll call no. 48, not voting 4, p. S3720.

³³² Congressional Record, daily edition, March 23, 1983, Senate, Roll call no. 53, not voting 3, p. S3775.

Conference Action³³³

On March 24, 1983, conferees agreed to the final provisions of H.R. 1900. The primary issue was how to solve the system's long-run financial problems. The House measure called for a two-year increase in the retirement age, whereas the Senate bill proposed to increase the retirement age to 66, eliminate the earnings test, and cut initial benefit payments 5%. Another major difference was a provision in the Senate bill delaying coverage of new federal employees until a supplemental civil service retirement plan could be developed. House conferees charged that if the change were made, no revenues from the proposed coverage could be counted on for the Social Security bailout plan because, if such a plan were not subsequently developed, federal workers might escape coverage altogether.

The conferees agreed to the House retirement age change. Senate conferees then agreed to recede on the federal employee coverage issue.

On March 24, 1983, the House passed the conference report by a vote of 243 (80-R, 163-D) to 102 (48-R, 54-D).³³⁴

On March 25, 1983, the Senate passed H.R. 1900, as agreed to in the conference report, by a vote of 58 (32-R, 26-D) to 14 (8-R, 6-D).³³⁵

P.L. 98-460, Social Security Disability Benefits Reform Act of 1984

On October 9, 1984, President Reagan signed H.R. 3755, the Social Security Disability Benefits Reform Act of 1984. P.L. 98-460 ended three years of controversy over the Administration's efforts to rid the DI program of ineligible recipients through an expanded periodic review process. The expanded reviews had been authorized by the 1980 disability amendments.³³⁶

Shortly after implementation of periodic review, the public and Congress began to criticize the process. The major complaints were the large number of persons dropped from the DI rolls, of whom many had been receiving benefits for years and had not expected their cases to be reviewed; the great increase in the number of cases subjected to continuing disability reviews; and the number of cases in which recipients were erroneously dropped from the rolls. More than half of those removed from the rolls were reinstated upon appeal, fueling complaints that many terminations were unjustified. Advocacy groups for the disabled raised questions about SSA's termination policies and procedures and petitioned Congress for legislative relief.³³⁷ In addition, concerns about the disability process were raised by the federal courts and the states.

P.L. 98-460 provided that (1) with certain exceptions, benefit payments can be terminated only if the individual has medically improved and can engage in substantial gainful activity; (2) benefit payments can be continued until a decision by the administrative law judge in cases where a termination of benefits for medical reasons is being appealed; (3) reviews of all mental impairment disabilities be delayed until regulations stipulating new medical listings for mental impairments are published; (4) in cases of multiple impairments, the combined effect of all the ³³³ Congressional Quarterly Almanac: 1983, p. 226.

³³⁴ Congressional Record, daily edition, March 24, 1983, House, Roll call no. 47, not voting 88, p. H1787.

³³⁵ Congressional Record, daily edition, March 24, 1983, Senate, Roll call no. 54, not voting 28, p. S4104.

³³⁶ Congressional Quarterly Almanac, 1984, p. 160.

³³⁷ Katharine P. Collins and Anne Erfle, "Social Security Disability Benefits Reform Act of 1984: Legislative History and Summary of Provisions," Social Security Bulletin, vol. 48, no. 4, April 1985, p. 12, at <https://www.ssa.gov/policy/docs/ssb/v48n4/v48n4p5.pdf>. (Hereinafter cited as "Social Security Disability Benefits Reform Act of 1984: Legislative History.") impairments must be considered in making a disability determination; (5) the DHHS Secretary initiate demonstration projects providing personal appearance interviews between the recipient and state agency disability examiner in potential termination cases and potential initial denials; (6) the Secretary issue uniform standards, binding at all levels of adjudication, for disability determinations under Social Security and SSI disability; (7) the Secretary federalize disability determinations in a state within six months of finding that a state is not in substantial compliance with federal laws and standards; and (8) the qualifications of representative payees be more closely examined, and that the Secretary establish a system of annual accountability monitoring where benefit payments are made to someone other than a parent or spouse living in the same household with the recipient. It also established a temporary statutory standard for the evaluation of pain and directed that a study of the problem of evaluating pain be made by a commission to be appointed by the Secretary.

House Action

On March 14, 1984, the House Committee on Ways and Means reported H.R. 3755 with amendments.

During debate on H.R. 3755, Representative Conable (R-NY) remarked that the intent of the 1980 legislation, requiring continuing disability reviews, was meritorious, but the results were not what the drafters intended. He further stated, “Not only were ineligible recipients terminated, but some eligible recipients were taken from the rolls, as well. Many, especially those with mental impairments, suffered duress and the economic hardship of interrupted benefits.” Representative Conable also said, “Both Congress and the administration have taken remedial steps ... we approved P.L. 97-455, which, on an interim basis, provided for the continuation of benefits during an appeal of an adverse decision ... H.R. 3755 represents the next step.”³³⁸

The sponsor of H.R. 3755, Representative Pickle (D-TX), said, “In the past 3 years nearly half a million disabled recipients have been notified that their benefits will end. Far too often this notice has been sent in error, and corrected only at the recipient’s expense ... we who serve on the Social Security Subcommittee have heard those pleas from the disabled, from Governors, and from those who must administer this program in the states ... for over a year now we have carefully drafted legislation to bring order to the growing chaos ... This bill does not attempt to liberalize the disability program. It does restore order and humanity to the disability review process.”³³⁹

On March 27, 1984, the House passed H.R. 3755 by a vote of 410 (160-R, 250-D) to 1 (1-R).³⁴⁰

Administrative Action

Six months before legislation was enacted, Secretary Heckler imposed a moratorium on periodic continuing disability reviews. The Secretary said,

Although we have made important progress in reforming the review process with Social Security, the confusion of differing court orders and state actions persists. The disability program cannot serve those who need its help when its policies are splintered and divided. For that reason, we must suspend the process and work together with Congress to regain order and consensus in the disability program.³⁴¹

³³⁸ Congressional Record, daily edition, March 27, 1984, House, in floor remarks by Rep. Conable, p. H1958.

³³⁹ Congressional Record, daily edition, March 27, 1984, House, in floor remarks by Rep. Pickle, p. H1959.

³⁴⁰ Congressional Record, daily edition, March 27, 1984, House, Roll call no. 55, not voting 22, pp. H1992-H1993.

³⁴¹ Social Security Disability Benefits Reform Act of 1984: Legislative History, p. 27.

Senate Action

On May 16, 1984, the Finance Committee approved S. 476. Major provisions of the bill allowed disabled persons to continue collecting Social Security benefits if their medical condition had not improved since they were determined disabled. The major difference between the medical improvement provision in S. 476 and H.R. 3755 was that the Senate bill stated that the recipient bore the burden of proof that his or her condition had not improved.

On May 22, 1984, Senator Cohen (R-ME), one of the sponsors of S. 476, said, “The need for fundamental change in the disability reviews has been evident for some time. Since the reviews began, more than 12,000 individuals have filed court actions challenging SSA’s termination of their benefits. An additional 40 class action suits had been filed as of last month. The legislation before the Senate today would end this chaos and insure an equitable review process.”³⁴²

Senator Levin (D-MI), another sponsor, said, “It has taken us 3 years to come to grips with the problems in the disability review process as a legislative body. And while it was long in coming, I am pleased with the final outcome. The bill I, along with Senator Cohen and others introduced on February 15, 1983, S. 476, as reported by the Finance Committee contains the essential ingredients to the development of a fair and responsible review process.”³⁴³

On May 22, 1984, the Senate passed H.R. 3755, after substituting the language of S. 476 for the House-passed version, 96 (52-R, 44-D) to 0.³⁴⁴

Conference Action

On September 19, 1984, the conferees filed the conference report. The conference committee generally followed the House version of the medical improvement standard (with some modifications) and added the requirement that any continuing disability review be made on the basis of the weight of the evidence with regard to the person’s condition.

On September 19, 1984, the House and Senate passed H.R. 3755 unanimously; 402 to 0 in the House,³⁴⁵ and 99 to 0 in the Senate.³⁴⁶

P.L. 99-177, Public Debt Limit—Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985

The Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act, which was included as Title II of H.J.Res. 372, increasing the national debt, was signed by President Reagan on December 12, 1985. The act stipulated that budget deficits must be decreased annually, and under certain circumstances required across-the-board cuts of nonexempt programs by a uniform percentage to achieve this result. Under the act, if annual deficit amounts were larger than the law established, a formula would be used to reduce the deficit annually until it reached zero in FY1991. This part of P.L. 99-177 is generally referred to by the names of its sponsors—Senators Gramm (R-TX), ³⁴² Congressional Record, daily edition, May 22, 1984, Senate, in floor remarks by Sen. Cohen, pp. S6213-S6214.

³⁴³ Congressional Record, daily edition, May 22, 1984, Senate, in floor remarks by Sen. Levin, p. 86230.

³⁴⁴ Congressional Record, daily edition, May 22, 1984, Senate, Roll call no. 109, not voting 4, p. S6241.

³⁴⁵ Congressional Record, daily edition, September 19, 1984, House, Roll call no. 404, not voting 30, pp. H9838-H9839.

³⁴⁶ Congressional Record, daily edition, September 19, 1984, Senate, Roll call no. 243, not voting 1, p. S11477.

Rudman (R-NH), and Hollings (D-SC).³⁴⁷ The Gramm-Rudman-Hollings Act accelerated the “off-budget” treatment of OASDI, as prescribed by P.L. 98-21, from FY1993 to FY1986. (However, Social Security income and outgo still would be counted toward meeting Gramm-Rudman-Hollings deficit reduction targets.) The HI Trust Fund was not affected (i.e., not to be separated from the budget until FY1993). In addition, the act exempted Social Security benefits (including COLAs) from automatic cuts and required the Secretary of the Treasury to restore to the trust funds any interest lost as a result of 1984 and 1985 debt ceiling constraints, and to issue to the trust funds obligations bearing interest rates and maturities identical to those of securities redeemed between August 31, 1985, and September 30, 1985.

House Action

On August 1, 1985, the House approved the debt-limit increase, unamended, as part of the FY1986 budget resolution (S.Con.Res. 32) by a vote of 309 (127-R, 182-D) to 119 (52-R, 67-D).³⁴⁸

Senate Action

On October 9, 1985, the Senate adopted the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings amendment to H.J.Res. 372 (Balanced Budget and Emergency Control Act of 1985) by a vote of 75 (48-R, 27-D) to 24 (4-R, 20-D).³⁴⁹

On October 10, 1985, the Senate passed H.J.Res. 372, with amendments, by a vote of 51 (38-R, 13-D) to 37 (8-R, 29-D).³⁵⁰

Conference Action

On November 1, 1985, the conference report was filed in disagreement. The House asked for another conference on November 6, 1985, the Senate agreeing on November 7, 1985. The second conference report was filed on December 10, 1985.

On December 11, 1985, both the House and the Senate agreed to the conference report, the House by a vote of 271 (153-R, 118-D) to 154 (24-R, 130-D)³⁵¹ and the Senate by a vote of 61 (39-R, 22-D) to 31 (9-R, 22-D).³⁵²

S.Con.Res. 32, Proposed COLA Constraints in FY1986 Budget Resolution

In 1985, the Senate voted to skip the 1986 COLA for various federal programs, including Social Security, when it passed S.Con.Res. 32, the first concurrent budget resolution for FY1986.

³⁴⁷ In July 1986, the Supreme Court ruled that the automatic budget-cutting procedures in the legislation referred to as Gramm-Rudman-Hollings were unconstitutional.

³⁴⁸ Congressional Record, daily edition, August 1, 1985, House, Roll call no. 290, call no. 290, not voting 5, pp. H7166-H7167.

³⁴⁹ Congressional Record, daily edition, October 9, 1985, Senate, Roll call no. 213, not voting 1, p. S12988.

³⁵⁰ Congressional Record, daily edition, October 10, 1985, Senate, Roll call no. 222, not voting 12, p. S13114.

³⁵¹ Congressional Record, daily edition, December 11, 1985, House, Roll call no. 454, not voting 9, pp. H11903-H11904.

³⁵² Congressional Record, daily edition, December 11, 1985, Senate, Roll call no. 371, not voting 6, pp. S17443-S17444.

However, the House-passed version had no COLA freeze, and the proposal was dropped in conference.

In his FY1986 Budget submitted in January 1985, President Reagan proposed that there be no COLA for several federal benefit programs, among them civil service and military retirement, in 1986. However, Social Security was exempted from the proposal. In considering S.Con.Res. 32, the first concurrent budget resolution for FY1986 (which involves the goal-setting stage of the congressional budget process) on March 14, the Senate Budget Committee, by a vote of 11 (11-R, 0-D) to 10 (0-R, 10-D)³⁵³ added Social Security to the list of programs whose COLAs were to be skipped in 1986. The Social Security portion of the COLA “freezes,” as they were called, was estimated to yield $22 billion in savings over the FY1986-FY1988 period and larger savings thereafter. An alternative COLA cutback proposal emerged shortly thereafter, as part of a substitute deficit-reduction package developed by the Administration and the Senate Republican leadership. Instead of freezing COLAs in the affected federal retirement programs for one year, it would have limited the COLAs for the next three years to 2% per year plus any amount by which inflation exceeded the Administration’s assumptions (its assumptions at that time suggested that inflation would hover in the high 3% or low 4% range). It further included a guarantee provision under which the affected COLAs could not be less than 2%. It, too, would have resulted in about $22 billion in Social Security savings over the following three years (as well as higher savings in later years).

Senate Action

When the Senate took up the Budget Committee’s first budget resolution, it rejected both the COLA freeze and the alternative COLA limitation by agreeing on May 1, 1985, by a vote of 65 (19-R, 46-D) to 34 (33-R, 1-D)³⁵⁴ to an amendment by Senator Dole (R-KS), for Senators Hawkins (R-FL) and D’Amato (R-NY), to provide for full funding of Social Security COLAs.

However, on May 10, 1985, after considering many amendments, the Senate adopted by a vote of 50 (49-R, 1-D) to 49 (4-R, 45-D)³⁵⁵ an entirely revised budget package, introduced by Senator Dole, which incorporated the original COLA freeze recommended by the committee.

Subsequently, the Senate considered an amendment by Senator Moynihan (D-NY) to provide a full Social Security COLA in January 1986, but it was tabled by a vote of 51 (49-R, 2-D) to 47 (3-R, 44-D).³⁵⁶

The final budget resolution, passed by a voice vote, assumed later enactment of the 1986 COLA freezes, including one affecting Social Security.

House Action

The House-passed version of the FY1986 first budget resolution, H.Con.Res. 152, assumed that full COLAs would be paid in all federal benefit programs.

³⁵³ Congressional Quarterly Almanac, 99th Cong. 1st sess., 1985, vol. XLT, p. 447.

³⁵⁴ Congressional Record, May 1, 1985, Senate, Roll call no. 35, not voting 1, p. 10075.

³⁵⁵ Congressional Record, May 9, 1985, Senate, Roll call no. 72, not voting 2, p. 11475. The initial vote was 49 to 49, which necessitated that Vice President Bush cast the tie-breaking vote.

³⁵⁶ Congressional Record, May 9, 1985, Senate, Roll call no. 73, not voting 2, p. 11477.

On May 22, 1985, the House rejected an amendment by Representative Dannemeyer (R-CA) to limit Social Security COLAs to 2% per year for the three-year period FY1986-FY1988 by a vote of 382 (135-R, 247-D) to 39 (39-R, 0-D).³⁵⁷

On May 23, 1985, the House also rejected by a vote of 372 (165-R, 207-D) to 56 (15-R, 41-D) an amendment offered by Representative Leath (D-TX) to freeze 1986 COLAs for Social Security, federal retirement, and veterans' compensation while adding back 20% of the anticipated savings to programs that aid needy elderly and disabled people.³⁵⁸

Provisions of the House-passed resolution were inserted in S.Con.Res. 32, in lieu of the Senate-passed measures, which was approved by a vote of 258 (24-R, 234-D) to 170 (155-R, 15-D) on May 23, 1985.³⁵⁹

Conference Action

Conferees for the House and Senate met throughout June and July 1985 to work out an agreement on a deficit reduction package. Among the number of ideas that surfaced were proposals to delay the Senate-passed COLA freezes until 1987, means test the COLAs, make both the COLAs and adjustments to income tax brackets effective every other year (instead of annually), and increase the amount of Social Security benefits that would be subject to income taxes. Ultimately, however, agreement could not be reached on any form of Social Security constraint, and the conference agreement on the First Concurrent Resolution on the Budget for FY1986, passed on August 1, 1985, did not assume any such savings.

P.L. 99-509, Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986

President Reagan signed H.R. 5300, the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986, on October 21, 1986. During 1986, inflation slowed to a rate that made it unlikely that it would reach the 3% threshold necessary to provide a COLA in that year. P.L. 99-509 permanently eliminated the 3% requirement, which enabled a 1.3% COLA to be authorized for December 1986.

Senate Action

The Senate Finance Committee, as part of its budget provisions incorporated in S. 2706, the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986, included a measure that would have provided a Social Security COLA in January 1987 no matter how low inflation turned out to be, that is, it permanently eliminated the 3% requirement.

The Senate approved S. 2706 on September 20, 1986, by a vote of 88 (50-R, 38-D) to 7 (0-R, 7-D).³⁶⁰

House Action

The House Ways and Means Committee, as part of its budget reconciliation provisions incorporated in H.R. 5300, its version of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986, included a similar measure.

³⁵⁷ Congressional Record, May 22, 1985, House, Roll call no. 124, not voting 13, p. 13066.

³⁵⁸ Congressional Record, May 23, 1985, House, Roll call no. 129, not voting 5, p. 13387.

³⁵⁹ Congressional Record, May 23, 1985, House, Roll call no. 131, not voting 6, p. 13407.

³⁶⁰ Congressional Record, September 20, 1985, Senate, Roll call no. 277, not voting 5, p. 24918.

The House passed H.R. 5300 with this measure on September 24, 1986, by a vote of 309 (99-R, 210-D) to 106 (71-R, 35-D).³⁶¹

Conference Action

The conference report on H.R. 5300, including the COLA provision, was approved by both houses on October 17, 1986, by a vote of 305 (112-R, 193-D) to 70 (R-51, D-19) in the House and 61 (33-R, 28-D) to 25 (10-R, 15-D) in the Senate.³⁶²

P.L. 100-203, Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1987

H.R. 3545, the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1987, was signed into law on December 22, 1987, by President Reagan. Several of its provisions affected Social Security. P.L. 100-203 extended FICA coverage to military training of inactive reservists, the employer's share of all cash tips, and several other categories of earnings; lengthened from 15 months to 36 months the period during which a disability recipient who returns to work may become automatically re-entitled to benefits; and extended the period for appeal of adverse disability decisions through 1988.

House Action

H.R. 3545 was a bill to meet the deficit reduction targets set by the FY1988 budget resolution (H.Con.Res. 93). Earlier, in July, the Ways and Means Committee also had approved changes in Social Security. Two of these provisions—extending coverage to military training of inactive reservists and group term life insurance—had been requested by President Reagan. In addition, the committee agreed to lengthen from 15 months to 36 months the period during which a disability recipient who returns to work may become automatically re-entitled to benefits, to extend the period for appeal of adverse disability decisions through 1988, and to cover certain agricultural workers, children and spouses in family businesses.

The house passed H.R. 3545 on October 29, 1987, by a vote of 206 (1-R, 205-D) to 205 (164-R, 41-D).³⁶³

Senate Action

When the Finance Committee approved H.R. 3545 on December 3, 1987, it included the House Social Security coverage provisions.

On December 10, 1987, the Senate rejected an amendment by Senator Kassebaum (R-KS) that would have limited the 1988 Social Security COLA to 2%, by a vote of 71 (34-R, 37-D) to 25 (11-R, 14-D).³⁶⁴

On December 11, 1987, the Senate approved H.R. 3545 by a voice vote.

³⁶¹ Congressional Record, September 24, 1986, House, Roll call no. 408, not voting 17, p. 26024.

³⁶² Congressional Record, October 17, 1986, House, Roll call no. 487, not voting 57, p. 32978, and Congressional Record, October 17, 1986, Senate, Roll call no. 358, not voting 14, p. 33313.

³⁶³ Congressional Record, October 29, 1987, House, Roll call no. 392, not voting 22, p. 30237.

³⁶⁴ Congressional Record, December 10, 1987, Senate, Roll call no. 405, not voting 4, p. 34882.

Conference Action

The conference committee generally accepted the House-passed version of H.R. 3545.

On December 21, 1987, the House passed the conference report by a vote of 237 (44-R, 193-D) to 181 (130-R, 51-D).³⁶⁵

On December 21, 1987, the Senate passed the conference report by a vote of 61 (18-R, 43-D) to 28 (23-R, 5-D).³⁶⁶

P.L. 100-647, Technical and Miscellaneous Revenue Act of 1988

On November 10, 1988, President Reagan signed H.R. 4333, the Technical and Miscellaneous Revenue Act of 1988. In addition to various tax measures the bill contained several provisions affecting Social Security. Among these, H.R. 4333 provided interim benefits to individuals who have received a favorable decision upon appeal to an Administrative Law Judge but whose case has been under review by the Appeals Council for more than 110 days; extended the existing provision for continued payment of benefits during appeal; denied benefits to Nazis who are deported; and lowered the number of years of substantial Social Security-covered earnings that are needed to begin phasing out the windfall benefit formula (which applies to someone receiving a pension from noncovered employment) from 25 years to 20 years.

House Action

On July 14, 1988, the Ways and Means Committee approved a “tax corrections” bill, H.R. 4333, that also included some measures affecting Social Security.

The House passed H.R. 4333 on August 4, 1988, by a vote of 380 (150-R, 230-D) to 25 (19-R, 6-D).³⁶⁷

Senate Action

The Finance Committee adopted about half of the House Social Security provisions.

The Senate approved H.R. 4333 on October 11, 1988, by a vote of 87 (38-R, 49-D) to 1 (0-R, 1-D).³⁶⁸

Conference Action

The conference committee generally accepted the House-passed version of H.R. 4333.

On October 21, 1988, the House passed the conference report by a vote of 358 (150-R, 208-D) to 1 (0-R, 1-D).³⁶⁹

On October 21, 1988, the Senate passed the conference report by a voice vote.

³⁶⁵ Congressional Record, December 21, 1987, House, Roll call no. 508, not voting 15, p. 37088.

³⁶⁶ Congressional Record, December 21, 1987, Senate, Roll call no. 419, not voting 11, p. 37712.

³⁶⁷ Congressional Record, August 4, 1988, House, Roll call no. 266, not voting 26, p. 20502.

³⁶⁸ Congressional Record, October 11, 1988, Senate, Roll call no. 366, not voting 12, p. 29792.

³⁶⁹ Congressional Record, October 21, 1988, House, Roll call no. 463, not voting 72, p. 33116.

P.L. 101-239, Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1989

On December 19, 1989, President George H. W. Bush signed H.R. 3299, the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1989. Among other things, its Social Security provisions extended benefits to children adopted after the worker became entitled to benefits, regardless of whether the child was dependent on the worker before the worker's entitlement; further extended the existing provision for continued payment of benefits during appeal; increased the calculation of average wages, used for purposes of computing of benefits and the maximum amount of earnings subject to FICA tax, by including deferred compensation; and, beginning in 1990, required that SSA provide estimates of earnings and future benefits to all workers over the age of 24.

House Action

When the Ways and Means Committee considered H.R. 3299 on October 5, 1989, it proposed several Social Security-related measures. Among these was a provision making SSA an independent agency; raising the Special Minimum benefit by $35 a month; increasing the earnings test limits for recipients over the age of 64; extending benefits to children adopted after the worker became entitled to benefits, regardless of whether the child was dependent on the worker before the worker's entitlement; further extending the existing provision for continued payment of benefits during appeal; and including deferred compensation in the determination of average wages for purposes of determining benefits and the maximum amount of earnings subject to the FICA tax.

On October 5, 1989, the House passed H.R. 3299 by a vote of 333 (R-146, D-187) to 91 (R-28, D-63).³⁷⁰

Senate Action

The Finance Committee approved its version of H.R. 3299 on October 3, 1989. Like the House version, it included an increase in the maximum amount of earnings subject to the FICA tax, but it specifically earmarked the revenue therefrom to pay for proposed increases in the earnings test limits. It also approved making SSA an independent agency, but with a single administrator as opposed to the three-person board specified in the House version. However, because it was thought that a "clean bill" would improve chances of passage, the bill was stripped of its Social Security provisions before it reached the floor.

The senate approved its version of H.R. 3299 on October 13, 1989, by a vote of 87 (R-40, D-47) to 7 (R-2, D-5).³⁷¹

Conference Action

In conference, most of the House provisions were accepted (but the major exclusion was making SSA an independent agency). Although neither version of H.R. 3299 included it, a provision was added that, beginning in 1990, required that SSA provide estimates of earnings and future benefits to all workers over the age of 24.

³⁷⁰ Congressional Record, October 5, 1989, House, Roll call no. 274, not voting 8, p. 23393.

³⁷¹ Congressional Record, October 13, 1989, Senate, Roll call no. 243, not voting 6, p. 24605.

On November 22, 1989 (legislative day November 21), the House approved the conference report by a vote of 272 (R-86, D-186) to 128 (R-81, D-47).³⁷² The Senate approved it the same day by a voice vote.

P.L. 101-508, Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990

On November 5, 1990, President George H. W. Bush signed H.R. 5835, the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990. Among its Social Security provisions, it made permanent a temporary provision, first enacted in 1984 and subsequently extended, that provides the option for recipients to choose to continue to receive disability and Medicare benefits while their termination is being appealed; liberalized the definition of disability for disabled widow(er)s by making it consistent with that for disabled workers; extended benefits to spouses whose marriage to the worker is otherwise invalid, if the spouse was living with the worker before he or she died or filed for benefits; removed the operation of the trust funds from budget deficit calculations under the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings Act; established separate House and Senate procedural safeguards to protect trust fund balances; extended coverage to employees of state and local governments who are not covered by a retirement plan; and raised the maximum amount of earnings subject to HI taxes to $125,000, effective in 1991, with raises thereafter indexed to increases in average wages.

House Action

In 1990, the congressional agenda was dominated by the debate over how to reduce a large budget deficit, which, under the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings (GRH) sequestration rules, would have required billions of dollars of cuts in many federal programs. The Administration's FY1991 budget contained several Social Security measures, the most prominent of which was to extend Social Security coverage to state and local government workers not covered by a retirement plan. The Ways and Means Social Security Subcommittee included some of them in a package of Social Security provisions it forwarded to the full committee. For several months budget negotiations stalled, as the democratic majority in Congress disagreed with the Administration's position that the deficit should be reduced entirely with spending cuts. As a result of a budget "summit" between congressional and Administration leaders, an agreement was reached in which the President would put tax increases on the table and the Congress would consider spending cuts in entitlements, including Social Security and Medicare. The resulting bill reported from the Budget Committee on October 15, H.R. 5835, extended Social Security coverage to state and local government workers not covered by a retirement plan and raised the maximum amount of earnings subject to HI taxes to $100,000, effective in 1991. However, the same day the Ways and Means Committee reported out H.R. 5828, a bill making miscellaneous and technical amendments to the Social Security Act, which incorporated most of the provisions that had earlier been approved by the Social Security Subcommittee.

On October 16, 1990, the House approved H.R. 5835 by a vote of 227 (10-R, 217-D) to 203 (163-R, 40-D).³⁷³

Senate Action

During 1990, the debate about Social Security was largely dominated by a proposal by Senator Moynihan (D-NY) to cut the Social Security payroll tax and return the program to true pay-as-you-go financing. The driving force behind the proposal was the growing realization that the rapid rise in Social Security yearly surpluses, caused by payroll tax revenues that exceeded the program's expenditures, were significantly reducing the size of the overall federal budget deficit. This had led to charges that the Social Security trust funds were being "raided" to finance the rest of government and "masking" the true size of the deficit. In S. 3167, Senator Moynihan proposed that the payroll tax rate be scheduled to fall and rise with changes in the program's costs.

³⁷² Congressional Record, November 21, 1989, House, Roll call no. 379, not voting 33, p. 31127.

³⁷³ Congressional Record, October 16, 1990, House, Roll call no. 475, not voting 3, p. 29923.

On October 10, 1990, Senator Moynihan asked that the Senate vote on S. 3167. While the Senate leadership agreed to bring the bill to the floor, a point of order was raised against it on the basis that it violated the Budget Act. Although a majority of Senators voted to override the point of order, 54 (R-12, D-42) to 44 (31-R, 13-D), the measure fell short of the 60 votes required.³⁷⁴

When the Senate considered H.R. 5835 on October 18, 1990, it accepted by a vote of 98 (43-R, 55-D) to 2 (2-R, 0-D) an amendment by Senators Hollings (D-SC) and Heinz (R-PA) to remove Social Security from GRH budget deficit calculations.³⁷⁵

On October 19, 1990 (legislative day October 18), the Senate passed the budget reconciliation bill by a vote of 54 (23-R, 31-D) to 46 (22-R, 24-R).³⁷⁶

Conference Action

On October 27, 1990 (legislative day October 26), the House passed the conference report on H.R. 5835 by a vote of 228 (47-R, 181-D) to 200 (126-R, 74-D).³⁷⁷

On October, 27, 1990, the Senate passed the conference report by a vote of 54 (19-R, 35-D) to 45 (25-R, 20-D)³⁷⁸

P.L. 103-66, Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993

On August 10, 1993, President Clinton signed H.R. 2264, the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993. Effective in 1994, H.R. 2264 made up to 85% of Social Security benefits subject to the income tax for recipients whose income plus one-half of their benefits exceed $34,000 (single) and $44,000 (couple); and eliminated the maximum taxable earnings base for the HI payroll tax, (i.e., subjected all earnings to the HI tax), effective in 1994.

As part of his plan to cut the federal fiscal deficit, President Clinton proposed in his first budget that the proportion of benefits subject to taxation should be increased from 50% to 85%, effective in 1994. His budget document said this would "move the treatment of Social Security and railroad retirement Tier I benefits toward that of private pensions" and would generate $32 billion in new tax revenues over five years. The proceeds from the change would not be credited to the Social Security trust funds, as under current law, but to the Medicare Hospital Insurance program, which had a less favorable financial outlook than did Social Security. Doing so also would have avoided procedural obstacles that could have been raised in the budget reconciliation process. The budget also proposed that the maximum taxable earnings base for HI be eliminated entirely beginning in 1994.

Both proposals, especially the increase in the taxation of benefits, were opposed vigorously by the Republican minority. Critics maintained that the increase was unfair as it changed the rules in the ³⁷⁴ Congressional Record, October 10, 1990, Senate, Roll call no. 262, not voting 2, p. 28190.

³⁷⁵ Congressional Record, October 18, 1990, Senate, Roll call no. 283, not voting 0, p. 30640.

³⁷⁶ Congressional Record, October 18, 1990, Senate, Roll call no. 292, not voting 0, p. 30731.

³⁷⁷ Congressional Record, October 26, 1990, House, Roll call no. 528, not voting 5, p. 35253.

³⁷⁸ Congressional Record, October 27, 1990, Senate, Roll call no. 326, not voting 1, p. 36278.

middle of the game, penalizing recipients who relied on old law and who could not change past work and savings decisions. Regardless of abstract arguments about tax principles, many recipients regarded increased taxation as simply a reduction in the benefits they had been promised. They regarded taxation of benefits as an indirect means test, which would weaken the “earned right” nature of the program and make it more like welfare, where need determines the level of benefits. Finally, they maintained that it grossly distorts marginal tax rates and provides a strong disincentive for many recipients to work.³⁷⁹

House Action

H.Con.Res. 64, the FY1994 Concurrent Budget Resolution, included the additional revenue from the President’s proposal.

On March 18, 1993, the House passed H.Con.Res. 64 by a vote of 243 (0-R, 242-D, 1-I) to 183 (172-R, 11-D), which included the additional revenue from the President’s proposal.³⁸⁰

Senate Action

The Senate devoted six days of debate to H.Con.Res. 64 at the end of March.

On March 24, 1993, the Senate rejected by a vote of 47 (43-R, 4-D) to 52 (0-R, 52-D) an amendment by Senator Lott (R-MS) that would have deleted from the resolution the revenue projected from the President’s proposal.³⁸¹

On March 24, 1993, the Senate approved, by a vote of 67 (12-R, 55-D) to 32 (31-R, 1-D), an amendment by Senators Lautenberg (D-NJ) and Exon (D-NE) expressing the sense of the Senate that the revenues set forth in the resolution assume that the Finance Committee would make every effort to find alternative sources of revenue before imposing additional taxes on the Social Security benefits of recipients with threshold incomes of less than $32,000 (single) and $40,000 (couples). The thresholds for taxing 50% of benefits were to remain at the current law levels of $25,000 and $32,000.³⁸²

On March 25, 1993, the Senate approved H.Con.Res. 64 by a vote of 54 (0-R, 54-D) to 45 (43-R, 1-D).³⁸³

Conference Action

On March 31, 1993, the House approved the conference report on H.Con.Res. 64 by a vote of 240 (0-R, 239-D, 1-I) to 184 (172-R, 12-D).³⁸⁴ On April 1, 1993, the Senate approved the conference

³⁷⁹ Subsequently, after the Republicans gained control of the House of Representatives, the House twice passed legislation that would repeal the 1993 increase in taxation of benefits. Repeal of the 1993 provision was part of the Republican “Contract with America” and was approved by the House as part of the omnibus budget reconciliation bill (H.R. 2491) but was not included in the final law. On July 27, 2000, the House of Representatives approved H.R. 4865, which, effective in 2001, would have repealed the 1993 provision, thus lowering the maximum amount of benefits subject to taxation from 85% to 50%, and replaced the resulting reduced revenue to Medicare with general fund transfers. In neither instance were these measures approved by the Senate.

³⁸⁰ Congressional Record, March 18, 1993, House, Roll call no. 85, not voting 4, p. 5674.

³⁸¹ Congressional Record, March 24, 1993, Senate, Roll call no. 57, not voting 1, p. 6142.

³⁸² Congressional Record, March 24, 1993, Senate, Roll call no. 58, not voting 1, p. 6149.

³⁸³ Congressional Record, March 25, 1993, Senate, Roll call no. 83, not voting 1, p. 6408.

³⁸⁴ Congressional Record, March 31, 1993, House, Roll call no. 127, not voting 6, p. 6964.

report by a vote of 55 (0-R, 55-D) to 45 (43-R, 2-D).³⁸⁵ It included the sense of the Senate resolution.

House Action as Modified

On May 13, 1993, by a party-line vote of 24-14, the House Committee on Ways and Means approved the President's proposal, but modified it so that the additional proceeds would be credited to the General Fund instead of to Medicare. This measure was included in H.R. 2264, the 1993 Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act.

On May 27, 1993, the House passed H.R. 2264 by a vote of 219 (0-R, 218-D, 1-I) to 213 (175-R, 38-D).³⁸⁶

Senate Action as Modified

On June 18, 1993, by a party-line vote of 11-9, the Finance Committee approved H.R. 2264, but included the Lautenberg-Exon amendment to raise the taxation thresholds to $32,000 (single) and $42,000 (couple).

On June 24, 1993, the Senate rejected, by a vote of 46 (41-R, 5-D) to 51 (1-R, 50-D), an amendment by Senator Lott to delete the taxation of benefits provision.³⁸⁷

It also rejected, by a vote of 46 (3-R, 43-D) to 51 (40-R, 11-D) an amendment by Senator DeConcini to increase the 85% thresholds to $37,000 (single) and $54,000 (couple),³⁸⁸ and, by a vote of 41 (40-R, 1-D) to 57 (3-R, 54-D) an amendment by Senator McCain to direct that the proceeds of increased taxation of benefits be credited to the Social Security trust funds.³⁸⁹

On June 24, 1993, the Senate approved, by a vote of 50 (0-R, 50-D) to 49 (43-R, 6-D), the Budget Reconciliation bill. It included the Lautenberg-Exon amendment creating second-tier thresholds of $32,000 and $40,000.³⁹⁰

Conference Action as Modified

On July 14, 1993, the House adopted, by a vote of 415 to 0, an amendment by Representative Sabo (D-MN) to instruct its conferees on the bill to accept the Senate version of taxation of benefits.³⁹¹

When the House and Senate versions of the budget package were negotiated in conference, the conferees modified the Senate taxation of Social Security benefits provision by setting the second tier thresholds at $34,000 (single) and $44,000 (couple). The measure was included in the final version of the reconciliation bill passed by the House on August 5, 1993, by a vote of 218 (0-R, 217-D, 1-I) to 216 (175-R, 41-D).³⁹²

³⁸⁵ Congressional Record, April 1, 1993, Senate, Roll call no. 94, not voting 0, p. 7215.

³⁸⁶ Congressional Record, May 27, 1993, House, Roll call no. 199, not voting 0, p. 11952.

³⁸⁷ Congressional Record, June 24, 1993, Senate, Roll call no. 169, not voting 3, p. 14028.

³⁸⁸ Congressional Record, June 24, 1993, Senate, Roll call no. 172, not voting 2, p. 14069.

³⁸⁹ Congressional Record, June 24, 1993, Senate, Roll call no. 184, not voting 2, p. 14107.

³⁹⁰ Congressional Record, June 24, 1993, Senate, Roll call no. 190, not voting 2, p. 14172. The initial vote was 49 to 49, which necessitated that Vice President Gore cast the tie-breaking vote.

³⁹¹ Congressional Record, July 14, 1993, House, Roll call no. 329, not voting 19, p. 15670.

³⁹² Congressional Record, August 5, 1993, House, Roll call no. 406, not voting 0, p. 19476.

On August 6, 1993, the Senate passed H.R. 2264 by a vote of 51 (0-R, 51-D) to 50 (44-R, 6-D).³⁹³

P.L. 103-296, Social Security Administrative Reform Act of 1994

President Clinton signed H.R. 4277, the Social Security Administrative Reform Act of 1994, on August 15, 1994. P.L. 103-296 established the SSA as an independent agency, effective March 31, 1995. It restricted DI and SSI benefits payable to drug addicts and alcoholics by creating sanctions for failing to get treatment, limiting their enrollment to three years, and requiring that those receiving DI benefits have a representative payee (formerly required only of SSI recipients). Representatives of the Clinton Administration initially opposed making SSA an independent agency, but President Clinton supported H.R. 4277's final passage.

Interest in making SSA independent began in the early 1970s, when Social Security's impact on fiscal policy was made more visible by including it in the federal budget. During congressional budget discussions in the early 1980s, proponents of independence wanted to insulate Social Security from benefit cuts designed to meet short-term budget goals rather than policy concerns about Social Security. Many argued that making the agency independent would help insulate it from political and budgetary discussions, lead to better leadership, and reassure the public about Social Security's long-run survivability.

Opponents argued that Social Security's huge revenue and outlays should not be isolated from policy choices affecting other HHS social programs and that its financial implications for the economy and millions of recipients should be evaluated in conjunction with other economic and social functions of the government. They further believed that making SSA independent would not necessarily resolve its administrative problems, which were heavily influenced by ongoing policy changes to its programs resulting from legislation and court decisions.

Starting in 1986, a number of attempts were made in Congress to make SSA independent. Various Administrations generally opposed the idea, and a disagreement persisted between the House and Senate over how such an agency should be administered. The House preferred an approach under which an independent SSA would be run by a three-member bipartisan board; the Senate preferred an approach where it would be run by a single administrator.

House Action

On May 12, 1994, the Ways and Means Committee reported out H.R. 2264 (incorporating the three-member bipartisan board approach), introduced by Representative Jacobs (D-IN).

The House passed H.R. 2264 on May 17, 1994, by a vote of 413-0.³⁹⁴

Senate Action

On January 25, 1994, the Senate Finance Committee reported out S. 1560 (incorporating the single-administrator approach), introduced by Senator Moynihan (D-NY).

The Senate passed S. 1560 by voice vote on March 2, 1994.

On May 23, 1994, the Senate approved H.R. 4277, after striking its language and substituting that of S. 1560, by voice vote.

³⁹³ Congressional Record, August 6, 1993, Senate, Roll call no. 247, not voting 0, p. 14107. The initial vote was 50 to 50, which necessitated that Vice President Gore cast the tie-breaking vote.

³⁹⁴ Congressional Record, May 17, 1994, House, Roll call no. 177, not voting 20, p. 10603.

Conference Action

Conferees reached an agreement on July 20, 1994, under which SSA would be run by a single administrator appointed for a six-year term, supported by a seven-member bipartisan advisory board.

The Senate passed the agreement by voice vote on August 5, 1994.

The House passed the agreement on August 11, 1994, by a vote of 431-0.³⁹⁵

P.L. 103-387, Social Security Domestic Reform Act of 1994

President Clinton signed H.R. 4278, Social Security Domestic Reform Act of 1994, on October 22, 1994. H.R. 4278 raised the threshold for Social Security coverage of household employees from $50 in wages a quarter to $1,000 a year, which would rise thereafter with the growth in average wages and reallocated taxes from the OASI fund to the DI fund.

In early 1993, the issue of coverage of domestic workers burst into public awareness when several Cabinet nominees revealed that they had failed to report the wages they had paid to childcare providers. Subsequent media scrutiny made it apparent that under-reporting of household wages was common. It also highlighted that householders were supposed to be reporting even occasional work such as babysitting and lawn mowing. As the threshold had not been changed for 43 years, the question naturally arose of whether it should be raised.

House Action

Several measures were introduced in the 103rd Congress that would have raised the threshold by varying amounts. On March 22, 1994, Representative Andrew Jacobs (D-IN) introduced H.R. 4105, which would have raised the threshold to $1,250 a year in 1995, to be indexed thereafter to increases in average wages.

This measure was included in H.R. 4278, approved by the House on May 12, 1994, by a vote of 420-0.³⁹⁶

Senate Action

When the Senate considered H.R. 4278 on May 25, 1994, it struck the House language and substituted the text of S. 1231, a bill by Senator Moynihan (D-NY) that would have raised the annual threshold to the same level as that needed to earn a quarter of coverage ($620 in 1994) and exempted from Social Security taxes the wages paid to domestic workers under the age of 18.

The Senate passed the revised version of H.R. 4278 on May 25, 1994, by unanimous consent.

Conference Action

On October 5, 1994, conferees agreed to a measure that raised the threshold for Social Security coverage of household workers to $1,000, effective in 1994. The measure also provided that the threshold would rise in the future, in $100 increments, in proportion to the growth in average wages in the economy.³⁹⁷

³⁹⁵ Congressional Record, August 11, 1994, House, Roll call no. 392, not voting 3, p. 21535.

³⁹⁶ Congressional Record, May 12, 1994, House, Roll call no. 169, not voting 15, p. 10028.

³⁹⁷ Congressional Record, October 6, 1994, House, Roll call no. 494, not voting 11, p. 28504.

On October 6, 1994, the conference report was approved in the House by a vote of 423-0. The same day, the Senate approved the conference report by unanimous consent.

P.L. 104-121, Senior Citizens Right to Work Act of 1996

On March 29, 1996, President Clinton signed H.R. 3136, the Senior Citizens Right to Work Act of 1996. H.R. 3136: raised the annual earnings test exempt amount, for recipients who have attained the full retirement age (FRA), over a period of seven years, reaching $30,000 in 2002, and then indexed that amount to wages; prohibited DI and SSI eligibility to individuals whose disability is based on drug addiction or alcoholism; tightened eligibility requirements for entitlements to benefits as a stepchild; and, as a way to produce program savings that would help compensate for the increased costs to the Social Security system due to liberalizing the earnings test, provided funds for additional continuing disability reviews.

On September 27, 1994, 300 Republican congressional candidates presented a “Contract with America” that listed 10 proposals that they would pursue if elected. One of the proposals, the “Senior Citizens Equity Act,” included a measure to increase the earnings test limits, for those over age 64, over a period of five years, reaching $30,000 in 2000. After the Republican victory in the election, the Senior Citizens Equity Act was sponsored by 131 Members in H.R. 8, introduced January 4, 1995. Although the House approved the measure as part of H.R. 1215, it was not included in the Balanced Budget Reconciliation bill (H.R. 2491) passed by the Congress on November 20, 1995.

House Action

On November 28, 1995, the Social Security Subcommittee of the Ways and Means Committee approved H.R. 2684, the Senior Citizens Right to Work Act, introduced by Chairman Bunning (R-KY), that would gradually increase the earnings test limits for those aged 65-69 to $30,000 in 2002. The full committee approved H.R. 2684 by a vote of 31-0 on November 30, 1995.

The House approved H.R. 2684 on December 5, 1995, by a vote of 411 (230-R, 180-D, 1-I) to 4 (0-R, 4-D).³⁹⁸

On March 21, 1996, reportedly with the agreement of the Administration, a modified version of H.R. 2684 was included in H.R. 3136, the Contract with America Advancement Act of 1996, introduced by Representative Archer (D-TX). H.R. 3136, also included an increase in the debt ceiling and other measures. The part of H.R. 3136 relating to the earnings test was similar to H.R. 2684, but modified to slow the rise in the exempt amounts during the first five years of the phase-in.

On March 28, 1996, H.R. 3136 was passed by the House by a vote of 328 (201-R, 127-D) to 91 (30-R, 60-D, 1-I).³⁹⁹

Senate Action

On December 14, 1995, the Senate Committee on Finance approved S. 1470, a bill similar to H.R. 2684.

On March 28, 1996, H.R. 3136 was passed by the Senate by unanimous consent.

³⁹⁸ Congressional Record, daily edition, December 5, 1995, House, Roll call no. 837, not voting 17, p. H13974.

³⁹⁹ Congressional Record, March 28, 1996, House, Roll call no. 102, not voting 12, p. 6940.

P.L. 106-170, Ticket to Work and Work Incentives Improvement Act of 1999

President Clinton signed H.R. 1180, the Ticket to Work and Work Incentive Act of 1999, on December 17, 1999. H.R. 1180 provided disabled recipients with vouchers they can use to purchase rehabilitative services from public or private providers and extended Medicare coverage for up to 4.5 additional years for disabled recipients who work.

In the 1990s, there was a growing movement to mitigate what was seen as a fundamental dilemma faced by many disabled Social Security recipients. While the disabled were encouraged to try to leave the Social Security rolls by attempting to work, in doing so they faced a limited choice in seeking rehabilitation services and a potentially serious loss of Medicare and Medicaid benefits. Proponents of providing greater work opportunity argued that incentives for the disabled to attempt to work should be enhanced.

House Action

On October 19, 1999, the House approved H.R. 1180, The Ticket to Work and Work Incentives Improvement Act of 1999, introduced by Representative Rick Lazio (R-NY), by a vote of 412 (206-R, 205-D, 1-I) to 9 (9-R, 0-D).⁴⁰⁰

Senate Action

On June 16, 1999, the Senate passed a similar bill, S. 331, the Work Incentives Improvement Act of 1999, introduced by Senator James S. Jeffords (R-VT), by a vote of 99-0.⁴⁰¹ On October 21, 1999, the Senate passed H.R. 1180, after striking its language and substituting that of S. 331, by unanimous consent.

Conference Action

On November 18, 1999, the House adopted the conference report by a vote of 418 (212-R, 205-D, 1-I) to 2 (0-R, 2-D).⁴⁰²

On November 19, 1999, the Senate adopted the conference report by a vote of 95 (51-R, 44-D) to 1 (1-R, 0-D).⁴⁰³

P.L. 106-182, Senior Citizens Right to Work Act

President Clinton signed H.R. 5, the Senior Citizens Right to Work Act, on April 7, 2000. H.R. 5 eliminated the earnings test for recipients who have attained FRA, effective in 2000.

The earnings test has always been one of the most unpopular features of the Social Security program. Critics said it was unfair and inappropriate to impose a form of means test for a retirement benefit that has been earned by a lifetime of contributions to the program, that it has a strong negative effect on work incentives, and that it can hurt elderly individuals who need to work to supplement their Social Security benefits. Defenders of the provision said that it is a reasonable means of executing the purpose of Social Security. Because the system is social

⁴⁰⁰ Congressional Record, October 19, 1999, House, Roll call no. 513, not voting 12, p. 10273.

⁴⁰¹ Congressional Record, daily edition, June 16, 1999, Senate, Roll call no. 169, not voting 1, p. S7064.

⁴⁰² Congressional Record, daily edition, November 18, 1999, House, Roll call no. 611, not voting 15, p. H12832.

⁴⁰³ Congressional Record, daily edition, November 19, 1999, Senate, Roll call no. 372, not voting 4, p. S14986.

insurance that protects workers from loss of income due to the retirement, death, or disability of the worker, they consider it appropriate to withhold benefits from workers who show by their substantial earnings that they have not in fact “retired.” They also argued that eliminating or significantly liberalizing the benefit would primarily help those who do not need help (i.e., the better-off).

However, over the years probably the main impediment to eliminating the earnings test was its negative effect on the program’s financial status and on current federal budgets, which perennially were in deficit. By 2000, the federal budget was running large surpluses, so major alterations to the test were deemed affordable. In addition, it was projected that eliminating the test would have no negative impact on Social Security’s long-range financing because of offsetting savings. The ground work for this offsetting effect had been laid in 1983, when Congress increased the Delayed Retirement Credit (DRC). The DRC increases benefits for retirees by a certain percentage for each month they do not receive benefits after they attained FRA. The 1983 legislation provided for a long phase-in of the increase in the DRC, so that its ultimate rate would not be achieved until 2008. At that point, it would be “actuarially fair,” meaning that the additional benefits a person would receive over his or her lifetime due to the DRC would be approximately equal to the value of the benefits lost due to the earnings test. Thus, the long-range cost of eliminating the earnings test for those above FRA would be offset by the savings produced by fewer payments of DRCs. Because there was no threat to Social Security’s long-range solvency and the short-range costs were judged to be affordable, the momentum to repeal the test for those at or over the retirement age was overwhelming.

House Action

On March 1, 2000, the House approved H.R. 5, a bill that would eliminate the earnings test for recipients who have attained FRA, introduced by Representative Sam Johnson (R-TX), by a vote of 422-0.⁴⁰⁴

Senate Action

On March 22, 2000, the Senate approved H.R. 5, with a modification to the monthly exempt amounts in the year of attaining FRA, by a vote of 100-0.⁴⁰⁵

Conference Action

On March 28, 2000, the House approved the Senate version of H.R. 5 by a vote of 419-0.⁴⁰⁶

P.L. 108-203, Social Security Protection Act of 2004

President George W. Bush signed H.R. 743, the Social Security Protection Act of 2004, on March 2, 2004. The measure included various provisions designed to reduce fraud and abuse in the Social Security and SSI programs. Among other changes, H.R. 743 imposed stricter standards on individuals and organizations that serve as representative payees for Social Security and SSI recipients; made nongovernmental representative payees liable for misused funds and subjected them to civil monetary penalties; tightened restrictions on attorneys who represent Social Security and SSI disability claimants; limited assessments on attorney fee payments; prohibited fugitive ⁴⁰⁴ Congressional Record, daily edition, March 1, 2000, House, Roll call no. 27, not voting 13, p. H603.

⁴⁰⁵ Congressional Record, daily edition, March 22, 2000, Senate, Roll call no. 42, not voting 0, p. S1540.

⁴⁰⁶ Congressional Record, daily edition, March 28, 2000, House, Roll call no. 79, not voting 16, p. H1450.

felons from receiving Social Security benefits; modified the last day rule under the Government Pension Offset (GPO) provision; and required certain noncitizens to have authorization to work in the United States at the time a SSN is assigned, or at some later time, to gain insured status under the Social Security program. Several major provisions of the law are described below.⁴⁰⁷

SSA may designate a “representative payee” to accept monthly benefit payments on behalf of Social Security and SSI recipients who are physically or mentally incapable of managing their own funds, or on behalf of children under the age of 18. Before P.L. 108-203, SSA was required to reissue benefits misused by an individual or organizational representative payee only in cases where the Social Security Commissioner found that SSA negligently failed to investigate or monitor the payee. The new law eliminated the requirement that the reissuance of benefits be subject to a finding of negligence on the part of SSA. As a result, SSA is required to reissue any benefits misused by an individual representative payee who represents 15 or more recipients, or by an organizational representative payee. In addition, the law made nongovernmental representative payees (i.e., those other than federal, state, and local government agencies) liable for the reimbursement of misused funds. Under the new law, SSA has the authority to impose a civil monetary penalty (up to $5,000 for each violation) and an assessment (up to twice the amount of misused benefits) on representative payees who misuse benefits. The new law included a number of other provisions aimed at strengthening the accountability of representative payees.

Social Security and SSI disability claimants may choose to have an attorney or other qualified individual represent them in proceedings before SSA, and the claimant representative may charge a fee for his or her services. The fee, which is subject to limits, must be authorized by SSA. If a Social Security disability claimant is awarded past-due benefits and his or her representative is an attorney, SSA withholds the attorney’s fee payment from the benefit award and sends the payment directly to the attorney. To cover the administrative costs associated with the fee withholding process for attorney representatives of Social Security disability claimants, SSA withholds an assessment of up to 6.3% from the attorney’s fee. Before P.L. 108-203, if the claimant representative was not an attorney, or the claim was for SSI benefits, SSA would send the full benefit award to the claimant and the claimant representative would be responsible for collecting his or her fee from the individual. The new law capped the assessment for processing attorney fee payments at the lesser of 6.3% of the attorney’s fee and $75 (indexed to inflation); provided for a temporary (five-year) extension of the attorney fee withholding process to SSI claims; authorized a five-year demonstration project to extend the fee withholding process to non-attorney representatives in both Social Security and SSI claims; and required the Government Accountability Office (GAO) to study the fee payment process for claimant representatives.

Before P.L. 108-203, SSA was prohibited from paying SSI benefits only (not Social Security benefits) to fugitive felons (i.e., persons fleeing prosecution, custody, or confinement after conviction, and persons violating probation or parole). In addition, upon written request, SSA was required to provide information about these individuals (current address, SSN, and photograph) to law enforcement officials. The new law prohibited SSA from paying Social Security benefits as well to fugitive felons and required SSA, upon written request, to provide information to law enforcement officials to assist in the apprehension of these individuals. The new law authorized the Social Security Commissioner to pay, with good cause, SSI and Social Security benefits previously denied because of an individual’s status as a fugitive felon.⁴⁰⁸

⁴⁰⁷ For more information, see SSA, “President Signs Into Law H.R. 743, The Social Security Protection Act Of 2004,” Social Security Legislative Bulletin, at http://www.ssa.gov/legislation/legis_bulletin_030404.html.

⁴⁰⁸ For more information on this topic and a related decision by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit in (continued...)

If an individual receives a government pension from work that was not covered by Social Security, his or her Social Security spousal or widow(er) benefit is reduced by an amount equal to two-thirds of the noncovered government pension, under a provision known as the GPO. Before P.L. 108-203, a state or local government employee who was not covered by Social Security would be exempt from the GPO if he or she worked in a Social Security-covered government position on the last day of employment. That is, under the last day rule, a noncovered state or local government employee could avoid having his or her Social Security spousal or widow(er) benefit reduced under the GPO by switching to a Social Security-covered government position for one day (or longer). Under the new law, a state or local government employee must be covered by Social Security for at least the last 60 calendar months of employment to be exempt from the GPO.⁴⁰⁹

Before P.L. 108-203, a noncitizen was not required to have authorization to work in the United States at any point to qualify for Social Security benefits. Under the new law, a noncitizen who is assigned a SSN in 2004 or later is required to have work authorization at the time the SSN is assigned, or at some later time, to gain insured status under the Social Security program. Specifically, if the individual obtains work authorization at some point, all of his or her Social Security-covered earnings count toward qualifying for benefits (all authorized and unauthorized earnings). If the individual never obtains authorization to work in the United States, none of his or her Social Security-covered earnings count toward qualifying for benefits. A noncitizen who was assigned an SSN before 2004 is not subject to the work authorization requirement established under the new law (i.e., all of the individual's Social Security-covered earnings count toward qualifying for benefits, regardless of his or her work authorization status).

House Action

On April 2, 2003, the House approved H.R. 743, the Social Security Protection Act of 2003, introduced by Representative E. Clay Shaw (R-FL), by a vote of 396 (219-R, 176-D, 1-I) to 28 (3-R, 25-D).⁴¹⁰

Senate Action

On September 17, 2003, the Senate Finance Committee approved an amendment in the nature of a substitute to H.R. 743, as passed by the House, by a voice vote.

On December 9, 2003, the Senate approved H.R. 743, with an amendment that substituted for the version of the bill approved by the Senate Finance Committee, by unanimous consent.

House Response to Senate Action

On February 11, 2004, the House agreed to the Senate version and passed H.R. 743 (renamed the Social Security Protection Act of 2004), by a vote of 402 (221-R, 180-D, 1-I) to 19 (4-R, 15-D).⁴¹¹

December 2005, see the SSA's Acquiescence Ruling on the Fowlkes v. Adamec case at https://www.ssa.gov/OP_Home/rulings/ar/02/AR2006-01-ar-02.html.

⁴⁰⁹ For more information, see CRS Report RL32453, Social Security: The Government Pension Offset (GPO).

⁴¹⁰ Congressional Record, daily edition, April 2, 2003, House, Roll call no. 102, not voting 10, pp. H2668-H2669.

⁴¹¹ Congressional Record, daily edition, February 11, 2004, House, Roll call no. 23, not voting 11, pp. H477-H478.

P.L. 111-312, Tax Relief, Unemployment Insurance Reauthorization, and Job Creation Act of 2010

President Obama signed H.R. 4853, the Tax Relief, Unemployment Insurance Reauthorization, and Job Creation Act of 2010, on December 17, 2010. Section 601 of the law reduced, in 2011 only, the Social Security portion of the payroll tax applied to both the wages and salaries of FICA-covered workers and to the net earnings of SECA-covered self-employed workers, each by two percentage points. The Social Security initiative was just one among other provisions included in the legislation intended to stimulate the economy by creating jobs, extending public payments to the unemployed, and providing workers with more disposable income.

The act temporarily reduced the FICA tax rate from 6.2% of covered earnings to 4.2% for employees, and the SECA tax rate from 12.4% of covered net self-employed earnings to 10.4%. The law did not change the FICA rate for employers in 2011, which remained at 6.2%.

Net revenue to the Social Security trust funds was not affected by P.L. 111-312. Any decline in tax revenue in 2011 attributed to the act was covered by appropriate transfers from the General Fund of the U.S. Treasury.

House Action

On March 17, 2010, the House approved H.R. 4853, under suspension of the rules by voice vote. The bill, introduced by Representative James Oberstar (D-MN), at the time was known as the ultimately unrelated Federal Aviation Administration Extension Act of 2010.

Senate Action

On September 23, 2010, the Senate passed the bill, with an amendment in the nature of a substitute to H.R. 4853, as passed by the House, by unanimous consent. The Senate's amendment, still focused on the aviation industry, was titled the Airport and Airway Extension Act of 2010, Part III.

House Action as Amended

After a few days of debate on tax relief and the economy in early December, the House moved to strip out all aviation provisions in H.R. 4853 and subsequently used the bill as a vehicle for tax relief measures. On December 2, 2010, the House agreed to adopt an amendment to H.R. 4853, as amended by the Senate, by a vote of 234 (231-D, 3-R) to 188 (168-R, 20-D).⁴¹²

Senate Action as Amended

The Senate immediately began deliberation of its version of tax relief in response to the House amendment to the Senate amendment of H.R. 4853. On December 9, 2010, the Senate produced a new substitute to H.R. 4853, in the form of yet another amendment. This version included a provision to grant a one year partial payroll tax "holiday" to workers and the self-employed in 2011. The holiday was packaged as a two percentage point reduction in the FICA and SECA payroll tax rates.

⁴¹² Congressional Record, daily edition, December 2, 2010, House, Roll call no. 604, not voting 12, pp. H7889-H7890.

On December 15, 2010, the Senate approved this new version of the bill, by a vote of 81 (43-D, 37-R, 1-I) to 19 (13-D, 5-R, 1-I).⁴¹³

House Action Approved Amendment

On December 17, 2010, the House approved the latest Senate version of H.R. 4853 (officially, the Senate amendment to the House amendment to the Senate amendment of H.R. 4853). The House approved the measure by a vote of 277 (139-D, 138-R) to 148 (112-D, 36-R).⁴¹⁴

P.L. 112-78, Temporary Payroll Tax Cut Continuation Act of 2011

President Obama signed H.R. 3765, the Temporary Payroll Tax Cut Continuation Act of 2011, on December 23, 2011. Section 101 of the law extended the expiring temporary Social Security payroll tax contribution rates that were provided in P.L. 111-312, the Tax Relief, Unemployment Insurance Reauthorization, and Job Creation Act of 2010 (P.L. 111-312), effective in calendar year 2011, into calendar year 2012. In addition to the Social Security payroll tax provisions, P.L. 112-78 also included extensions of unemployment insurance and health provisions, as well as provisions relating to mortgage fees and the construction of a transcontinental oil pipeline.

Specifically, the Social Security portion of the payroll tax applied to the covered net earnings of SECA-covered self-employed workers remained reduced throughout 2012 at 10.4%, down from the SECA tax rate of 12.4%. The act also extended the 2011 temporary reduction of the FICA tax rate on employee covered earnings from 6.2% to 4.2% through February 2012 only.

Throughout 2011, several proposals were introduced to extend the 2011 temporary payroll tax reductions through calendar year 2012. H.R. 3630 received attention as the vehicle for a year-long extension, which had bipartisan and bicameral support, but the bill stalled as respective versions advanced by the House and Senate differed on how to replace revenue lost as a result of the payroll tax rate reductions. Ultimately, H.R. 3765 emerged as a short-term compromise, and it extended the payroll tax reductions for two months. The year-long extension of payroll tax cuts through calendar year 2012 is addressed in the “P.L. 112-96, The Middle Class Tax Relief and Job Creation Act of 2012” section below, in which Congress revisited H.R. 3630 after the adoption of H.R. 3765 into P.L. 112-78.

House Action

On December 23, 2011, the House approved H.R. 3765, introduced by Representative Dave Camp (R-MI) without objection.

Senate Action

On December 23, 2011, the Senate approved H.R. 3765 by unanimous consent.

P.L. 112-96, Middle Class Tax Relief and Job Creation Act of 2012

President Obama signed H.R. 3630, the Middle Class Tax Relief and Job Creation Act of 2012, on February 22, 2012. Section 1001 of the law further extended, through 2012, expiring reduced ⁴¹³ Congressional Record, daily edition, December 15, 2010, Senate, Roll call no. 276, p. S10255.

⁴¹⁴ Congressional Record, daily edition, December 17, 2010, House, Roll call no. 647, not voting 8, pp. H8594-H8595.

Social Security payroll tax contribution rates first provided in the Tax Relief, Unemployment Insurance Reauthorization, and Job Creation Act of 2010 (P.L. 111-312).

The payroll tax rate reductions included in P.L. 113-312 addressed above in the “P.L. 111-312, The Tax Relief, Unemployment Insurance Reauthorization, and Job Creation Act of 2010” section, were initially intended to be applied only in 2011. These rate reductions were extended for an additional two months, through February 2012, by the Temporary Payroll Tax Cut Continuation Act of 2011 (P.L. 112-78). The Middle Class Tax Relief and Job Creation Act of 2012 further extended the rate reductions through the end of calendar year 2012.

In addition to the Social Security payroll tax provisions, P.L. 112-96 also included extensions of unemployment insurance, health, and welfare provisions, as well as provisions relating to the retirement contributions for federal employees and to public safety programs.

In the second session of the 112th Congress, the House and Senate came to an agreement on how to pay for the provisions in H.R. 3630, and the legislation advanced with the filing of a conference report on February 16, 2012. The temporary payroll tax rates extended under P.L. 112-96 expired at the end of 2012. The tax rates returned to 6.2% of covered earnings for employees and 12.4% of covered net earnings for the self-employed in 2013.

House Action

On December 13, 2011, the House approved H.R. 3630, the Middle Class Tax Relief and Job Creation Act of 2011, introduced by Representative Dave Camp (R-MI), by a vote of 234 (224-R, 10-D) to 193 (14-R, 179-D).⁴¹⁵

Senate Action

On December 17, 2011, the Senate approved its version of H.R. 3630, as an amendment in the nature of a substitute and renamed the Temporary Payroll Tax Cut Continuation Act of 2011 by Majority Leader Harry Reid (D-NV), by a vote of 89 (49-D, 39-R, 1-I) to 10 (2-D, 7-R, 1-I).⁴¹⁶

House Action as Agreed

On February 17, 2012, the House agreed to the conference report of the bill, now identified as the Middle Class Tax Relief and Job Creation Act of 2012, by a vote of 293 (147-D, 146-R) to 132 (91-R, 41-D).⁴¹⁷

Senate Action as Agreed

On February 17, 2012, the Senate agreed to the conference report by a vote of 60 (45-D, 14-R, 1-I) to 36 (30-R, 5-D, 1-I).⁴¹⁸

P.L. 113-270, No Social Security for Nazis Act

President Barack Obama signed into law H.R. 5739, the No Social Security for Nazis Act, on December 18, 2014. Before P.L. 113-270, Title II of the Social Security Act provided for the ⁴¹⁵ Congressional Record, daily edition, December 13, 2011, House, Roll call no. 923, not voting 6, p. H8824.

⁴¹⁶ Congressional Record, daily edition, December 17, 2011, Senate, Roll call no. 232, not voting 1, pp. S8748-S87489.

⁴¹⁷ Congressional Record, daily edition, February 17, 2012, House, Roll call no. 72, not voting 8, p. H926.

⁴¹⁸ Congressional Record, daily edition, February 17, 2012, Senate, Roll call no. 22, not voting 4, p. S892.

termination of Social Security benefits for individuals who were ordered removed due to participation in Nazi persecutions, genocide, torture, or extrajudicial killings under Section 237(a)(4)(D) of the Immigration and Nationality Act. SSA was required to terminate benefits for such individuals upon notification that final orders of removal were issued against the individuals.⁴¹⁹ Physical removal of the individual from the United States was not a necessary condition for the termination of benefits in such cases as it is with all other individuals who have been ordered removed; rather, the issuance of a final order of removal was the basis for the termination of benefits.

P.L. 113-270 expanded the conditions under which Social Security benefits would be terminated for those who participated in Nazi persecutions. In addition, under P.L. 113-270, benefits would be reinstated for those who are ordered removed based on participation in genocide, torture, or extrajudicial killings until those persons are physically removed.

The act broadened the existing provision of the Social Security Act described above for those who participated in Nazi persecutions in response to concerns that certain individuals believed to have participated in Nazi persecutions during World War II have been living outside the United States and receiving Social Security benefits. Specifically, concern focused on a small surviving group of individuals who had lived in the United States previously and, due to their participation in Nazi persecutions, had been under investigation by the Department of Justice and left the country before being ordered removed.⁴²⁰ Because these individuals left the United States before being issued an order of removal, their Social Security benefits were not subject to termination. (These individuals would also have met other requirements for the payment of Social Security benefits outside the United States.)

P.L. 113-270 provided for the termination of Social Security benefits for these additional individuals determined to have participated in Nazi persecutions, and it prohibited them from receiving Social Security benefits based on another person's work record. It also clarified the timeframe in which the Department of Justice or the Department of Homeland Security must notify SSA of certain actions involving these individuals. The change in benefit eligibility for those who participated in genocide, torture, or extrajudicial killings as a result of P.L. 113-270 (i.e., making the physical removal of such individuals from the United States a necessary condition for the termination of benefits, rather than the issuance of a final order of removal) is likely an unintended consequence of the legislative language.⁴²¹

House Action

On December 2, 2014, the House moved to suspend the rules and pass H.R. 5739 by a vote of 420 (228-R, 192-D) to 0.⁴²²

⁴¹⁹ For a discussion of the removal process, see CRS Report R43892, Alien Removals and Returns: Overview and Trends.

⁴²⁰ Such persons were often under Department of Justice investigation, and either had been denaturalized, were going to be denaturalized, or were going to be placed in removal proceedings. Many chose to renounce their U.S. citizenship and leave the country rather than being subjected to denaturalization and removal proceedings.

⁴²¹ For related information, see SSA, "Senate Passes H. R. 5739, the No Social Security for Nazis Act," Social Security Legislative Bulletin, Number 113-31, December 5, 2014, at https://www.ssa.gov/legislation/legis_bulletin_120514b.html; and SSA, Office of the Inspector General (OIG), Payment of Social Security Benefits to Individuals Who May Have Participated in Nazi Persecution, Congressional Response Report No. A-09-15-50013, May 2015, at <https://oig-files.ssa.gov/audits/full/A-09-15-50013.pdf>.

⁴²² Congressional Record, daily edition, December 2, 2014, House, Roll call no. 537, not voting 14, p. H8260.

Senate Action

On December 4, 2014, H.R. 5739 was passed by the Senate without amendment by unanimous consent.

P.L. 114-74, Bipartisan Budget Act of 2015

President Barack Obama signed into law the Bipartisan Budget Act of 2015 (H.R. 1314) on November 2, 2015. The broad budget legislation contained a number of Social Security-related provisions, including changes to rules that apply when a person files an application for Social Security benefits, and a temporary reallocation of Social Security payroll tax revenues from the OASI Trust Fund to the DI Trust Fund.

Changes to Social Security's Filing Rules

Section 831 of P.L. 114-74 made changes to two types of filing rules: (1) deemed filing and (2) the voluntary suspension of benefits. The changes affect options available to claimants who are full retirement age (FRA) or older (the FRA ranges from 65 to 67, depending on the person's year of birth).⁴²³

Deemed Filing

A worker who qualifies for both a retired-worker benefit and a spousal benefit generally cannot restrict his or her application to only one type of benefit. Rather, when the person files for one benefit, he or she is required (or deemed) to file for the other benefit at the same time. The person becomes simultaneously entitled to a retired-worker benefit and a spousal benefit, and the spousal benefit is reduced under the dual entitlement rule. Under the dual entitlement rule, a person receives his or her own retired-worker benefit first, plus a spousal benefit that has been reduced by the amount of the retired-worker benefit (the spousal benefit may be reduced to zero). In effect, the person receives the higher of the two benefit amounts (not both).⁴²⁴

Before P.L. 114-74, deemed filing applied only to claimants who are below FRA. A claimant who was FRA or older could file a restricted application for benefits; that is, he or she could file for spousal benefits only, for example, and wait until a later time to file for retired-worker benefits. This would allow the person to receive a full spousal benefit now (the dual entitlement rule would not be applied at this time) and to file for a higher retired-worker benefit later.⁴²⁵ When the person filed for his or her own retired-worker benefit later on, the spousal benefit would then be reduced under the dual entitlement rule. Some beneficiaries used this "claiming strategy" as a way to maximize their Social Security retired-worker and spousal benefits.

P.L. 114-74 eliminated the restricted application option for claimants who are FRA or older. Like claimants who are below FRA, they are deemed to file for both a retired-worker benefit and a spousal benefit, if eligible for both. The deemed filing change is effective for people born in 1954 or later (i.e., people who reach age 62—the age at which one first becomes eligible for retirement benefits—on or after January 2, 2016). People born before 1954 (i.e., people who reached age 62 before January 2, 2016) are “grandfathered” under the old rules. They can file a restricted application for spousal benefits only or retired-worker benefits only when they reach FRA. If they claim benefits before FRA, they are subject to deemed filing rules.

⁴²³ A majority of beneficiaries claim benefits before they reach FRA and therefore would not be affected by the changes to Social Security's filing rules.

⁴²⁴ Deemed filing applies to applications for spousal benefits (including divorced spouse's benefits), with some exceptions. It does not apply if an individual receives a spousal benefit and is also entitled to disability benefits, or if an individual receives a spousal benefit because he or she is caring for the worker's eligible child (the child must be under the age of 16 or disabled). Finally, deemed filing does not apply to applications for widow(er)'s benefits.

⁴²⁵ Retired-worker benefits are increased 8% per year from FRA up to age 70 based on delayed retirement credits (DRCs).

Voluntary Suspension of Benefits

Social Security benefits replace a portion of earnings lost due to the worker’s retirement, disability, or death. Therefore, family members generally cannot claim benefits on a worker’s record if the worker has not claimed benefits. Before P.L. 114-74, a worker who was FRA or older could file an application for retired-worker benefits and then request that the benefit payments be suspended. This “file and suspend” approach (1) allowed the worker to accrue delayed retirement credits (DRCs) during the period of voluntary suspension (i.e., his or her retired-worker benefit would increase 8% per year from FRA up to age 70) and at the same time (2) allowed eligible family members (such as a spouse or dependent child) to claim benefits on the worker’s record.

In addition, a beneficiary who had voluntarily suspended his or her own retired-worker benefit could receive a spousal or widow(er)’s benefit based on another person’s record. A spousal or widow(er)’s benefit would be reduced under the dual entitlement rule as if the beneficiary’s own retired-worker benefit had not been suspended (i.e., the beneficiary could receive any excess spousal or widow(er)’s benefits). A worker could also “unsuspend” his or her benefits on a retroactive basis and receive a lump sum payment for the past-due period.

Under P.L. 114-74, a worker who is FRA or older can file for retired-worker benefits and voluntarily suspend benefits between FRA and age 70 to accrue DRCs (as before). This approach could be used by a beneficiary who claims retired-worker benefits and then returns to work, for example. Under the new rules, however, benefits are no longer payable to eligible family members based on the worker’s record during the period of voluntary suspension, with the exception of divorced spouses. A divorced spouse may collect benefits on the worker’s record during the period of suspension. Widow(er)’s benefits are also payable on the record of a deceased worker who had suspended his or her own retired-worker benefits.

In addition, a worker can no longer receive benefits based on another person’s record while his or her own retired-worker benefit is suspended; nor can a worker “unsuspend” his or her benefits retroactively and receive a lump sum payment. The period of voluntary suspension ends with the earlier of (1) the month before the person turns age 70, or (2) the month following the person’s request to resume benefit payments. The changes apply to requests for the voluntary suspension of benefits made after April 29, 2016.

The changes to Social Security’s filing rules were intended to prevent the use of “claiming strategies” viewed as inconsistent with the concept behind Social Security spousal benefits, and that otherwise allowed workers and spouses to collect more in Social Security benefits than Congress intended.⁴²⁶ Before P.L. 114-74, a person who was FRA or older could claim spousal benefits only, when he or she also qualified for retired-worker benefits. As a result, the person could receive full spousal benefits for several years, before claiming a higher retired-worker benefit and only then being subject to the dual entitlement rule. In addition, the “restricted application” and “file and suspend” options were being used in combination by some married couples, for example, to allow both members of the couple to maximize their own retired-worker benefit (through the accrual of DRCs) and to allow one member of the couple to receive full spousal benefits at the same time (by avoiding the dual entitlement rule).

⁴²⁶ These “claiming strategies” were not based on practices explicitly approved by Congress. Rather, they stemmed from interactions between filing rules in place and various legislative changes to the program over time.

Social Security Payroll Tax Reallocation

In July 2015, the Social Security Board of Trustees (the Trustees) released projections showing that the asset reserves held by the DI Trust Fund would be depleted by the end of calendar year 2016; had this occurred, Social Security would have been unable to pay disability benefits in full and on time from that point forward.⁴²⁷ Section 833 of P.L. 114-74 provided a temporary reallocation of the Social Security payroll tax rate between the OASI and DI Trust Funds, directing a larger share of total payroll tax revenues to the DI Trust Fund over a three-year period (2016 through 2018), which extended its solvency.⁴²⁸ P.L. 114-74 also contained a number of other provisions designed to address fraud and other program integrity issues in SSA's disability programs.⁴²⁹

On March 4, 2015, Representative Patrick Meehan (PA) introduced H.R. 1314, the Ensuring Tax Exempt Organizations the Right to Appeal Act. At the time, the bill contained no Social Security provisions. The bill was approved by the House on April 15, 2015, and was moved to the Senate. On May 22, 2015, the Senate passed H.R. 1314, with an amendment in the nature of a substitute, and it was now known as the Trade Act of 2015. After attempts by the House to resolve differences with the Senate amendment (which still did not contain Social Security provisions), the Trade Act of 2015 was tabled on June 25, 2015. On October 28, 2015, the House reported an amendment to the Senate amendment of H.R. 1314, now titled the Bipartisan Budget Act of 2015. The version of H.R. 1314 reported in the House amendment included the Social Security tax rate reallocation and the unrelated provisions mentioned above. Details of congressional action prior to the bill being renamed the Bipartisan Budget Act of 2015 are not reflected in this report.

House Action

On October 28, 2015, the House adopted their amendment to H.R. 1314, as amended by the Senate, by a vote of 266 (187-D, 79-R) to 167 (167-R).⁴³⁰

Senate Action

On October 30, 2015, the Senate agreed to the House amendment to the Senate amendment to H.R. 1314 by a vote of 64 (44-D, 18-R, 2-I) to 35 (35-R).⁴³¹

⁴²⁷ Projections based on the intermediate assumptions of The 2015 Annual Report of the Board of Trustees of the Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance and Federal Disability Insurance Trust Funds, July 22, 2015, at <https://www.ssa.gov/OACT/TR/2015/tr2015.pdf>.

⁴²⁸ For more information on the temporary payroll tax reallocation, see CRS Report R43318, The Social Security Disability Insurance (DI) Trust Fund: Background and Current Status. For more information on the solvency of the DI Trust Fund, see CRS In Focus IF10506, Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI).

⁴²⁹ For more information, see CRS Report R44250, Social Security and Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) Provisions in the Bipartisan Budget Act of 2015. See also SSA, "Congress Passes H.R. 1314, the Bipartisan Budget Act of 2015," Social Security Legislative Bulletin, Number 114-8, November 3, 2015, at https://www.ssa.gov/legislation/legis_bulletin_110315.html.

⁴³⁰ Congressional Record, daily edition, October 28, 2015, House, Roll call no. 579, not voting 2, p. H7312.

⁴³¹ Congressional Record, daily edition, October 30, 2015, House, Roll call no. 294, not voting 1, p. S7674.

P.L. 115-8, Providing for congressional disapproval under chapter 8 of title 5, United States Code, of the rule submitted by the Social Security Administration relating to Implementation of the NICS Improvement Amendments Act of 2007

President Donald Trump signed H.J.Res. 40 on February 28, 2017. Under the Congressional Review Act, the law nullified the “Implementation of the NICS Improvement Amendments Act of 2007” rule which was finalized by SSA on December 19, 2016, and had been scheduled to be implemented as of January 18, 2017.⁴³² The final rule would have required SSA to send the names of individuals meeting certain criteria to the National Instant Criminal History Background Check System. The criteria included individuals who received benefit payments through a representative payee because they had been determined to be mentally incapable of managing benefit payments on their own.⁴³³ The proposed rule received over 90,000 comments.⁴³⁴

This law vacated SSA final rule. It also barred SSA from issuing any future rule that would be “substantially the same” as the vacated rule unless the agency received a new statutory authorization to do so.⁴³⁵

In the retraction of the rule, SSA notes that, “Although the final rule had an effective date of January 18, 2017, we delayed the compliance date of the rule until December 19, 2017 (81 FR at 91720). Therefore, we did not report any records to the National Instant Criminal Background Check System (NICS) pursuant to the final rule.”⁴³⁶

House Action

H.J.Res. 40 was introduced by Representative Sam Johnson (R-TX) on January 30, 2017, and the House debated the joint resolution on February 2, 2017. Members raised multiple issues, including the concern that SSA rule stigmatized those with mental health issues or intellectual disabilities. They cited letters from several advocacy groups, as well as a letter from the National Council on Disability favoring the joint resolution.⁴³⁷ Representatives voicing opposition to the joint resolution cited several factors including that SSA final rule only impacted a small subset of beneficiaries and that the joint resolution disregarded the decisionmaking processes of the agency.⁴³⁸ At the conclusion of debate, the resolution was passed by a voice vote. A recorded vote occurred later that afternoon, and H.J.Res. 40 was passed by a vote of 235 (R-229, D-6) to 180 (R-2, D-178).⁴³⁹

⁴³² SSA, “Implementation of the NICS Improvement Amendments Act of 2007,” 81 Federal Register 91702, December 19, 2016.

⁴³³ For related information, see SSA, “House Passes H.J.Res. 40, Disapproving the NICS Rule,” Social Security Legislative Bulletin, Number 115-3, March 2, 2017, at https://www.ssa.gov/legislation/legis_bulletin_030217.html.

⁴³⁴ SSA, “Implementation of the NICS Improvement Amendments Act of 2007,” 81 Federal Register 91702, December 19, 2016. Comments for proposed rule are available at <https://www.regulations.gov/docket?D=SSA-2016-0011>.

⁴³⁵ For more detailed context, consult CRS Report R44752, Gun Control, Mental Incompetency, and Social Security Administration Final Rule, by William J. Krouse, Scott D. Szymendera, and William R. Morton.

⁴³⁶ SSA, “Implementation of the NICS Improvement Amendments Act of 2007,” 82 Federal Register 22741, May 18, 2017.

⁴³⁷ The National Council on Disability is an independent federal agency. More information is available at <https://www.ncd.gov/>.

⁴³⁸ House debate, Congressional Record, daily edition, vol. 163 (February 2, 2017), pp. H894-H907.

⁴³⁹ Congressional Record, daily edition, February 2, 2017, House, Roll call no. 77, not voting 17, p. H895.

Senate Action

On February 15, 2017, H.J.Res. 40 was passed by the Senate without amendment by a vote of 57 (R-52, D-4, I-1) to 43 (D-42, I-1).⁴⁴⁰

P.L. 115-59, Social Security Number Fraud Prevention Act of 2017

President Donald Trump signed H.R. 624, the Social Security Number Fraud Prevention Act of 2017, on September 15, 2017. The law included several provisions to limit federal agencies from including an individual's SSN on documents sent by mail. It requires the head of each CFO⁴⁴¹ (chief financial officer) Act agency to issue regulations no later than five years after enactment, which specify the circumstances under which a SSN would be necessary to include on a document sent by mail.⁴⁴² In addition, it stipulates that each agency must issue several reports demonstrating the agency's progress in removing the SSN from agency documents. The final report would list any remaining documents produced by the CFO Act agency that continued to include an SSN.

House Action

H.R. 624 was introduced by Representative David G. Valadao (R-CA) on January 24, 2017. The Committee on Oversight and Government Reform adopted, by voice vote, a substitute amendment extending the deadline for issuing regulations from one year to five years on February 14, 2017. The House approved the bill, as amended, under suspension of the rules by a voice vote on May 24, 2017.⁴⁴³

Senate Action

On September 6, 2017, H.R. 624 was passed by the Senate without amendment by unanimous consent.⁴⁴⁴

P.L. 115-165, Strengthening Protections for Social Security Beneficiaries Act of 2018

President Donald Trump signed H.R. 4547 on April 13, 2018. The law amended Titles II and XVI of the Social Security Act. It was designed to increase oversight of representative payees and protect vulnerable beneficiaries.⁴⁴⁵ The law required SSA to make annual grants to each state's ⁴⁴⁰ Congressional Record, daily edition, February 15, 2018, Senate, Roll call no. 66, p. S1169.

⁴⁴¹ The term CFO Act agency refers to the agencies identified in paragraphs (1) and (2) of 31 U.S.C. §901(b). These can be found at <http://uscode.house.gov/view.xhtml?path=/prelim@title31/subtitle1/chapter9&edition=prelim>. Examples include the Department of Labor, the Department of State, and the Department of Education.

⁴⁴² For related information, see SSA, "President Signs H.R. 624, The Social Security Number Fraud Prevention Act of 2017", Social Security Legislative Bulletin, Number 115-5, September 19, 2017, at https://www.ssa.gov/legislation/legis_bulletin_091917.html.

⁴⁴³ Congressional Record, daily edition, May 24, 2017, House, p. H4535.

⁴⁴⁴ Congressional Record, daily edition, September 6, 2017, Senate, p. S5020.

⁴⁴⁵ For related information, see SSA, "President Signs H.R. 4547, the Strengthening Protections for Social Security Beneficiaries Act of 2018," Social Security Legislative Bulletin, Number 115-9, April 24, 2018, at https://www.ssa.gov/legislation/legis_bulletin_042418.html.

protection and advocacy system for the purpose of conducting reviews of representative payees under Social Security and SSI.

Impetus for this law came as details emerged of significant cases of abuse by representative payees. In one case, reported by SSA's Office of Inspector General, a woman in Philadelphia imprisoned mentally ill adults and confiscated their Social Security benefits by identifying herself as their representative payee.⁴⁴⁶ This case, and similar ones, led to the publication of two reports by the Social Security Advisory Board: Representative Payees: A Call to Action (2016)⁴⁴⁷ and Improving Social Security's Representative Payee Program (2018).⁴⁴⁸ The GAO also published a report, SSA Representative Payee Program: Addressing Long-Term Challenges Requires a More Strategic Approach (2013).⁴⁴⁹

The Social Security Subcommittee of the House Committee on Ways and Means held hearings in 2017 on the representative payee program, including Examining the Social Security Administration's Representative Payee Program: Determining Who Needs Help on February 7, 2017,⁴⁵⁰ and Examining the Social Security Administration's Representative Payee Program: Who Provides Help on March 22, 2017.⁴⁵¹

P.L. 115-165 included a provision designed to enhance personal control by allowing beneficiaries to designate their preferred payee in advance. It directed SSA to take a greater role in assessing the appropriateness of representative payees, and banned individuals with certain criminal convictions from serving as payees. In addition, it prohibited individuals who have a payee from serving as a payee for others.

House Action

H.R. 4547 was introduced on December 5, 2017, by Representative Sam Johnson (R-TX). It was referred to the House Committee on Ways and Means. On February 5, 2018, the House moved to suspend the rules and passed H.R. 4547, as amended, by a vote of 396 (225-R, 171-D) to 0.⁴⁵²

⁴⁴⁶ SSA, OIG, "Philadelphia Woman Sentenced to Life in Prison in Racketeering and Hate Crimes Case," Office of Investigations, November 5, 2015, at <https://oig.ssa.gov/audits-and-investigations/investigations/nov5-weston-sentence>.

⁴⁴⁷ Social Security Advisory Board (SSAB), Representative Payees: A Call to Action, Issue Brief, March 3, 2016, at <https://www.ssab.gov/research/representative-payees-a-call-to-action/>.

⁴⁴⁸ SSAB, Improving Social Security's Representative Payee Program Report, January 11, 2018, at <https://www.ssab.gov/research/improving-social-securitys-representative-payee-program/>.

⁴⁴⁹ U.S. Government Accountability Office, SSA Representative Payee Program: Addressing Long-Term Challenges Requires a More Strategic Approach, GAO-13-473, May 2013, at <http://www.gao.gov/assets/660/654893.pdf>.

⁴⁵⁰ U.S. Congress, House Committee on Ways and Means, Subcommittees on Social Security and Oversight, Joint Hearing on Social Security's Representative Payee Program, hearing, 115th Cong., 1st sess., February 7, 2017, H.Hrg. 115-SS01, at <https://docs.house.gov/meetings/WM/WM01/20170207/105525/HHRG-115-WM01-20170207-SD001.pdf>.

⁴⁵¹ U.S. Congress, House Committee on Ways and Means, Subcommittees on Oversight and Social Security, Joint Hearing on Social Security's Representative Payee Program, hearing, 115th Cong., 1st sess., March 22, 2017, H.Hrg. 115-OS02 (Washington, DC: GPO, 2019), at <https://www.govinfo.gov/content/pkg/CHRG-115hhr33365/pdf/CHRG-115hhr33365.pdf>.

⁴⁵² Congressional Record, daily edition, February 5, 2018, House, Roll call no. 51, not voting 34, pp. H762-H763. Amendments to the bill included a change in the Short Title and new reporting requirements.

Senate Action

On March 23, 2018, the Senate passed the House bill without amendment by unanimous consent.⁴⁵³

P.L. 115-243, Tribal Social Security Fairness Act of 2018

President Donald Trump signed H.R. 6124, the Tribal Social Security Fairness Act of 2018, on September 20, 2018. The law amended Title II of the Social Security Act and directed SSA to extend OASDI benefits to tribal council leaders, if requested to do so by an Indian tribe. The law also allowed tribal council members to receive Social Security credit for taxes paid prior to the establishment of the agreement, if taxes were paid in good faith and not subsequently refunded. It reversed an SSA policy that prevented tribal leaders from being covered under the Social Security program.⁴⁵⁴

House Action

H.R. 6124 was introduced by Representative Dave Reichert (R-WA) on June 15, 2018. An amendment in the nature of a substitute was presented in the Committee on Ways and Means by Representative Kevin Brady (R-TX). The substitute amendment was adopted by a voice vote in committee on June 21, 2018.

H.R. 6124, as amended, was considered by the House under suspension of the rules and passed by a voice vote on July 24, 2018.⁴⁵⁵

Senate Action

On September 6, 2018, the House bill passed the Senate without amendment by unanimous consent.⁴⁵⁶

P.L. 115-174, Economic Growth, Regulatory Relief, and Consumer Protection Act

President Donald Trump signed S. 2155, the Economic Growth, Regulatory Relief, and Consumer Protection Act, on May 24, 2018. Section 215 required SSA to accept the electronic signature of an individual who consents to allow a financial institution to verify his or her name, date of birth, and SSN using SSA's Consent Based Social Security Number Verification (CBSV) Service.⁴⁵⁷

⁴⁵³ Congressional Record, daily edition, March 22, 2018, Senate, p. S1982.

⁴⁵⁴ The prior policy can be found in the SSA, Program Operations Manual System, Section RS 01901.700 (accessed 12/18/2018) stating, "Services Performed by Members of Indian Tribal Councils: Services performed by members of Indian tribal councils in their capacities as council members do not constitute employment under Section 210 of the Social Security Act. Therefore, remuneration paid to Indian tribal council members is not subject to taxation under the Federal Insurance Contributions Act and their services are not covered under Social Security and Medicare."

⁴⁵⁵ Congressional Record, daily edition, July 4, 2018, House, p. H7118.

⁴⁵⁶ Congressional Record, daily edition, September 6, 2018, Senate, p. S6103.

⁴⁵⁷ For related information, see SSA, "Senate Passes S.2155, the Economic Growth, Regulatory Relief, and Consumer Protection Act," Social Security Legislative Bulletin, Number 115-8, March 29, 2018, at https://www.ssa.gov/legislation/legis_bulletin_032918.html.

Some identity thieves use a technique called synthetic identity theft in which they apply for credit using a mixture of real, verifiable information of an existing person with fictitious information, thus creating a “synthetic” identity. Often the information includes real SSNs of people who are unlikely to have existing credit files, such as children or recent immigrants.⁴⁵⁸ CBSV was created to fight identity fraud such as this, but prior to the enactment of P.L. 115-174 it required financial institutions to obtain a physical written signature to make a verification request. Some observers believed this requirement was outdated and time consuming, undermining the effectiveness of the program.⁴⁵⁹ Section 215 aimed to modernize SSA’s verification system and make it more efficient by allowing the use of electronic signatures.

Section 215 directed SSA to allow certain financial institutions to receive customers’ consent by electronic signature to verify their name, date of birth, and SSN with SSA. In addition, the section directed SSA to modify their databases and systems to allow financial institutions to electronically and quickly request and receive accurate verification of the consumer data.⁴⁶⁰

Senate Action

Senator Mike Crapo introduced S. 2155 on November 16, 2017. As introduced, the bill did not include any Social Security provisions. S.Amdt. 2151, an amendment in the nature of a substitute, which included the Social Security provisions in Section 215, was offered on the Senate floor on March 7, 2018.⁴⁶¹ During floor debate, Senator Tim Scott identified himself as the author of the provisions in Section 215.⁴⁶² Senator Scott explained that the purpose of Section 215 was to reduce synthetic identity theft by providing options for entities to crosscheck consumer information with SSA. Senator Scott also expressed his expectation that the database that SSA would create to allow this cross check to occur would be operational within one year of enactment.

S.Amdt. 2151, as modified, passed the Senate by a roll call vote of 67 (R-50, D-16, I-1) to 31 (D-30, I-1) on March 14, 2018.⁴⁶³

House Action

On May 22, 2018, the House passed the Senate version of the bill in a roll call vote of 258 (R-225, D-33) to 159 (R-1, D-158).⁴⁶⁴

⁴⁵⁸ Representative Randy Hultgren, “How to Better Combat Identity Fraud,” Crain’s Chicago Business, March 9, 2018.

⁴⁵⁹ Letter from Senators Bill Cassidy, Tim Scott, Claire McCaskill and Gary Peters, to Nancy A. Berryhill, Acting Commissioner of Social Security, February 12, 2018, at <https://www.cassidy.senate.gov/imo/media/doc/Synthetic%20Identity%20Fraud.pdf>.

⁴⁶⁰ This overview was adapted from CRS Report R45073, Economic Growth, Regulatory Relief, and Consumer Protection Act (P.L. 115-174) and Selected Policy Issues.

⁴⁶¹ Congressional Record, daily edition, March 8, 2018, Senate, pp. S1529-S1565.

⁴⁶² Congressional Record, daily edition, March 14, 2018, Senate, p. S1714.

⁴⁶³ Congressional Record, daily edition, March 14, 2018, Senate, Roll call no. 54, not voting 2, p. S1730.

⁴⁶⁴ Congressional Record, daily edition, May 22, 2018, House, Roll call no. 216, not voting 10, p. H4367.

P.L. 116-250, ALS Disability Insurance Access Act of 2019

President Donald Trump signed S. 578 on December 22, 2020. The law eliminates the five-month waiting period for disability insurance benefits for disabled workers with amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS, also known as Lou Gehrig’s disease).⁴⁶⁵

Under its Compassionate Allowances (CAL) initiative, SSA expedites claims involving certain impairments that invariably meet DI’s disability standard, including ALS. The average processing time for CAL claims is 39 days, compared with 110-114 days for all initial disability claims.⁴⁶⁶ However, this fast-track process has no effect on the five-month waiting period. Thus, upon receiving an award notice from SSA, most ALS disabled workers were required to wait the remainder of the five-month period before becoming entitled to disability insurance benefits.

P.L. 116-250 amends Title II of the Social Security Act to specify that an individual who meets the requirements for disability insurance benefits and who is medically determined to have ALS shall be entitled to such benefits beginning with the first month during all of which the individual is under a disability.⁴⁶⁷ In effect, the law eliminates the five-month waiting period for disabled workers with ALS.⁴⁶⁸

Senate Action

Senator Sheldon Whitehouse introduced S. 578 on February 27, 2019.

On December 2, 2020, the Senate proceeded to consider S. 578. Senator Mitch McConnell offered an amendment, S.Amdt. 2689, on behalf of Senator Charles Grassley to increase the Social Security overpayment collection threshold from $10 to 10% of benefits, which was a proposal in the President’s FY2021 budget.⁴⁶⁹ Senator Grassley noted that the amendment was designed to offset the bill’s cost as well as possible future costs from similar waivers that lawmakers might one day provide for other types of impairments. S.Amdt. 2689 was defeated by a vote of 48 (R-48, D-0) to 49 (R-3, D-45, I-1).⁴⁷⁰ The Senate then passed S. 578 by a roll call vote of 96 (R-51, D-44, I-1) to 1 (R-1).⁴⁷¹

In justifying his vote against the bill, Senator Mike Lee stated he supported eliminating the waiting period for ALS patients, but he believed the bill’s provisions should have been extended ⁴⁶⁵ For related information, see SSA, “President Signs S.578, the “ALS Disability Insurance Access Act of 2019,” Social Security Legislative Bulletin, Number 116-26, December 28, 2020, at https://www.ssa.gov/legislation/legis_bulletin_122220.html.

⁴⁶⁶ U.S. Congress, House Committee on Ways and Means, Subcommittee on Social Security, Determining Eligibility for Disability Benefits: Challenges Facing the Social Security Administration, hearing, 115th Congress, 1st sess., September 6, 2017 (Washington, DC: GPO, 2017), p. 82, at <https://www.govinfo.gov/content/pkg/CHRG-115hhr33616/pdf/CHRG-115hhr33616.pdf>.

⁴⁶⁷ This overview was adapted from CRS Insight IN11551, The ALS Disability Insurance Access Act of 2019 (S. 578).

⁴⁶⁸ P.L. 117-3 made a technical correction to the effective date established by P.L. 116-250. Initially, P.L. 116-250 eliminated the five-month waiting period for disabled workers with ALS who apply for benefits on or after December 23, 2020. P.L. 117-3 amended P.L. 116-250 to eliminate the five-month waiting period for disabled workers with ALS who are approved for benefits on or after July 23, 2020. The technical correction was designed to capture those disabled workers with ALS who applied for benefits on or before the date of P.L. 116-250’s enactment (December 22, 2020) but who were still subject to the five-month waiting period requirement when the legislation was signed into law.

⁴⁶⁹ Congressional Record, daily edition, December 2, 2020, Senate, p. S7157.

⁴⁷⁰ Congressional Record, daily edition, December 2, 2020, Senate, Roll call no. 249, not voting 3, p. S7163.

⁴⁷¹ Congressional Record, daily edition, December 2, 2020, Senate, Roll call no. 250, not voting 3, p. S7164.

to individuals with other incurable and fatal diseases, some of which have lower average life expectancies than ALS.⁴⁷²

House Action

On December 8, 2020, the House proceeded to consider S. 578. After multiple members shared testimonials to express support of the bill, the House passed the Senate version of the bill by voice vote, under suspension of the rules.⁴⁷³

P.L. 116-260, Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2021

On December 27, 2020, President Trump signed H.R. 133, the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2021, which combines FY2021 appropriations with stimulus and other measures. Division FF, Title VIII, Section 801, of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2021 (“Access to Death Information Furnished to or Maintained by the Social Security Administration”), amends Section 205(r) of the Social Security Act to ensure that states and SSA are reimbursed for state death information, and to require SSA to share state death information with the Department of the Treasury for its Do Not Pay (DNP) system.⁴⁷⁴

The amendments to Section 205(r) require SSA to establish a new fee structure for SSA to pay states for death data and require agencies receiving death data from SSA to reimburse SSA for their proportional share of the cost of obtaining the data and the full cost of sharing the data.⁴⁷⁵ Under this law, SSA payments to states shall include additional fees to pay for the expanded federal use of state death data and will reimburse a share of the costs to the state for the following activities: (1) collecting and maintaining death data; (2) ensuring the completeness, timeliness, and accuracy of death data; and (3) maintaining, enhancing, and operating the systems for transmitting death data to SSA. The law does not permit SSA to use funds from its Limitations on Administrative Expenses appropriation for payments to the states, except as determined by the Commissioner of Social Security on a temporary basis and subject to reimbursement from agencies that receive death data from SSA.

Under this law, reimbursement to SSA from agencies that receive death data from SSA is required to consist of the recipient agency’s share of the following costs, as determined by the Commissioner of Social Security in consultation with the head of the recipient agency: (1) SSA’s payments to the states to obtain the data, (2) the cost to SSA of establishing death data contracts with the states, and (3) the cost to SSA of carrying out a new study on options for obtaining and distributing death data (described below). The provision requires the recipient agency to reimburse SSA for the full cost to SSA of transmitting death data to the recipient agency. The same reimbursement requirement applies to agencies that receive death data from SSA for statistical and research purposes.

The provision authorizes SSA to notify states and affected individuals of corrections to erroneous deaths and requires SSA to share its full file of death information (including state-reported death data) with DNP to prevent improper payments to deceased individuals. The provision specifies

⁴⁷² Congressional Record, daily edition, December 2, 2020, Senate, p. S7169.

⁴⁷³ Congressional Record, daily edition, December 8, 2020, House, pp. H6988-H6991.

⁴⁷⁴ For related information, see SSA, “President Signs the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2021,” Social Security Legislative Bulletin, Number 116-27, December 28, 2020, at https://www.ssa.gov/legislation/legis_bulletin_122720.html.

⁴⁷⁵ This overview was adapted from CRS Report R46640, The Social Security Administration’s Death Data: In Brief, by Paul S. Davies.

that data sharing with DNP will take place for a three-year period beginning three years after enactment. Death data sharing arrangements between SSA and DNP after the three-year period ends are not specified.

In addition, the legislation includes a requirement for SSA to commission a study, within 180 days of enactment, to be conducted by the National Academy of Public Administration of the current and potential sources for, and provision of access to, state death data for use by federal agencies for program administration and program integrity purposes. The study is to assess the strengths and limitations of options for distributing state-reported death data to federal agencies, including distribution via SSA as well as federal agencies contracting directly with states, and shall also address options for reimbursement structures. Although the act does not specify a due date, SSA is required to transmit the completed study to the House Committees on Ways and Means and Oversight and Reform and the Senate Committees on Finance and Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs.

House Action

Representative Cuellar introduced H.R. 133 on January 3, 2019. As introduced, the bill did not include any Social Security provisions. The final version of the provision, “Access to Death Information Furnished to or Maintained by the Social Security Administration,” was introduced as part of a House amendment in the nature of a substitute to the Senate Amendment to H.R. 133 on December 21, 2020, by Representative Nita Lowey.⁴⁷⁶ The House amendment in the nature of a substitute included the provision, “Access to Death Information Furnished to or Maintained by the Social Security Administration” in Division FF, Title VIII.⁴⁷⁷ The House voted three times on the bill. The first vote was a vote limited to Divisions B, C, E, and F. The vote asked, “Will the House concur in the Senate amendment with the matter proposed to be inserted as Divisions B, C, E, and F of the amendment of the House?” This vote did not involve any Social Security provisions and passed, 327 (R-134, D-192, I-1) to 85 (R-43, D-41, I-1).⁴⁷⁸ The second vote addressed, “Will the House concur in the Senate amendment with all of the matter proposed to be inserted by the amendment of the House other than Divisions B, C, E, and F?” (emphasis added). This vote included Division FF, which included the Social Security provisions. It passed, 359 (R-128, D-230, I-1) to 53 (R-50, D-2, I-1).⁴⁷⁹ The third vote addressed whether the House agreed to an amendment to the Senate amendment and was agreed to without objection.⁴⁸⁰

Senate Action

On December 21, 2020, the Senate passed the House amendment to the Senate amendment to H.R. 133, 92 (R-47, D-43, I-2) to 6 (R-6, D-0).⁴⁸¹

⁴⁷⁶ Congressional Record, daily edition, December 21, 2020, House, p. H7301.

⁴⁷⁷ Congressional Record, daily edition, December 21, 2020, House, pp. H7852-H7853. Also at U.S. Congress, House Committee on Rules, Text of the House Amendment to the Senate Amendment to H.R. 133 (showing the text of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2021), committee print, 116th Cong., 2nd sess., December 21, 2020, Rules Committee Print 116-68 (Washington, DC: GPO, 2020), at <https://rules.house.gov/sites/democrats.rules.house.gov/files/BILLS-116HR133SA-RCP-116-68.pdf>

⁴⁷⁸ Congressional Record, daily edition, December 21, 2020, House, Roll call no. 250, not voting 18, p. H7313.

⁴⁷⁹ Congressional Record, daily edition, December 21, 2020, House, Roll call no. 251, not voting 17, p. H7314.

⁴⁸⁰ Congressional Record, daily edition, December 21, 2020, House, pp. H7323-H7878.

⁴⁸¹ Congressional Record, daily edition, December 21, 2020, Senate, Roll call no. 289, not voting 2, p. S7927.

During the 117th Congress, no legislation was enacted to amend the Social Security program or directly alter its financing provisions.

Appendix. List of Acronyms

Acronym	Description
AMA	American Medical Association
CBSV	Consent Based Social Security Number Verification
COLA	Cost-of-Living Adjustment
DHHS	Department of Health and Human Services
DI	Disability Insurance
DNP	Do Not Pay
DRC	Delayed Retirement Credit
FICA	Federal Insurance Contributions Act
FRA	Full Retirement Age
FSA	Federal Security Agency
GAO	Government Accountability Office
GPO	Government Pension Offset
GRH	Gramm-Rudman-Hollings
HI	Hospital Insurance
NICS	National Instant Criminal Background Check System
OAA	Old-Age Assistance
OASDI	Old Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance (also referred to as Social Security)
OASI	Old-Age and Survivors Insurance
PIA	Primary Insurance Amount
SECA	Self-Employed Contributions Act
SMI	Supplementary Medical Insurance
SSA	Social Security Administration
SSAB	Social Security Advisory Board
SSI	Supplemental Security Income
SSDI	Social Security Disability Insurance
SSN	Social Security Number

Author Information

Tamar B. Breslauer
Senior Research Librarian

William R. Morton
Analyst in Income Security

Disclaimer

This document was prepared by the Congressional Research Service (CRS). CRS serves as nonpartisan shared staff to congressional committees and Members of Congress. It operates solely at the behest of and under the direction of Congress. Information in a CRS Report should not be relied upon for purposes other than public understanding of information that has been provided by CRS to Members of Congress in connection with CRS's institutional role. CRS Reports, as a work of the United States Government, are not subject to copyright protection in the United States. Any CRS Report may be reproduced and distributed in its entirety without permission from CRS. However, as a CRS Report may include copyrighted images or material from a third party, you may need to obtain the permission of the copyright holder if you wish to copy or otherwise use copyrighted material.